PRESIDENT ASKS QUICK REPAIR OF BANKRUPT LAW

Move as Emergency Act Toward Recovery Is Advocated.

WOULD AVERT VAST LOSSES AND ABUSES

Congress, After Year's Study of First Appeal, Pledges Early Action.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

In a special message to Congress yesterday, President Hoover again urged prompt overhauling of the Federal bankruptcy laws, to facilitate adjustments of contractual debts by negotiated agreement under the supervision of the district courts.

Such action, he said, would eliminate tremendous losses involved in formal bankruptcy proceedings under existing law and sharply curtail, in many instances, extravagance in the administration of the bankrupt's affairs, which now falls heavily upon the debtor and the creditor alike.

Whereas his special message on the subject last February advocated general revision of the bankruptcy statutes as a measure of general legal reform, yesterday's communication stressed the urgent need for such action as an emergency step toward national economic recovery.

Liquidation Through Foreclosure.

"The process of forced liquidation through foreclosure and bankruptcy," the President's message said, in part, "is utterly destructive to the interests of debtor and creditor alike, and if this process is allowed to take its usual course misery will be suffered by thousands without substantial gain to the creditors who insist upon liquidation and foreclosure in the vain hope of collecting their claims."

Far better for all concerned, Mr. Hoover suggested, for debtor and creditor to come to terms under the general supervision of the court, thus preserving the going value of the individual or corporatoin, without the damaging credit stigma of bankruptcy.

"In the great majority of cases such liquidation under present conditions is so futile and destructive that voluntary readjustment through the extension or composition of individual debts and the reorganization of corporations must be desirable to a large majority of the creditors."

Applicable to Railroads.

The proposed revision of the law would be made applicable specifically to railroads, but under conditions that no reorganization plan shall become effective until approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Such legislation has been pending in the judiciary committees of both the House and Senate since last winter, but its sponsors have been unable to secure action on either side. Chairman Norris of the Senate com-

Escaped Prisoner's Plea Is Refused by Governor

Denver, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Edwin C. Johnson late today informed Glenn Smeeman, escaped prisoner, known in Cleveland as Harry Stanley, that he had no power to grant Smeeman's request to return to Cleveland for 60 or 90 days pending a formal appeal for a pardon. Warden Roy Best will take Smeeman back to the State Penitentiary at Canon City tomorrow.

Smeeman and George A. Bronson, his business partner, said an appeal for a pardon would be made within 30 days.

Exit Volpe

Capone's Ally Is Ordered Deported as Court Reverses Case.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Trouble from Federal sources struck Chicago's gangland again today as deportation was ordered for one of its "public enemies," Anthony "Mops" Volpe.

Reversing a previous decision in a two-year-old prosecution, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ordered Volpe, long a powerful figure in the Capone liquor and vice organizations, be returned to Italy.

The gangster's attorney, seeking every delay and hole, announced an appeal would be made to the Supreme Court.

For the Federal attorneys, who have directed the Government's cam-

REYNOLDS BABY HUB OF FORTUNE BATTLE

"Hot-Bed" Infant and Libby Holman Doing Well; Will Fight for Millions.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A fight for the Reynolds tobacco millions will be made on behalf of the tiny infant now lying in a Philadelphia hospital's "hot bed," Libby Holman Reynolds' lawyer announced today.

If Mrs. Reynolds and her attorneys have their way, the baby born to the former torch singer yesterday will become one of the Nation's wealthiest children.

The baby, "doing nicely" although he weighs only 3½ pounds, was born about six months after the death of his father, Smith Reynolds, and the only will which has been found was made before Reynolds had married Libby Holman.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Reynolds is prepared to claim on behalf of herself and her child not only the interest on a trust fund settled by the late Joshua Reynolds on his son, Smith Reynolds, but the approximately $15,000,000 trust fund itself.

Arnold J. Brock, her attorney, told of the claims today. Future action will depend, he said, on conferences between the interested parties. One thing to be decided is whether to oppose the probate of the Smith Reynolds will, which has been offered in a New York court.

There are two different bases, Brock said, for the claims to the $15,000,000 principal and to the accrued income, which he estimated at "several million."

The latter, comprising Smith Reynold's personal estate, will be claimed under a 1930 New York statute, which Brock described as providing that if a child is born after a man makes a will the child inherits two-thirds of the estate and the widow the other third.

Young Reynolds' will was made in New York, August 21, 1931, when he was 19 years old. Wills may be made in this State by persons over the age of 18, and the validity of the document is not disputed on the score of Reynolds' age.

The claim to the $15,000,000 principal was outlined by Brock as follows: Reynolds' father, in his will setting up the trust fund which has

Voodooism Hinted In Fort Murders

Federal Probe Opened in Death of Two Army Officers and Wives.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—John C. Gung'l, United States district attorney for Arizona, said today he had been placed in charge of the investigation into the fatal shooting of two Army officers and their wives by a Negro private at Fort Huachuca recently.

Gung'l said his inst actions from Washington included a reference to voodooism, sorcery rites which include human sacrifice, but refused to comment further.

James H. Abernathy, private at the fort, ran wild in "Officers' Row" last December 29, killing Capt. and Mrs. Joseph R. Vessely and Capt. and Mrs. David A. Palmer and wounding First Lieut. Marvie W. R. Matthews before he was shot to death by Provost Corpl. Peter Hardley. Gung'l said he planned to go to Fort Huachuca soon.

Lehman Orders Probe Of Election Violations

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 11 (U.P.).—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman made public tonight a letter he sent to Louis Waldman, State chairman of the Socialist party, in which the chief executive revealed he had instructed the district attorney of New York County to investigate thoroughly reports of flagrant violation of election ballots.

The governor's letter to Waldman was in answer to one of the Socialist, charging laxity in prosecution of violators.

CAMPBELL HITS ECONOMY RIDER AS SPOILS STEP

Civil Service Head Raps Proposal to Abolish Personnel Records.

CALLS ON SENATORS IN PROTESTING MOVE

14 Arguments Are Offered by Him to Show Present Plan Also Saves Cash.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Chairman Thomas E. Campbell, of the Civil Service Commission, yesterday told senators the Senate Economy Committee's recommendations affecting the commission will deal "the most serious blow to the merit system in 40 years."

In a lengthy memorandum, Mr. Campbell urged senators to strike from the Treasury-Postoffice bill the section depriving the commission of the right to keep personnel records of employes in the various departments.

"The Civil Service Commission would be left without effective means of insuring a fair and impartial administration of the Civil Service law and rules," the memorandum stated.

King for Fourth Cut.

Meanwhile Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, offered an amendment to reduce the Federal personnel by 25 per cent. The amendment would prohibit new appointments until deaths, retirements, resignations and discharges had cut down the total number of employes one-fourth.

Gov. Campbell, who called on a number of senators at the Capitol yesterday, thinks the economy committee's proposal would prove a broad step backward in the direction of the spoils system. He does not believe the committee is conscious of the scope of its proposal, he said. He had asked, instead, that Civil Service supervision over records be tightened in the various departments.

"Employes without proper classified status, or without any classified status at all, could be placed on the pay roll of any department or office and receive compensation, under the proposal bill, as there would be no requirement for approval of records by the Civil Service Commission nor a requirement for such approval before the Comptroller General audits and approves the pay rolls," his memorandum stated.

Wants Own Records.

He pointed out that the Civil Service Commission, as a regulatory body, for its own protection should have its own records, and should not

Attacker to Be Hanged Is Put in Death Room

Joplin, Mo., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Harry Worden, condemned to be hanged January 20 for assaulting a high school girl, today was placed in a room in which the trap through which he will drop to his death is being built.

Sheriff Oll Rogers said the room is the only one in jail where the doomed man can be kept in solitary confinement.

Sir Malcolm Expects To Attain 300 M. P. H.

London, Jan. 11 (U.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell expects to attempt to establish a mark of 300 M. P. H. when he conducts automobile speed trials at Daytona Beach, Fla., next month, he said today.

Sir Malcolm is holder of the world's record at 253.968 M. P. H.

Rioting Continues General in Spain

Death Toll Rises to 42, With Scores Hurt and Under Arrest.

Madrid, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Outbreaks of anarchist and syndicalist violence, which began Sunday, continued in many Spanish cities tonight, although governmental authorities declared their belief that the disturbances had definitely been quelled.

It was estimated that at least 42 persons have been killed during the disturbances, which have been marked by frequent bomb explosions, seizure by extremists of public buildings and documents and efforts to disrupt communications.

The number of persons injured has not been officially estimated, but it is thought that the toll will reach far above 100. Numerous persons have been arrested.

Kind-Hearted Bailiff Gives Up Eviction Job

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Charles Green is a landlord, but he can't turn people into the street. That's why he gave up a $1,700-a-year job today.

Green's tenants couldn't pay their rent and his little grocery store showed almost no profit, so he was glad the other day to get a job as deputy bailiff. They sent him out serving eviction notices.

He served some of them, but when he came to a cold home where a sick mother and three children were huddled in bed, he gave up. He left some money and went back to the City Hall.

"I'm resigning," he announced. "I could not sleep last night because I had served some notices, and I kept worrying over what would become of the evicted families. You can give the job to somebody else."

JAPANESE SOLDIERS MARCH INTO JEHOL

Chinese Lose at Ciumenkow; Tokyo Says Declaration of War Unlikely.

(Associated Press.)

Chinese press dispatches received in Shanghai yesterday indicated that the long-expected Japanese campaign to conquer the Chinese province of Jehol was getting under way.

Shanghai heard that 10,000 Japanese soldiers were marching into the disputed province.

In Peiping the Japanese legation announced that the Chinese had been driven from Ciumenkow, a pass through the Great Wall north of Shanhaikwan. This pass is one of the connecting links between China proper and Jehol. Foreign military observers in Peiping minimized the importance of its capture, saying there were many others through which communication would be possible.

China protested to Japan against the occupation last week of Shanhaikwan, Chinese city at the eastern end of the Great Wall. Japan replied that it "expressly reserves the right to make demands" in connection with any settlement of the conflict.

Shanghai, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Ten thousand Japanese soldiers are marching into the Province of Jehol, Chinese press dispatches said today, en route to Lingyuan, which is about 90 miles north of Shanhaikwan, the

Unconscious Man Found Near Still

Is Discovered in His Room by Landlord; May Be Fumes Victim.

Found gasping for breath and unconscious in his basement room at 1420 Seventeenth street northwest yesterday morning, Christian Bertram, 56, was still unconscious at Emergency Hospital last night, with the cause undetermined.

The man, an unemployed waiter, was found by James Swinney, his landlord. Police reported that a 5-gallon still was in operation in the room, and it is believed he may have been overcome by the fumes from the still.

Police also found 3 gallons of alleged liquor in the room, and charges of violation of the prohibition law were placed against the man at Third Precinct station.

SENATE'S STOCK QUIZ DISCLOSES KREUGER DEALS

$20,000,000 U. S. LOSS ON ONE ISSUE IS TOLD

New York Mart Approved Transaction, Committee Is Informed.

(Associated Press.)

A dramatic tale of growing suspicion as Ivar Kreuger, sick and possibly out of his mind, saw his gigantic financial empire crumble away and approached his tragic end was unfolded yesterday with the resumption of the Senate's spectacular investigation of stock market practices.

Earlier the banking committee, conducting the inquiry, had been told that while the "match king" lay in Paris dead by his own hand, heavy foreign holdings of Kreuger and Toll securities were unloaded before word of the suicide was given to the public.

It was informed, too, that American investors had lost some $20,000,000 in a single issue of Kreuger and Toll bonds on which inferior collateral had been substituted for sound securities, and heard an assertion that the New York Stock Exchange approved the agreement under which this was possible.

Dealings Described.

But committee members and a throng of spectators leaned forward, more than ever intent, when A. D. Birning, of the New York accounting firm of Ernst & Ernst, took the stand as night was falling and described his dealings with Kreuger in the last two weeks of the financier's life.

He gave a vivid portrayal of Kreuger as he appeared when seeking to avert by manipulations and evasive statements the nemesis which was closing in upon him.

"When did you first suspect irregularities in Kreuger and Toll or any of its subsidiaries?" asked John Marrinan, a committee investigator, after Birning had testified an understanding was reached in the summer of 1931 that his firm should begin an audit of Kreuger's Interna-

Manslaughter Is Charged To Two in Worker's Fall

Charging them with negligence, Thomas Cass, 44, of Baltimore, foreman, and Louis D. Biancelles, 44, of 102 Quincy place northwest, assistant foreman of the construction company, were held on manslaughter charges for grand jury action yesterday by a coroner's jury after an investigation yesterday into the death of Frank Demato, 49, of Baltimore, a carpenter, who fell Tuesday while working on a steam tunnel at Tenth and Constitution avenue.

Demato fell about 15 feet headlong from a slippery plank bridging the tunnel. He died on the way to Emergency Hospital.

With a former cowboy and prize fighter arguing against boxing, and a college dean upholding the fistic art, the Board of Education listened to a two-hour debate yesterday afternoon on the question of whether high school gymnasiums should be thrown open for this sport to colleges.

At the end of the forensic battle, the board decided to have its committee on community use of buildings weigh the arguments and return a verdict at a meeting next Wednesday. The board then will render a decision on the basis of committee recommendation.

In the meantime, the committee invites opinions on the question of boxing from other groups and indi-

TRUNK MURDER HUNT ENDS AT RICHMOND

Body of Landlord Slain by New York Janitor and Aid Is Found.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The body of Nathan Reigrod, New York apartment house owner, whose slaying was confessed today by two New York Negroes, arrived at Broad Street Station tonight in a cheap trunk.

Pending instructions from New York authorities, the body was held at a Richmond undertaking establishment.

Express tickets showed that the shipment had been valued by the killers at $15. They paid $5.81 to send the trunk. The receipt showed also that the trunk, purported to have been sent from 283 West Seventy-seventh street, was addressed to one R. Smith, of 284 Lee street, Richmond.

The only Lee street here is a short extension of another street in South Richmond. Detectives assumed the senders had in mind Leigh street, which is one of the principal thoroughfares in the Richmond Negro section.

Detectives and express officials who had checked earlier trains, were on

Fifi Widener Takes Her Third Husband

Aksel C. O. Wichfeld, Once Danish Attache Here, Is Bridegroom.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 11 (U.P.).—Josephine "Fifi" Widener, Philadelphia heiress, and Aksel C. O. Wichfeld, former attache of the Danish Legation in Washington, were married here today shortly after Wichfeld secured a divorce.

It was the third marriage for Miss Widener, only daughter of Joseph E. Widener, millionaire sportsman. Mr. Wichfeld secured a divorce in Carson City from Mabel Swift Wichfeld on charges of extreme cruelty.

Tucking the decree in his pocket, he immediately obtained a marriage license and returned to Reno, where he and Miss Widener were married.

SENATE UNIT FAVORS ARMS EMBARGO IDEA

Increase in Hoover's Power Due to Be Voted Without Much Opposition.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday gave favorable consideration to the President's request for additional executive authority to control the international arms traffic. A resolution was reported to the Senate giving the President authority after consultation with other governments to pronounce an embargo on all shipments of arms or munitions of war.

Chairman William E. Borah announced after the hearings his intention of bringing action on the resolution before the Senate this session. From all indications yesterday, it is believed the proposal will be adopted without great difficulty.

Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, Jr., appeared before the committee and reviewed the practical considerations which counseled the action of the President and his Secretary of State. On Tuesday the President had dispatched a special message to Congress asking for ratification of the arms control treaty of 1925, which has lain dormant in the Senate for the last seven years. The President proposed, however, an alternative choice in the event the Congress was unwilling to ratify the treaty, and it is

Dean Summoned As Tax Witness

Dow Is Arrested in Trial of Prominent Capital Resident.

While a Federal grand jury in Baltimore continued its probe into the income tax status of a well known Washington attorney, Edward A. Dean, sr., retired Washington real estate operator, who is said to have started the investigation, was called as a witness. Identity of the local lawyer who is subject of the quiz has not been disclosed.

Meanwhile, William J. Dow, disbarred attorney here, was arrested by United States officers yesterday on an alleged failure to answer a summons to the inquiry. He told United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage that he had no intention of dodging the summons, but that it was not correctly dated.

Taken to Baltimore, Dow was later released under a bond of $500. He was the second to be arrested in the probe. Mrs. Leitha Lowe, of Washington, was taken into custody Tuesday for her alleged refusal to testify. She also was released under $500 bond.

Friends Fear Hinkler, Missing Flier, Is Dead

London, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Friends feared tonight that disaster had overtaken Bert Hinkler, famous Australian airman, who has been missing five days on a flight by stages from Feltham, England, to Australia.

Capt. Hope, who is organizing a searching party, said he believed the aviator was dead.

MAN WHO HELD HOUSE AT BAY IS SENT HOME

ACTION DECIDED ON AFTER CONFERENCE

Rover, Lichtenwalner and Maas Agree This Step Would Be Best.

By ROSCOE CONKLIN.

Marlin R. M. Kemmerer, 25, of Allentown, Pa., who startled the Nation when on December 13 he wielded in the House of Representatives a heavily loaded .38 caliber pistol, late yesterday was unofficially pardoned for his temerity when two members of the House of Representatives and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover agreed that the best interests of the young man would be served by sending him to his home.

In company with members of his family, Kemmerer, who was said to be decidedly contrite about his bizarre attempt to thrust himself into a debate in the House of Representatives at the point of a pistol, left for his home, with the promise that he would get back his position with a nationally known mail order house and would henceforth deport himself in a more appropriate manner.

Kemmerer, in the late afternoon of December 13, attracted interest, when, with a pistol fully loaded, he threw his leg over the balcony of the House of Representatives floor and demanded attention.

Threw House Into Turmoil.

He shouted that he wished to address himself to the problem of caring for the Nation's more unfortunate victims, and as he gesticulated wildly with his pistol he threw the House into turmoil.

From out of this disorder Representative Melvin J. Maas, of Minnesota, arose a hero. He stalked to the point on the floor under Kemmerer and suggested that the youth give up his gun. In compliance, Kemmerer dropped his weapon into Maas' hands and was then promptly arrested. The next day, in Police Court, he was ordered sent to the Gallinger Hospital for mental observation when members of his immediate family suggested that his actions were unusual.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist, reported after a lengthy daily examination that Kemmerer was legally sane, but he recommended that he be sent to his home in the company of his brothers.

Promises No Further Trouble.

Yesterday Representative Maas and Representative Norton L. Lichtenwalner, who hails from Kemmerer's home town, and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover conferred about the problem of handling Kemmerer. All agreed that the best interests of the young man would be served by sending him to his home, inasmuch as he declared he would not in the future indulge in such spectacular antics.

He is said to have informed the three that he knew now that he had gone about the matter in the wrong way, and that he would refrain from such indulgences hereafter.

On that statement, Mr. Rover recommended that he be paroled in the custody of his family, with the charge against him left in the balance, pending Kemmerer's good conduct in the future. Representative Maas and Representative Lichenwalner agreed that this would be the best proced-

One Dead, 11 Swept Away From Naval Craft in Gale

Aircraft Carrier Saratoga and Cruisers Chicago, Pensacola and Raleigh Lose Men While Battling Storm in Pacific.

Los Angeles, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A sailor was drowned and eleven other naval seamen disappeared today in the teeth of a gale, which swept land and sea alike, sometimes reaching a velocity of 80 miles an hour as it wrought destruction in a dozen Southern California cities.

The sailor was blown from a gangplank of the cruiser Raleigh into the storm-tossed harbor at San Pedro. Two other seamen from the cruiser Chicago, three from the aircraft carrier Saratoga, and six more from the cruiser Pensacola disappeared as they attempted to lash fast shore boats.

The missing men were in small naval boats and fear was expressed they had capsized or were blown far from shore. The names of the dead and missing were not contained in naval reports.

Radio inquiries to the ships had not brought a reply late tonight. The men were still listed as missing.

The coast and cities lining it were filled with debris. In the San Pedro Harbor area, at least a score of boats littered the beaches, some of them total wrecks. Ashore, the business districts of cities were strewed with broken glass, and in the oil fields more than 130 derricks had toppled before the wind.

The damage ran into many thousands of dollars, but an accurate estimate was impossible. Some officials readily predicted a total loss of well over a million dollars.

Among the wrecked craft were a naval officers' barge, valued at $12,000, and the racing cruiser, Marin, a $10,000 vessel. The luxurious yacht, Talayaha, owned by Lazard Lippman, sportsman, was pounded ashore at Cabrillo Beach. Barges, shore boats and other smaller official craft were washed ashore and a number of private boats were piled up on the beaches.

The streets of San Pedro and Long Beach were sprinkled with debris. Hundreds of show windows were shattered. Goods swirled about in the shops and in some instances carried down streets. Damage was caused to mercantile stocks by choking clouds of dust.

STEWARD STRONGLY RAPS PAY-CUT PLAN

Likens Proposal to Work of Somewhat Subnormal Children.

The economy legislation for the Federal Government now pending in Congress, which would further reduce the salaries of employes, was likened to the work of "somewhat subnormal children" by Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, at a banquet last night in honor of the executive council of the federation at Willard Hotel.

Mr. Steward said it would be necessary to refer to "Alice in Wonderland" for an explanation of the fantastic antics of the present Congress. "The economy legislation enacted at the last Congress was a monstrosity and broke all records for stupidity," Mr. Steward declared. "But even this record will be broken if the legislation now pending is made a law," he added.

Mr. Steward declared he has examined the economy legislation from every angle, but has been unable to find anything of value in the proposals.

The federation president was heard by more than 1,500 Federal employes. Members of the executive council, now in session in Washington, also spoke. A feature of the program was the presentation of a portrait of Mr. Steward to the federation.

A history of the federation was given by John W. Ginder, president of the District of Columbia Federation. Leslie C. McNemar was toastmaster, and Rebekah K. Pedigo was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Members of the federation were urged "to bring all other employes into the fold to fight the furloughs and other discriminatory legislation" by Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the executive council, and the following members of the council:

Federal Workers Hear Marriage Clause Attack

That the married worker provision in Federal economy legislation "nullifies for a certain class of Civil Service employes the protection guaranteed them under the terms of their employment," was the charge made last night by Mrs. Edwina Avery, chairman of the Government Workers Council of the National Woman's Party. Mrs. Avery spoke at a meeting of the District Department of the American Federation of Government Employes, at the Hamilton Hotel.

Mrs. Avery offered statistics from a survey conducted in ten representative cities to prove her contention that many married women worked because they needed the income.

The department delegates adopted the legislative recommendations submitted by Miss Ethel M. Smith, chairman of the legislative committee. These placed the department on record as favoring opposition to that section of the Senate committee economy bill which, in effect, revokes the Saturday half-holiday for employes of Veterans' Administration homes, hospitals and combined facilitels, affecting some 12,000 employes.

Opposition also was voted to that section in the bill providing that personnel records of executive departments and independent establishments be transferred to those offices from the Civil Service Commission.

W. F. McDonald, chairman of the national legislative committee, told the delegates that "we do not want the 1½ per cent pay cut. It affects the way we get our bread and butter, but more than that, it affects nearly 700,000 Federal workers, and through them more than 2,000,000 others directly dependent on them, to say nothing of what it does to 10,000,000 or more workers whose wage scales are considerably depressed."

David R. Glass, first national vice president, urged balancing the budget by other means than cutting Government salaries.

Organization progress was reported by Miss Helen C. McCarty, chairman of the national organization committee. Michael D. Schaefer presided.

Domestic Allotment Plan Gets Stuck in Molasses

Popcorn Amendment Is Proposed to Divert House Attention From Trouble, But Even Texas Angora Goats Fail to Brighten Prospects.

(United Press.)

The domestic allotment farm relief plan was proceeding smoothly along toward House action yesterday when, without warning, it ran into a molasses amendment.

There, naturally enough, it stuck.

And that is where it is, despite the heroic efforts of some members to divert the attention of the House by proposing a popcorn amendment. A peanut amendment was added Tuesday and what, they inquire, are peanuts without popcorn?

It was Representative W. E. Hull (Republican), Illinois, whose heart was bleeding for the molasses producers. Not all molasses producers, mind you. Just the producers of blackstrap molasses. He wanted them to share in the bounty that the farm bill would provide for farmers who reduce production 20 per cent. In return they would receive a bounty to be derived from a tax on such processors as packers, canners and millers. Hull made a noble fight in behalf of blackstrap molasses, but he lacked the influence possessed by the peanut bloc, and down he went to defeat.

But before that happened Chairman Jones of the Agriculture Committee charged that packers had been flooding Congress with telegrams of protest against the bill. He said he had received 300 telegrams which were identical. Representative Howard (Democrat), Nebraska, interrupted to say he had received 40 telegrams and 37 were from packing or stock yard interests.

Jones said he wanted a showdown on the bill to find out "whether big business is going to dictate the policy of Congress." He got it a moment later when a motion was made to strike out the bill's enacting clause. Striking out an enactment clause is equivalent to removing a bulb from an electric socket and then trying to read a book by the light. Proponents of the bill rallied swiftly and the enactment clause was saved, 160 to 100.

That formality having been dispensed with, the House then turned its attention to the pressing problem of Angora goats in Texas. Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, championed the cause of the goat raisers. The situation was what might be called catastrophic, he said. Why, here was the House of Representatives prepared to extend a bounty to hog raisers and what were they planning to do for goat raisers? Not one solitary thing, and he thought it was a shame. So much of a shame that he made a speech, to wit:

"If you inject buresaucracy into the homes of 7,000,000 hog raisers, I demand that the burden be shared by the great goat industry of Texas. When the Hawley-Smoot bill was up you Texans decried it, but you all voted a tariff for your billy and Angora goat raisers."

His eloquence forced a vote, and the amendment was defeated. Schafer sat down with nothing but the consolation that he had fought the good fight and died with his boots on.

Leaders hope for a vote today. They hoped the same thing Tuesday, but no one was seer enough to predict molasses and goats would push themselves into the picture in an attempt to get on an even footing with peanuts.

USE OF SCHOOL GYMNASIUMS BY COLLEGE BOXERS DEBATED

viduals. They may be sent in the form of communications to Harry O Hine, secretary of the board.

Types of gloves used in professional, amateur and intercollegiate boxing were produced as evidence at the meeting by Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts. He described intercollegiate boxing as a refined sport, in which rowdyism is taboo. He pointed in detail to the difference in the three classes of boxing.

Dean John R. Fitzpatrick, of Columbus University, the institution which has precipitated the controversy, argued before the board for 40 minutes and appeared to be just getting into his stride when he was reminded that the board had other business to attend to.

Describing himself as a former cowboy, Indian fighter, bull whacker and prize fighter, "and by no means a mollycoddle," Grover W. Ayres led the opposition to gymnasiums being used for boxing, on the ground that it does not belong in the high school athletic program.

Surprise to Audience.

Mr. Ayres is well known in Washington as an active worker in various civic affairs, but the public revelation of his colorful past came as a distinct surprise and as a somewhat disconcerting one to Henry Gilligan, the board member who has championed the boxing cause.

When Mr. Ayres announced himself as an opponent, Mr. Gilligan asked him if he was also opposed to dances, cards and pink teas in school gymnasiums.

Mr. Ayres then produced the trump card of his adventurous background and added: "I was doing those things before some of you were born." He painted a vivid word picture of tempestuous experiences on the prairie when tomahawk flashed and war cry rent the air; of battling amid wild hordes of bulls; of bloody battles in the ring, in the days when Sullivan was king of prize fighting; of battle royals from which he emerged torn and broken.

Throughout the recital, Mr. Gilligan remained silent with a faint smile of admiration on his face.

Dean Fitzpatrick's arguments covered the history of Columbus University in which he showed it is a nonsectarian institution, and a survey of boxing in American colleges. Columbus University, he said, has been embarrassed this year by not being able to carry out its athletic program and having to break contracts with other colleges because no suitable place could be obtained for the boxing matches. Use of one of the local theaters had been expected, he said.

Sending his voice through the quiet board rooms with incisive power, the young dean spoke bitterly of the imputations that had been cast on the university by the inference that boxing is an unwholesome sport. He declared that if this were true, the finger of scorn could be pointed at the Naval Academy, West Point and more than a score of other high institutions of learning in the United States. He added that "the taint" was a reflection on the Right Rev. Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, who has extolled boxing as one of the finest activities in this university.

Commissioners Favorable.

Dean Fitzpatrick presented a written statement from the District Commissioners, in which they declared that although they have no jurisdiction over the use of school buildings, that "upon the question of intercollegiate boxing within the District of Columbia, the commissioners see no objection to it."

A statement from Leo A. Rover, district attorney, in which he expressed himself as being "heartily in favor of intercollegiate boxing," also was presented by the Columbus University dean. Mr. Rover said in his statement that he had attended practically every intercollegiate boxing match held in Washington in the last five years.

Clarendon Man Opposed.

Asked by the Rev. F. I. A. Bennett, board member, why Columbus University could not use the facilities of other local universities for its boxing, Dean Fitzpatrick explained that the boxing programs of these institutions run parallel with that of Columbus University and that engagements would conflict.

Opposition to boxing also was voiced by Joseph C. Boss, of Clarendon, Va., who said he was an interested individual in the issue. Mr. Boss criticized stories that have appeared in The Post, in which proponents of boxing in schools were quoted. He charged that this paper has taken a stand in favor of boxing. "The city editor," he said, "is the real molder of public opinion."

Mr. Boss explained to a reporter after the meeting that he had brought a statement in opposition to boxing to The Post and that it had not appeared in the paper.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, presented the side of the school officials on the issue, in the form of a written statement, which was submitted to the committee. Dr. Ballou stated that the school officials are still of the opinion that application for boxing should not be granted.

Public Opinion Vital.

Dr. Ballou said that this decision was reached "after observing the discussion which has taken place in the press." He made special mention of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association and the Public School Association indorsing his opinion.

"The superintendent," he stated, "and his associates feel that the approval of this application would mean the establishment of a new policy regarding the community use of buildings, and that in view of the nature of the activity and public opinion concerning it, such a new policy should not be established without well-established public opinion in favor of it. However, if the Board of Education desires to approve the application of Columbus University, it may do so under a motion to suspend the rules of the board and grant the application."

Boxing Ballot

Believing there is great interest in the controversy before school officials on the use of school buildings for amateur boxing, The Washington Post offers its readers a chance to express their opinions on the matter. The results of the poll will be presented to the Board of Education at its next meeting.

CAMPBELL RAPS ECONOMY BILL RIDER AS RETURN TO OLD 'SPOILS'

be required to depend on the records of agencies it regulates.

"To deprive the commission of the sanction of the law by the repeal of all laws and regulations providing for the maintenance by it of personnel records would be a serious blow to the integrity of the Civil Service system of appointments," he said.

"Under the proposal, there could be no effective check over the personnel records of the Government, but each department and establishment would be authorized to keep whatever records it wished, without regard for standardization or uniformity of records or for their value in the determinatoin of eligibility for transfer, promotion, reinstatement, change of status or retirement."

Offers 14 Arguments.

Gov. Campbell enumerated fourteen arguments against the committee's proposal. First, he pointed out, the apportionment law, under which Civil Service jobs are distributed among the States, would be nullified. He thinks division of functions would lead to "chaotic results."

Further, it would be impossible to administer the law affecting temporary appointments, he said.

"Temporary appointments could continue indefinitely, or until the department for some reason of its own would be compelled to dispense with the services of the temporaries," he added.

It was pointed out the proposed system would greatly delay transfers and promotions, and interfere with the laws governing retirements, reinstatements and preference to veterans.

"Delays would inevitably result in personnel administration under the proposed law, as no one can rightfully claim that speedy action could be taken when the data on which action must be taken has to be obtained from 43 or more different departments and establishments," he said.

More Economical, Too.

"It would certainly be less economical to maintain 43 personnel units, scattered throughout the various departments and offices in Washington, with necessary supervision, than to maintain one complete centralized record in the Civil Service Commission, which absolutely requires such record in order to function properly.

"It would certainly be more economical and expense would be saved if consolidated records were maintained with fewer than 50 employes, as at present in the Civil Service Commission, than to place several hundred employes on diversified, unstandardized records in 43 or more different places in the District."

Senator King, last night, in explaining his amendment to the Treasury-Postoffice bill, proposing a 25 per cent reduction in the number of Federal employes, said it was part of his program to effect an $800,000,000 reduction in Federal appropriations.

Action Probable Tomorrow.

He said the measure is in the interest of those already employed in the Federal service, and is designed only to block new additions to the service. Where important positions become vacant, they would be filled by transfers and promotions, rather than by Civil Service appointments from the outside, he said.

Senator Coolidge (Democrat), Massachusetts, offered another amendment to the Treasury-Postoffice bill. It proposed that no Federal employe be furloughed for more than two days in any one month without his consent. The economy act limits legislative furloughs to five days in one month.

Senate leaders anticipate that the Treasury-Postoffice bill, with the economy rider of 1 2-3 per cent additional pay cut, will be called up sometime tomorrow.

CURRAN URGES CUT IN VETERANS' FUNDS

Tells Clubwomen Slash Is Key to Prosperity and Balanced Budget.

Prosperity will not return and the Federal budget can not be balanced without cutting in half the amount of money paid to war veterans, Henry H. Curran, director of the National Economy League, told members of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at 1734 N street northwest last night.

Mr. Curran hit at appropriations to veterans and said: "Have these veterans got more power in our country, through their special veterans' organizations, than the rest of the American people have? Who runs this country? Does the American Legion run it or do the American people run it?"

His address was illustrated with projected charts which showed that a quarter of the Federal Government's revenue goes to veterans. Mr. Curran described the payment of money to veterans who were not injured during their war services as a special dole.

At the opening of the meeting Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the federation, urged women to "put aside petty differences of opinion and extreme individualism and work for the sane solution of serious problems."

She praised the objectives of the Economy League and urged opposition to the spread of communism; active participation in relief work, and cooperation in the campaign for the solution of the cancer mystery.

Greetings were extended to the directors by Mrs John Dickinson Sherman, Mrs. John F. Sippel and Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, all past presidents of the federation.

Mme. Chevalier Says Star Wouldn't See Her

Paris, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A hearing today in the double divorce action of Yvonne Valle Chevalier and Maurice Chevalier, screen actor, brought forth a declaration that when Mme. Chevalier went to Hollywood to see her husband he refused to see her and told her to return to France.

This statement was made by counsel for the wife. Chevalier's attorneys replied that his client was a misunderstood husband, the victim of public scenes resulting from the jealousy of his wife. The hearing was of a perfunctory nature, as both husband and wife are asking for divoce. The court is expected to return its decision in eight days.

VETERANS LAUNCH FUNDS CUT ATTACK

Taylor Calls Wicked Claim That Payments Are Adding to Idle.

(Associated Press.)

War veterans' organizations launched their answer yesterday to the pleas of other groups that the billion dollar annual Federal expenditure for former soldiers be cut by $400,000,000 or more.

John Thomas Taylor, of the American Legion, told the joint congressional committee on veterans' legislation that those who urge the decreases are exponents of the theory of the "cold, selfish financier whose god is his own and his neighbor's dollar."

He was the first representative of any of the veterans' societies to be heard by the committee, which in weeks of sessions heretofore has listened to such groups as the National Economy League and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in advocacy of big reductions.

Spokesmen for the other veterans' organizations will follow Taylor, who is vice chairman of the legislative committee of the legion. He outlined that agency's general opposition to the flat 10 per cent decrease recently suggested by Representative Woodrum (Democrat), of Virginia, of the House Appropriations Committee, and to the other reductions.

Gives Salary Figures.

Taylor, under questioning from Chairman McDuffie (Democrat), of Alabama, said his salary was $6,000 yearly, less a recent 12 per cent cut, and that the legion filed an annual report with Congress on its activities.

This was brought out by McDuffie because Henry H. Curran, Economy League director, in complying with its demand that he state his salary and the names of large contributors to that organization had asked that the legion be required to do likewise.

Taylor said opponents of existing legislation had not offered arguments to show present expenditures were wrong or improper, nor had they given anything but conclusions, unsubstantiated by "either medical evidence or scientific data."

He gave notice that the legion would put on within the next few days expert witnesses and said the legion did not "want to be placed in the position of advocating that undeserved Federal money should go to veterans or anybody else."

A legion committee, he said, is studying this question now and will report to the executive committee in May with its recommendations.

Called Wicked and Immoral.

Taylor termed "wicked and immoral" the contention that Federal payments are injuring business and contributing to unemployment.

He contended that payments to veterans "have been and are of great benefit to the business men in small communities."

"Helpless or disabled veterans must be cared for by somebody," he said. "If these economy groups can influence the Federal Government to cast them off they will become a charge against the community in which they live."

M'ADOO PUTS FARM AID AS MOST VITAL

Confident West Will "Get" Action; Favors "Wise" Reflation Act.

(Associated Press.)

Expressing "every confidence" that the West would get "action" from the new administration, William Gibbs McAdoo, senator-elect from California and war-time Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday advocated immediate farm relief before Congress considers other measures.

In an interview just before he began three day's of conferences with Democratic congressional leaders, McAdoo outlined his views on economic legislation. He arrived in the Capital by air Tuesday night and will leave Saturday for a talk with President-elect Roosevelt.

Russell Also Arrives.

Another arrival in the Capital was Richard B. Russell, jr., senator-elect from Georgia, who also will confer with Democratic congressional leaders.

"The dawn of prosperity rests with the restoration of the farmers' purchasing power," McAdoo said. This can be brought about through wise legislation because the farmers' prosperity has been largely destroyed through unwise legislation."

He emphasized the "imperative" need to amend the farm mortgage act to provide farm credit at low interest rates and an amortization period possibly reaching to 100 years. He mentioned 2 per cent as a possible interest rate and a fraction of 1 per cent as the amortization charge.

"Wise Reflationary Measure."

Touching on the banking problem, the former Treasury chief said there is immediate need for a measure "to make banks safe for depositors and more responsive to the credit news of the country."

He declined to discuss inflation proposals but recalled a recent speech in which he had said he felt deflation had progressed out of reason and that some "wise reflationary measure" would be timely.

Former Virginia Flier Is Killed in Air Crash

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Lieut. William I. Bogardus, 26, of Dallas, Tex., was killed instantly and Sergt. John Kennedy, 49, was injured fatally today in the crash of a plane in which they had just taken off from the Third Attack Group Airdrome.

Kennedy died at the Fort Crockett Base Hospital. He had served overseas in the World War and came here from Langley Field, Va., in 1928. He had been in the military service 23 years.

2 DEAD AND 2 SHOT IN HUNTING DOG ROW

Mountain Bear Expedition South of Snowden, Va., Ends in Tragedy.

Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A quarrel arising between bear hunters over a dog while they were hunting in the Blue Ridge Mountains several miles south of Snowden ended in the fatal shooting today of two men and the wounding of two others.

Roy Ware, 36, of Snowden, organizer of the hunting expedition, was killed instantly by a bullet from a high-powered rifle, and Henry Love, 41, of Sydnorsville, died at Lynchburg Hospital from bullet wounds in the side.

Those wounded were Walter Beverley, 40, of near Buena Vista, who is at Virginia Baptist Hospital suffering from a gunshot wound in the lip and face, and Cash Love, 19, son of Henry Love, who received wounds of the leg. Both are expected to recover.

Charge to be Filed.

Charges of killing Henry Love and feloniously wounding his son, Cash, will be preferred against Beverley, who, according to Virginia Officer L. L. Stanley, freely admits the part he played in the shooting affray.

Lying wounded on a hospital cot here, Beverly gave an account of the shooting to the officers. He said that Ware, Love and his two sons, Cash and Naval, 18; Beverly's brother, Trice, and Clarence Tomlin, 23, of Pedlar Mills, and himself, left Ware's filling station near Snowden about sunrise.

Decided to Separate.

Deep in the mountains the party abandoned their automobile and took to the woods. At a cabin not far from the automobiles, Ware decided the hunters might have better luck if they separated.

Ware's party started off in one direction and Love and his two sons in another, taking their dogs. The Loves had not gone very far before one of them began shooting at game, the shots attracting one of Ware's dogs which left his master and joined the Loves, according to the officers.

The officers said the dog was recalled by Ware and the hunt continued. Later shots from the Love party again attracted the dog.

Then Returned to Spot.

Both parties returned to the spot where they left their automobiles, Beverly said, and there Roy Ware requested the Loves not to shoot again until the parties had separated beyond hearing distance of each other's guns.

Walter Beverley told the officers no other words were passed, Stanley said, and that a moment later Henry Love raised his rifle and shot Ware, the bullet killing him instantly.

The fatal shooting of the elder Love, and the wounding of Cash Love and Beverley followed in an exchange of shots, Beverley said.

Scientist Has New Theory Of Origin of Cosmic Rays

Lemaitre, Priest, Claims Beams Are Evidence of Superradiation That Existed 10,000,000,000 Years Ago When Expanding Universe Began.

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Abbe Gorges Lemaitre created a sensation before a distinguished group of scientists here today by announcing a new theory of the origin of cosmic rays.

The Jesuit priest, upon arriving here several weeks ago, revealed that he hoped to act as a peacemaker between Dr. Arthur Compton and Dr. Robert A. Millikan, two noted American physicists, who hold diverse views as the result of years of research work devoted to the cosmic rays.

Compton's theory was generally interpreted as indicating the rays result from disintegration of matter, and Millikan's that the rays are messengers of the birth of new matter.

The abbe's solution inclines more to the interpretation of Compton. He said the investigation should show that the cosmic radiation has latitude effects, which Compton says he has revealed.

Dr. Millikan did not attend the presentation of the theory at the Mount Wilson Observatory library here, and no comment was forthcoming from him.

The priest said cosmic rays appeared to be "the birthcry of the universe."

"Cosmic rays," he said, "are some kind of a glance preserved for us in ever-increasing space, of the primordial fireworks that marked the beginning of the universe.

"I really think that the study of cosmic rays will give the final answer to cosmological questions, that they are the key to the problem."

He depicted them as the evidence of the superradiation that existed when a primordial atom burst some 10,000,000 years ago and started the expanding universe.

Dr. Albert Einstein, enthralled by the report of the Jesuit priest and professor of the University of Louvain, Belgium, warmly congratulated Lemaitre.

"It is the most pleasant, beautiful and satisfying interpretation of cosmic radiation," said the Berlin professor of relativity. "This picture has less objections and conjures less contradiction than any other theory of the cosmic ray source."

mittee rejected the proposal as originally submitted on February 29, 1932, and Democratic leaders of the House proposed several times during the present session to let the whole matter go over to the first Roosevelt Congress.

Following the reading of the recommendation for emergency action, however, Chairman Sumners announced late yesterday that the House Judiciary Committee will meet Friday of this week to consider several variations of the general reform plan now before it. At the same time Democratic leaders outside the committee, including Speaker Garner, indicated they would permit the matter to come before the House next week.

Most Exhaustive Inquiry.

Senator Hastings, of Delaware, who has had the matter in hand in the Senate for more than a year, said he anticipated early approval on that side also.

The factual background for the legislation was presented with the President's general message last February, in the form of a special report from the Department of Justice, which had been in preparation since July, 1930. This report, compiled under the direction of Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher, in cooperation with the Department of Commerce, has been accepted since publication as the most exhaustive inquiry into the subject in American history. The sorely needed reform has been urged by distinguished leaders in the American Bar Association for ten years. More recently, the Interstate Commerce Commission has urged the reform vigorously as one of the three measures essential to rehabilitation of the carriers.

Essential Adjustments.

As a means of expediting essential adjustments of capital obligations, the proposed law would inforce the majority agreement of the creditors upon the usual minority group, which, for one reason or another, seeks to delay or frustrate negotiated settlements. Under the new plan, the several district courts would be empowered to handle the pleas of the opposition minorities as judicial questions, thus eliminating many of the tedious and costly legal proceedings necessary to reorganization under prevailing law.

"Under such process," the President's message continued, "it should be possible to avoid destructive liquidation, through the composition and extension of individual indebtedness and the reorganization of corporations, with the full protection of the court extended to the rights and interests of creditors and debtors alike. The law should encourage and facilitate such readjustments, in proceedings which do not consume the estate in long and wasteful receiverships."

Last Annual Report.

In concluding his plea for action in the present session, before March 4, President Hoover described the matter as one of "the most vital importance."

"It has a major bearing upon the whole economic situation in the adjustment of the relation of debtors and creditors. I therefore recommend its immediate consideration as an emergency action."

In its last annual report, the Interstate Commerce Commission cited the general weaknesses in existing bankruptcy laws as applied to the readjustment of rail obligations. The present drain of reorganization costs was particularly emphasized as a factor tending to delay many sorely needed adjustments.

Expense of Security.

"Committees representing various classes of security holders are created to represent particular interests in the property," this report said in part. "Counsel for such committees, counsel for the reorganization managers, counsel for the receivers, counsel for trustees, the trustees and receivers themselves, and other officials, have to be paid out of the property or at the expense of the security holders.

"In many cases members of the various committees also require payment out of the assets available. Litigation between interests claiming priorities of one sort or another is widespread and expensive. It, too, usually is made a charge on the property.

"The result is that security holders are deprived of a return on their investments for varying periods that may, and usually do, extend into years.

Tyranny of Minorities.

"Much of the delay, expense and difficulty involved in a receivership and reorganization is due to the opportunity afforded under our present laws, for a minority, no matter how small, to make trouble without regard to the interests of the property as a whole."

Commercial receiverships during 1932 involved liabilities estimated at approximately $2,000,000,000, or something more than double the 1931 total and almost three times the figure for 1925. Advocates of the proposed revision in Congress declare that more effective bankruptcy laws might have salvaged as much as half of this amount last year by preventing receiverships in hundreds of thousands of instances.

ROOSEVELT FAVORS EMBARGO ON ARMS

Confers With Harriman, of U. S. Chamber, and Heads of Cotton Group.

New York, Jan. 11 (U.P.).—Aggressor nations that look to the United States for their source of war material will find the next administration determined to effect an embargo, President-elect Roosevelt indicated tonight.

Roosevelt, in this respect, it was stated by his close advisers, feels exactly as does President Hoover, who addressed a special message to Congress requesting the authority to declare such an embargo on warring countries.

Friends of the President-elect represented him as holding the opinion for a long time that the embargo was one of the most effective methods of restoring peace among belligerent nations. While Roosevelt would not comment, it was believed he would follow the same general steps as President Hoover outlined in his message.

Roosevelt, in a busy ten-hour day, covered a variety of subjects, ranging from the furtherance of the foreign policy, he will initiate after March 4 to relief for the Nation's agriculturists.

He had a lengthy conference with Henry I. Harriman, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, discussing farm relief and proposed methods of cutting down the cost of Government.

Earlier in the day he again met a group representing cotton cooperative associations.

"We discussed," he said, "the ultimate handling of stabilization loss and how it will be liquidated."

"How would they do it?" Roosevelt was asked.

"They are in favor of a presidential order to end stabilization operations, recognize the loss and wipe it off the books," he replied.

One of his callers was William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League.

"What did you talk about?" he was queried.

"We thrashed out the Navy situation from the point of view of the 'Navy League,'" he remarked.

"Are you in favor of a big Navy?" was the next question.

"If you had asked me if I favored adequate national defense my answer would have been 'yes,'" he countered.

A visitor tomorrow will be Senator-elect McAdoo, of California. What their subject of discussion will be the President-elest was not prepared to say. Another visitor this week will be Senator Claude Swanson, of Virginia, mentioned among the host of Democrats already regarded as Cabinet material.

Roosevelt revealed he would leave New York City Friday afternoon for Hyde Park, where he will remain until Monday afternoon. He then will come back here for two days, leaving January 19 for Washington, Muscle Shoals, Ala., and Warm Springs, Ga.

SENATE UNIT FAVORS ARMS EMBARGO IDEA

this alternative that the senatorial committee adopted yesterday. Secretary Stimson urged the necessity of legislation in a lengthy opinion, addressed to the President.

The scope of the present resolution is larger than the Treaty of 1925. This treaty, signed by the late Representative Theodore Burton and Hugh Gibson, merely provided for a complicated system of publicity of all arms exports. It had been hoped in this way to discourage the traffic in arms and the activities of arms filibusters which fomented revolutions with the sole idea of promoting sales.

The present resolution belongs in the domain of domestic legislation and is shorn of the international implications that were contained in the Geneva proposal.

The text of the resolution proposed by Chairman Borah yesterday endows the President with the necessary authority to declare an embargo on any arms shipments going to any country in the world.

Text of Resolution.

The joint resolution favorably reported by the committee follows in full:

"That whenever the President finds that in any part of the world conditions exist such that the shipment of arms or munitions of war from countries which produce these commodities may promote or encourage the employment of force in the course of a dispute or conflict between nations, and, after securing the cooperation of such governments as the President deems necessary, he makes proclamation thereof, it shall be unlawful to export, or sell for export, except under such limitations and exceptions as the President prescribes, any arms or munitions of war from any place in the United States to such countries as he may designate, until otherwise ordered by the President or by Congress.

"Whoever exports any arms or munitions of war in violation of section 1 (the foregoing) shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $10,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both."

Power Now Limited.

At present the President has authority to ban the shipments of arms to certain countries where the United States still has extraterritorial jurisdiction and also to some Central American countries when there is evidence of internal disorder. As soon as the present measure has been signed, however, he will be able to extend this authority over all countries. The President, for example, could confer with the British or French governments with the idea of stopping all shipments of arms to Paraguay or to Colombia, and the action of the governments would undoubtedly go far in checking the progress of war. At present the unilateral action of the United States in declaring an arms embargo works to the disadvantage of American armament makers and to the consequent profit of other European armament makers who are under no such restriction.

PATRONAGE IS VOTED BY MARYLAND HOUSE

Speaker Is Granted Right to Name Extra Attendants; Foes Are Punished.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 11.—Passage today in the Maryland House of Delegates of a resolution allowing the speaker to appoint supplemental attendants was immediately followed by committee appointments in which objecting members were lopped from important assignments.

C. Damer McKenrick, youthful insurgent of the Baltimore City delegation, was dropped from the judiciary and militia committees, although retained as chairman of the committee on currency. James J. Lindsay, jr., a loyal supporter of the city powers, was named to head the ways and means committee, a post which carries with it the Democratic floor leadership. Lindsay was chairman of this committee at the last session.

Plans More Economy Work.

McKenrick said that his elimination from the two committees would give him "that much more time to look at legislative expenses." Early in the session he proposed a cut of 30 per cent in the expenses of providing stenographers, doorkeepers and cloakroom attendants, but was voted down. Later he objected to a measure allowing the Speaker of the House to appoint other such attendants, but lost again today when this measure was passed.

The organization plan allowing these powers to the speaker were reported last night, but held over until this morning. When they came up again a motion was made to strike out the paragraphs giving this permission to the speaker. The motion was lost, as was another that the total number appointed should not be more than allowed in the budget. After the committee appointments, the House adjourned to next Tuesday, as the Senate had done earlier.

Senate Session Quiet.

The Senate, which has been marking time while the House organizes, had a quiet session, receiving from Gov. Albert C. Ritchie a recommendation that Mrs. Gertrude Stutler, of Seat Pleasant, be appointed a notary public. In the House the difficulty of making up committee assignments was reflected in a successful motion to increase the membership of the judiciary and ways and means committees.

Committee assignments for delegates from Montgomery, Prince Georges, Frederick, Charles and St. Marys Counties were:

Montgomery—Odorion W. Roby, agriculture, claims, roads and highways; Lavinia Engle, amendments to the constitution, chairman of civil service reform, education, ways and means; George L. Edmunds, chairman of investigations, education, elections.

Walter W. Dawson, currency, education, elections, insurance and loans; Marvin Farrington, chairman of Federal relations, insolvency, judiciary.

Prince Georges Choices.

Prince Georges—Oliver Metzerott, investigations, labor, rules, ways and means; Richard C. Zantzinger, Chesapeake Bay and tributaries, currency, inspections, internal improvements; Charles C. Marbury, corporations, education, internal improvements, judiciary, labor; J. Guy Bell, expiring laws, public buildings, chairman of revaluations and assessments, ways and means.

William Franklin Keys, immigration, chairman of printed bills and resolutions, temperance; Kent Roberts Mullikin, insurance and loans, militia, chairman of railroads and canals.

Frederick—D. Charles Flook, agriculture, education; John D. Nicodemus, education, Federal relations; Anderson H. Etzler, Federal relations, public records; Casper E. Cline, jr., game and fish, immigration, public buildings; Harry W. LeGore, insolvency, militia, ways and means.

St. Marys—Lawrence P. Williams, amendments to the constitution, chairman of education, chairman of elections, game and fish, ways and means, rules, hygiene; Philip H. Dorsey, jr., chairman of Chesapeake Bay and tributaries, investigations, judiciary.

Charles—W. Bruce Matthews, Chesapeake Bay and tributaries, ways and means, hygiene; William W. Dyson, claims, immigration, railroads and canals.

VOLPE, CAPONE ALLY, ORDERED DEPORTED

paign against Chicago's hoodlums and their rackets, it meant a long delayed victory in their efforts to send Volpe to exile as an undesirable. Previously he had been freed on the same charge, but the case was reopened and today reversed.

Volpe, a lieutenant and reputed former bodyguard of Capone, was No. 3 in the original list of public enemies. He had dropped to seventeenth place, however, when a new ranking of gangsters was announced yesterday.

The technical case against him was that he was an alien, unlawfully in the United States. It grew out of a trip with some gangster friends to see Cuban horse races and was based on a Federal contention that his reentry was illegal.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sent Al Capone to prison for income tax evasion, ordered Volpe's deportation. Appeals were taken and last year he was released on a habeas corpus writ.

There is a report that Volpe in recent months has opened a flower shop. Meanwhile, his hoodlum associates have been harassed both by the authorities and by underworld rivals. Ted Newberry, one of the Capone big shots, was buried today, slain on a gangland "ride." Murray Humphries and "Three-Fingered Jack" White, who top the present list of major hoodlums, were brought into court today by Chicago police on charges of carrying concealed weapons. Their case was postponed two weeks.

Today's decision was reported to have been one of the first cases in which the court of appeals here reversed itself. More trouble faces Volpe. If his deportation order is upheld, there is a possibility that Italy may refuse to admit him.

Born in Argentina some 46 years ago, Volpe was taken by his parents to Italy before coming to the United States, when 20. In 1925 he served 30 days for counterfeiting war savings stamps.

Texas Legislators Pay Cut Voted.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The Texas Senate today voted, 17 to 14, to reduce the pay of members of the Legislature from the constitutional maximum of $10 to $8 a day.

DEMAND OF PINCHOT FOR APOLOGY IS MET

Stuns Legislature by Sudden Appearance; Would Whip Offending Senator.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Gifford Pinchot, Independent Republican governor, stunned the Legislature today by personally demanding an organization senator apologize for remarks directed at Mrs. Pinchot. He said he regretted the law prevents horse whipping.

A few minutes after the governor walked coolly from the chamber, George L. Reed, Dauphin County, against whom the governor directed his demand, apologized to the Senate.

The suddenness of the governor's appearance, just as the Senate went into session, and the quiet bitterness with which the tall, grey-haired chief executive lashed through his three-minute denunciation, blew legislative routine to the winds.

Republican organization leaders tonight disclaimed any part in the attack on the governor and Mrs. Pinchot, which broke in the heat of a fiery session Monday night.

Expunged From Records.

They also pointed to the fact that it was an organization senator who moved that the remarks be expunged from the records. The motion was adopted.

But the governor demanded "more direct and disciplinary action."

"The charge, it is well known, is unqualifiedly false," the governor went on, with clenched fists. "Because it is false, I demand that you require the slanderer to produce his proof or make public reparation.

"The laws of the State prevent me from taking into my own hands the punishment of the offender. I can not properly horsewhip a senator, however much I may desire to, and however much the senator may deserve it.

Disciplinary Authority.

"But the Senate has disciplinary authority and power. The course which is demanded of you by the good name of the Commonwealth should be clear before you. I bid you good day."

Reed's Monday night speech criticized the governor's policies and accused him of extravagance. It paved the way for a resolution for investigation of extravagance in State government and was sent to the appropriations committee.

In apologizing to the Senate, Reed asserted that he alone was responsible for his comments, denying that he had been prompted by the Republican organization.

The governor's office made no comment on the apology.

WILLIAM P. LEWIS BURIAL.

Funeral Services for Lincolnia Boy Will be Conducted Today.

Funeral services for William Perkins Lewis, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall L. Lewis, of Lincolnia, Va., will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the home. The Rev. W. H. Gray, pastor of Lincolnia Methodist Church and the Rev. W Bowers of Lincolnia Pentacostal Church, officiating. Interment will be in Cottage Park Cemetery at Lincolnia.

Young Perkins was a member of the senior class of the Lee-Jackson High School near Alexandria. He was president of the Lee-Jackson High School athletic association and member of the Annandale troop of Boy Scouts. During the past season he was one of the star players of the Junior Legion baseball team of Alexandria, Va.

In addition to his parents he is survived by three brothers, Ronald, Kenneth and Wade Lewis.

GAITHERSBURG BANK HAS NEW PRESIDENT

Financial Houses Make Few Changes in Their Official Lists.

Various stockholders' meetings and organization meetings of directorates reported yesterday revealed few changes in official lists. William N. Payne, jr., secretary, National Capital Insurance Co., was elected to the directorate of that company.

At a special meeting of Doubleday-Hill Electric Co. Warren F. Perry was elected sales manager and W. W. Weidman was elected treasurer.

New President Named.

The First National Bank of Gaithersburg, Md., has a new president. At the annual meeting of the bank A. F. Meem was elected to that office.

Mr. Meem has been acting president since the death of Clarence H. Hoskinson in February, 1932. He was born in Georgetown, where members of his family first resided nearly two centuries ago. When a small boy, the family moved to Montgomery County, where he has since resided.

Mr. Meem was one of the organizers of the bank in 1891; has been a director and member of the examining board ever since, and vice president for many years.

Washington Loan & Trust Co.

The directorate held its annual meeting of organization yesterday and reelected all officers of that institution. They are Harry G. Meem, president; John Joy Edson, chairman of the board; Arthur Peter, first vice president and general counsel; Charles H. Doing, vice president in charge of the West End office; Charles R. Grant, vice president and treasurer; William H. Baden, vice president and trust officer; Alfred H. Lawson, vice president and real estate officer; James M. Mason, George M. Fisher, Ralph Endicott, Norman E. Towson, George O. Schweinhaut, assistant treasurers; Herbert W. Primm, Edward L. Brady, assistant real estate officers; Leonard Marbury, Harry W. Gauss, Bernard L. Amiss, Charles M. Irelan, jr., assistant trust officers.

The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent and an extra dividend of 2 per cent, payable February 1, to stockholders of record, January 24.

National Metropolitan Bank.

All officers were reelected. They are the following: George W. White, president; O. H. P. Johnson, vice president; A. A. Hoehling, vice president, trust officer and general counsel; C. F. Jacobsen, cashier; R. P. Hollingsworth, S. W. Burwell, assistant trust officers; C. E. Bright, A. H. Bedford, C. L. Eckloff, R. E. Briggs, F. E. Hildebrand, assistant cashiers; F. V. N. Cook, auditor.

Second National Bank.

Directors reelected all its officers. They are: Samuel J. Prescott, chairman of the board; Victor B. Deyber, president; William M. Hannay, Jacob Scharf, vice presidents; Edward F. Colladay, trust officer and counsel; William B. Wolf, assistant trust officer; George M. Emmerich, secretary of the board; W. W. Marlow, cashier; J. K. Seyboth, Fred S. Beyer, Joseph R. Fitzpatrick, Gerald E. Keene, Steuart S. Ogilvie, assistant cashiers.

Potomac Joint Stock Land Bank.

Directors of Potomac Joint Stock Land Bank of Washington reelected were Arthur Peter, Carroll Pierce, Joseph A. Wilmer, John B. Cochran, J. T. C. Hopkins, jr., Shirley Carter, F. C. Bedinger, J. M. Hooker, Thomas P. Hickman, J. P. Saul, jr., C. Thomas Summers, George A. Harris, John I. Cassedy and Vernor Gowin.

Federal-American Co.

Federal-American Co. directors reelected were Charles G. Abbot, Byron S. Adams, Lester A. Barr, W. F. Brenizer, Walter A. Brown, John Dolph, William John Eynon, Charles E. Galliher, Isaac Gans, William P. Ham, George W. Harris, Harry King, Wilton J. Lambert, Ralph W. Lee, Charles B. Lyddane, Arthur D. Marks, John Poole, James Brown Scott, Leon Tobriner, George E. Walker, Wilmer J. Waller and L. Perry West.

United States Savings Bank.

Directors reelected all officers as follows: Wade H. Cooper, president; William D. Barry, Wilbur H. Zepp, vice presidents; William R. De Lashmutt, vice president and cashier; John F. Cook, assistant cashier.

McLachlen Banking Corporation,

All officers were reelected as follows: Lanier P. McLachlen, president; Firman R. Horner, vice president; John A. Massie, vice president and treasurer; Archibald McLachlen, secretary and assistant treasurer; Guy D. Cowl, assistant treasurer; E. L. Goldney, auditor.

National Capital Insurance Co.

Directors of the company were elected as follows: Arthur G. Bishop, Edward S. Brashears, Charles A. Carry, James A. Donohoe, Clarence F. Donohoe, Lewis Fiemer, Joseph A. Herbert, jr., Howard B. Kramer, Morris E. Marlow, Walter H. Marlow, William N. Payne, jr., Maurice Otterback, George R. Repetti, Guy T. Steuart, John C. Yost. All officers were reelected. They are George R. Repetti, president; John C. Yost, first vice president; James A. Donohoe, second vice president; Walter H. Marlow, attorney; William N. Payne, jr., secretary; R. Edward Early, assistant secretary.

Federal Storage Co.

Stockholders reelected all directors of this company as follows: Charles S. Baker, H. Randolph Barbee, Daniel L. Borden, Hanson E. Ely, jr., Henry P. Edwin, Norman B. Frost, D. P. Gaillard, James M. Johnston, Harold N. Marsh, Carroll Morgan, E. K. Morris, Charles P. Stone, Charles G. Treat, Griffith Warfield.

Officers of the company reelected and reappointed were Mr. Morris, president; Mr. Marsh, first vice president and counsel; Mr. Johnston, second vice president and treasurer; H. Randolph Barbee, secretary; Henderson S. Dunn, cashier; S. Webster Adams, superintendent; A. Russell Barbee, assistant treasurer; Marian Trumbull, assistant secretary.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

IT'S just as hard to cause "fires that start themselves", sometimes as it is to keep that throbbing tooth aching long enough to get into the dentist's chair.

RILEY.

Nevertheless, "fires that start themselves" do start themselves and it is difficult to check on conditions surrounding their origin.

Just now the Department of Agriculture, through Harry E. Roethe, engineer, chemical engineering division, bureau of chemistry and soils, is much concerned over fires that have their origins in hotspots in haystacks and hayloffs on farms.

When it is known that American farm fire loss in 1929 totaled $100,000,000 in property damage alone and that 3,500 persons were killed and in 1930 this loss had risen to $120,000,000, which figures down to around $330 a second, $12,500 for every numeral on the clock, it is little wonder Uncle Sam wants to know why. For farmers this fire loss is an added tax of $19 a head.

"The task in the case of hay fires," said Mr. Roethe, "is to determine the proper moisture of feeds, the correct stage of curing, at which the farmer should know when to store his winter's reserve."

At Arlington the department is conducting tests trying to learn just what are most favorable conditions for spontaneous hay fires. Constant checks are made to determine conditions at all times, so that if fire does originate we shall know just how it came about."

But hay fires are like pampered children. They will not perform when most invited. Then they appear obstreperously. Farmers are a vain lot. They "know," they will tell you, that they can tell just when to pitch their hay. They "know" by the feel and the twist, proper brittle feel, or the flexible rebound of the hay fibers. But do they?

At any rate hay fires continue on. Hotspots appear. Hay in storage often becomes absolutely carbonized through heat and yet may not even flame.

Mr. Roethe supplied us with some of the reasons why rural fires get headway. Defective chimneys and flues, lightning, combustible roofs, spontaneous ignition of hay, careless use of matches and smoking, careless storing of gasoline and kerosene, defective heating equipment and faulty wiring and misuse of electrical appliances.

Fires "that start themselves" still challenge entire solution.

Date worth remembering, January 12, 1920—Wilson called first meeting of League of Nations to be held in Paris January 16, 1920.

Lyman Moore, formerly of Commercial Intelligence Division, Commerce, has taken charge of the distribution section, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, consolidating the mailing lists.

Sign in large letters over a manhole says "MEN WORKING." A very good sign.

Encore, Mr. Ebert.

"I read in your column, the Federal Diary, this morning a story by Mr. Ebert, which seemingly was refreshing contrast from the usual run of the items appearing there," said A. J. Bullard, G. A. O., living at Riverdale, Md.

A. J. Driscoll, recently retired from the Railway Mail Service, is now special representative of the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines. He supplied tickets to many Federal employes during the holidays to visit their homes. Mr. Driscoll has been active in the civic life of Washington and for 20 years has been president of the Mid-City Citizens Association. He also is an active member of the Washington Board of Trade.

Accompanied by Mrs. Driscoll, he recently motored to St. Petersburg, Fla., where they visited Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Turner, who spend their summers at Berwyn, Md.

From San Antonio, Tex., comes word that George Kendall, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, is convalescing in a sanitarium. His bureau friends recently sent him a radio, so that he is still able to keep in touch with Washington and even Vancouver and Latin-America.

PANAMA version of the well-known sport of "riding" a new arrival, as told by a commercial representative:

"Panama water is equal to any in the world. We feel it necessary to emphasize this fact in order to make the trials of foreign travel a little less arduous than those of a recent commercial representative on his first visit to the tropics, expecting flea-bitten, fever-infested and generally God-forsaken countries south of the Rio Grande. I am afraid the veterans of the road were having a little fun with him, and there were stories of iguana steak and monkey stew to the limit of credulity. But most of all, they stressed the danger of the water—you must never drink a drop; you even had to brush your teeth with beer.

"The next morning our friend appeared obviously short of temper. Good Lord, how can you fellows stand it—Pepsodent and Pilsner. I'll take my chance on germs.'"

A pun, they say, is a low form of humor. 'Pun my word!

That was certain——

In went the chauffeur. 'Sall right, the bill was on Fedd. The chauffeur. His name was Gustav Anton Maurice Augustin Marcel. Just call him Gus, for he was not French, remember.

Gus drew his left wrist across his mouth as he returned, gave a sailor's tug at his belt. (Ah, he had served in the Navy.)

In gear went the old seagoing hack. And if the speedometer had not gasped Gus would have pushed the old boat up to 35 knots an hour.

We still like to recall Paree as Fedd saw it paneled that day through the frame of his taxi window. It was one grand sight.

Tuesday will be election day for Commerce Lodge, No. 9, A. F. G. E. Following are nominees: Miss Fanny P. Lamson, president; Mrs. Jessie Perez, first vice president; C. E. Hall, second vice president; Arthur Donnelly, third vice president, and Charles E. Ridgeway, secretary, and William Morian, Mrs. Jessie Perez and William G. Copley, trustees.

Government employes will have a big share in the Missouri Society meeting January 14 at the Washington Hotel, when Philippine evening with Missourians will be presented. Mrs. Camilo Osias, wife of the Commissioner of the Philippines, will offer a group of songs, accompanied by Mrs. Eva Whitford Lovette. Representative Joe J. Manlove will speak.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Harry B. Hawes, wife of the senator; Mrs. L. C. Dyer, wife of the representative and president of the society; Mrs. John Cochran, wife of the representative; Mrs. James L. Baity, Mrs. John Hansbury, Mrs. L. H. Hannah, Mrs. J. A. Schofield, wife of the naval captain, and Mrs. Charles Alger.

Floor committee—Ernest E. Hall, executive secretary to Agriculture Secretary Hyde; John B. Gordon, Floyd F. Hanley and Albert Conrades.

We hear Miss Anne Kirby, Crop Production Loan Office, won the prize for naming the social organization. The name: "Haymakers."

W. M. Sutton, G. P. O., is back from a trip to his home in Scranton via Greyhound Lines.

John R. Newman, president Lodge, No. 29, N. F. G. E. and national secretary of that organization, who has been instrumental in the growth of the N. F. G. E at the bureau, will speak at the lodge meeting tonight at the Hamilton Hotel at 8 o'clock.

The funeral of Mrs. Jane A. O'Neill, mother of Miss Annie O'Neill, State Department, 1326 New Hampshire avenue northwest, will be held this morning from St. Matthew's Church. Miss O'Neill is former secretary to Undersecretary of State Castle.

The public is invited to enter guppyis in Commerce Aquarium Show January 20.

Edward R. Newton is captain of the newly organized team in the Income Tax Unit Bowling League, formed largely through efforts of J. Manning Kingsbury, of the Administrative Team. The new team will assume the standing and play the schedule of the Deputy Collectors and will be called Administrative No. 2.

H. Conrad Hoover, mechanical engineer, national committee on wood utilization, is using spare time to help balance his family budget, which, along with thousands of others, was unbalanced by congressional and administrative pay cuts. To demonstrate practicability of articles suggested in the committee's "You Can Make It" booklets, Hoover submitted a bag holder of his own make to a leading department store here. The buyer ordered 100 holders, which were disposed of quickly, and has asked Hoover to make another supply. This is just one of hundreds of useful articles for the home incorporated in the committee's series of three "You Can Make It" booklets.

Surprise for Federal Women Workers Near

Sunday should prove to be a big day in the life of many Government women workers. The Diary editor has just had a peek at what that's going to be published in The Washington Post that day.

Of course, we could go ahead and tell you all the details now but that would be telling and, besides, it would spoil all the fun. The best way is to be up a few hours before the paper is delivered and then you'll not miss a single word of it.

Too bad the men can't get in on this, but of course there'll be something worth while for them before long, we feel sure.

Fun and profit are promised and——

Well, perhaps we'd better wait 'till Sunday. It's not far off.

GLASS HINTS SENATE MAY MEET TONIGHT

Long Lines Up Opposition in Effort to Block Branch-Banking Measure.

(Associated Press.)

Challenged by a threat of a night session tonight, Senator Huey Long, Louisiana Democrat, last night began lining up his forces anew to strike the branch banking provision out of the Glass bill.

Having led an organized filibuster against the measure for two days, in a clash between Democratic liberals and conservatives, Long claimed enough votes to eliminate the section permitting national banks to establish branches within State lines. He said he had "four votes to spare."

Losing patience with the Louisianan's tactics just before adjournment, Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, author of the bill, said the measure was of extreme importance and the question had now arisen "whether we may legislate."

"As far as I am concerned," he added, "I intend that we shall legislate. I want to serve notice that tomorrow I will ask that the Senate sit until a reasonable hour in the evening, so that we may commence a deliberate consideration of the pending bill."

Glass will attempt to force a vote on a compromise amendment, to allow branch banking only in States permitting it now among State institutions. He already has accepted an amendment by Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, to let national banks take over only existing units and prohibiting them from setting up new branches, except in communities without banking facilities.

Long and his associates are opposed to these amendments, also, and are confident of their rejection.

Until yesterday it was not known what senators were with Long in his opposition fight. Six of them who were in the chamber when Long asked that a document be read by the clerk rose to support the request after Senator Glass objected. Long was defeated on that point and forced to read it himself.

Peeved at this, Long deliberately read so fast that it was unintelligible to his nearest auditors.

WILLIAM H. SMITH FUNERAL

International Joint Commission Secretary Will be Buried Today.

Private funeral services will be held this afternoon in the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home for William Hall Smith, secretary of the International Joint Commission, who died Tuesday in his home at 4105 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Mr. Smith had been associated with the commission since its organization in 1911. He was born at Pontiac, Mich. He is survived by his widow, a son, Vernon D. Smith, of Philadelphia; two daughters, Mrs. Hamilton G. Park and Mrs. Paul R. Chesley, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and a sister, Mrs. Hattie De Putron, of Falls Church.

MRS. H. T. COOK RITES.

Will be Held at Church of the Epiphany at 2:30 Today.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Church of the Epiphany for Mrs. Henry Trevor Cook, 76, long a member of the church, who died Tuesday at her home at the Westmoreland Apartments. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Cook has been a resident of this city for the past 12 years. Prior to coming here she lived in Chicago, Ill., and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Surviving her is a son, Walter Lorrain Cook, of Washington, a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie H. Gelm, of New York, a granddaughter and a great-grandson.

306th Cavalry Postpones Dinner.

The Second Squadron of the 306th Cavalry has postponed a dinner to be held at the Shoreham Hotel Saturday night due to the death of former President Calvin Coolidge. A date when the dinner will be held will be announced later.

EXPLOSIVES EXPERT SEES BOMBED AUTO

Inquiry Apparently Fruitless in Mystery Slaying of Miss Ida Kirk.

An explosive expert from Baltimore yesterday examined the shattered automobile in which Miss Ida Kirk was fatally injured by an infernal machine, but gave John H. T. Briscoe, St. Mary's County State attorney, no final verdict as to the nature of the bomb.

The expert, Lawrence Gau, gave the car and the spot on the road between Chaptico and Helen, where the explosion occurred, one of many detailed examinations they have had since the blast. Authorities, apparently baffled in their investigation, turn back each day and reexamine the death car.

Mr. Gau, who was brought from Baltimore by Capt. Edward McK. Johnson, of the Maryland State Police, took samples of wood and material of the car. These, he said, will be chemically analyzed and the nature of the explosive determined.

The knowledge of the type of explosive used will be of doubtful value in the investigation. Authorities already have the advice of Harry Gough, of Waldorf, an experienced blaster, that dynamite was used to blow Miss Kirk to her death.

Takoma Park Firemen Pick Heffner President

H. C. Heffner was elected president of the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department last night. W. L. Ransom was named vice president; C. J. Busch, financial secretary; Philip W. Huck, treasurer; L. M. Moffett, chief; Steve Lacole, assistant chief; John Pope, second assistant chief; J. H. Bilbray, secretary; Grant Benton, sergeant at arms.

J. N. Evans, Dewey Hayes, M. S. Iverson, A. L. Reynolds and D. C. Waters were named on the standing committee, and L. N. Moffett, John Pope, O. W. Scherger and Dewey Hayes were selected as delegates to the Maryland State convention of volunteer firemen.

Dr. Edward N. Brush Dies at Maryland Home

Baltimore, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Following an illness of six days of bronchitis which developed into pneumonia, Dr. Edward Nathaniel Brush, 80-year-old dean of American psychiatrists, died last night at his home at Mount Washington, a residential section of Baltimore.

SAMUEL FINGERHUT DIES.

Samuel Fingerhut, 28, teller at the Georgia avenue branch of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, died yesterday at Garfield Hospital after an extended illness. He lived at 605 Decatur street northwest.

Surviving him are his father, Edward Fingerhut; four sisters, Mrs. Lillian Stern, Mrs. Rose Myers, Miss Minnie Fingerhut and Miss Sadie Fingerhut, and four brothers, Albert Fingerhut, Arthur Fingerhut, Herbert Fingerhut and Jack Fingerhut.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of Bernard Danzansky's funeral home, and at the B'Nai Israel Synagogue.

EDWARD E. MYERS DIES.

Edward E. Myers, 67, of 4409 Seventeenth street northwest, chief of the division of engraving at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, died yesterday at his home after an illness of three weeks.

An employe at the bureau for the last 53 years, he was given a testimonial several years ago by fellow workers. He was a member of Hiram Lodge, No. 10, and of the Fellowship Club, both Masonic organizations. Surviving him is his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Myers.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday, from Gawler's funeral parlor. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. W. F. Barney Dies at Her Home

Heart Disease Is Fatal to Ardent Catholic, Native of Utica, N. Y.

Mrs. W. F. Barney, 69, of 2844 Wisconsin avenue, died at her home yesterday of heart disease. She had been ill only a few days.

A native of Utica, N. Y., Mrs. Barney had lived in Washington since 1918. She was an ardent Catholic, and took an active part in the various activities of that church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mary E. and Margaret M. Barney, of Washington, and a son, James E. Barney, of New York City. Funeral and burial services will be held at Utica, N. Y., Saturday.

Treasury Asks for Bids On $75,000,000 Issue

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills yesterday invited tenders for $75,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills to be sold to the highest bidder on Monday.

The bills will be dated January 18 and will mature on April 19, when they will be redeemed at face value. The money derived from the sale of the bills will be used to retire $75,000,000 in Treasury bills which mature on January 18.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

IF January 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Influences are such that some very trying situations may arise in the course of the day for your solution. Approach them calmly and as their master; they will seem to fade away. If you have suffered the loss of a friend or dear one, or possibly a business loss of some kind, you may anticipate the coming of some person bearing word of a consoling nature.

The child born on this January 12 will all through life get his share of the good things. He will be unusually fortunate in all his various endeavors.

If January 12 is your birthday, you are a person of many possibilities. You could do well in any one of a number of lines of work. Your desire to cretate might well manifest itself in painting or sculpture. Music you like, though you prefer to be an auditor, rather than to take part yourself. You are imaginative to a good degree, but you have the ability to get your thoughts and ideas into concrete form; a career in advertising might suit you well.

Born on January 12, you will in all probability carry on to a successful conclusion whatever you undertake. You are a hard worker, and you like to work.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

WINTER winds and cold weather bring dryness and roughness not only to the face and neck, which are exposed to the elements, but also to the body. Pride in smooth, white skin over the entire body at all seasons is natural, and feminine.

A slight roughness, if neglected, soon takes the form of dry, scaly patches. Mrs. G. writes: "When I take my bath and run my hand over my thighs or ankles my skin feels like so much sandpaper. It doesn't matter that nobody else knows it. I hate it and should love to feel that my skin is soft and smooth, always."

Oil Massage.

The following treatment followed persistently for a few days should soon show results.

Take a warm bath. Pat dry. Do not rub shoe-shine fashion. After the bath massage generously with sweet almond oil, mineral oil or a fine grade of olive oil. Wear the sleeves of an old flannel nightgown and the trouser parts of an old pair of pajamas pinned snugly at the ankles. This will keep the oil on the skin and avoid soiling the bed linens. Or, wrap arms and legs in flannel bandings.

Alcohol Rub.

The next morning remove any remaining oil. Then pat with a large pad of cotton saturated in rubbing alcohol. This is to be done only if the oil has been generously used the night before, as otherwise the rubbing alcohol is in itself too drying. The combination offsets any drying effect, and the patting stimulates the circulation and makes the skin hardier, building up its resistance against the cold blast ravages.

Next, massage with a little hand lotion, the nonsticky type. There are many excellent and inexpensive ones on the market that act as a protective, softening base. It may be used on arms, legs and thighs as well as hands. Massage gently. And remember to use sparingly. Blot away any excess with a soft cleansing tissue. Then dust with powder, smoothing away excess. The hand lotion will make the powder more adherent, and the two will act as a protective barrier against roughness even under diaphanous chiffon stockings and silky underwear. Used properly, the treatment will not soil hose or garments.

If you have difficulty keeping your hands smooth during the winter months, my hand bulletin will help you. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

557

VARIOUS "One Over One" authors maintain that the Forcing "One Over One" response saves one or more rounds of bidding. The Forcing One Over One actually fails to save even a single round. As a result, the so-called One Over One "systems" lose their principal justification, because they are based on a fallacy—a fallacy that is, in my opinion, the most remarkable fallacy in the history of Bridge.

The confusion of a great many meaningless generalities has muddled the entire subject of "One Over One" bids. Even the meaning of the phrase "One Over One" is mysteriously vague, so that now there are almost as many One Over One "systems" as there are players. It will be obvious to any student of the game that all these so-called "systems" are nothing but variations of the Culbertson (Approach-Forcing) System.

The name "One Over One" was coined by Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, my associate and one of the three or four truly great analysts and master players of today. In his book for advanced players, entitled "High Lights of the Culbertson System," Mr. Lightner states:

"To use this catchy name 'One Over One' to characterize an entire system, as is being done by certain writers, is simply an attempt to convey a false impression that there are two different systems, one called the Culbertson (Approach-Forcing) and the other the so-called 'One Over One.' Inasmuch as it happens to be I who originated the name and the Forcing variation 'One Over One,' the absurdity of such claims is all the more apparent."

In a general sense the words "One Over One" simply mean that, in order better to disclose information on strength and distribution of partnership hands, the bidding should, whenever possible, be kept within the range of suit bids of one. As a result, the bidding is kept low and overcrowding of interferences is avoided. "One Over One" is simply another name for Approaching, which is one of the Basic principles of the Culbertson System and which today forms part of any system, be it the Vanderbilt, the Official or the "Never Slip" System.

In its technical and more specific sense, the One Over One is not a system at all, but simply a procedure or method of responding to partner's suit bids of one, which is highly characteristic of the Culbertson System.

A One Over One situation occurs when a player opens with a bid of one in a suit and his partner responds with a bid of one in another suit, or when partner responds with a bid of one in a suit and the Opening bidder makes still another response with a bid of one in a suit. For instance, assuming that opponents always pass, all the bids in the following situations are One Over One (South opens):

South	North
1 Club	1 Diamond
1 Heart	1 Spade

A one no trump response closes the chain of One Over One bids.

In connection with this bidding situation, there arises the important problem of how best to fit in partner's responses so as to obtain the maximum information and yet keep the bidding low enough. Inferences in partnership bidding can be compared to a telegraphic code of dots and dashes. In telegraphy, the underlying principle is terse economy of words; in Bridge, it is economy of bids that counts. The waste of even a single round of bidding may easily shut out valuable information on the peculiarities of a hand by crowding out a number of important inferences.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

The Do's and Don't's of the "square face." (Explained by Dah-ray.)

AND today we consider the lady with the square face. Well, maybe you or she, even, haven't noticed it particularly—but another look will show it up too, too well—the absolute squareness of her face, I mean—why, you could put a T square and angle around it and have almost a box!

She it is, unfortunately, who all too often wears a square cut or "Dutch" bob, bangs and all—as you can see in the left-hand head sketched—thereby squaring off her face even more and robbing it of all feminine softness. Strangely enough, this square-faced lady often has square and broad shoulders, too—and if she adopts the neckline in this same sketch she is doing the worst possible for herself.

But just look at her in the right-hand sketch! There she is again—the very same lady, with a coiffure that softens her face and makes it more desirably feminine; and she has selected a neckline more flattering, one which further softens the square outline of her face. And oh, yes, I almost forgot—she has curved her eyebrows instead of leaving them in a straight line, as the lady in the left has. Wouldn't believe it was the same face, would you?

The "square" face is characterized by high and somewhat prominent cheek bones and a square chin and jutting jawbones. The effect is heightened by a low and broad forehead, or minimized if the forehead is high. Every effort must be made to detract from this squareness—the forehead, for instance, shown as much as possible in height, but not in breadth of the coiffure; the eyebrows lifted and curved; the neckline of the dress lowered and either pointed or circular—never square or batteau.

Better study your face and see whether you are this type or not—and if so, study the good and bad of it and dress accordingly.

I have been looking at old tires and inner tubes for at least fifteen years, speculatively. What could I do with 'em—besides pay the rag man to take 'em away? It just broke my heart to throw 'em away—and, besides, they were so durn hard to get rid of, anyhow! Patience has rewarded me—now I know why I didn't throw 'em away—'twas because I had yet to discover how to make the darlingest little sandals and bedroom slippers for the kiddies out of them! Yes, sir! out of old automobile tires and inner tubes, a few tacks and a hammer, a sharp knife and scissors—and this week's Dah-ray leaflet. And are they comfy, and do the children and even daddy like 'em—and are they wear-outless, and hadn't you better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the directions for making 'em? I think so.

Au revoir.

NAVY WILL RETIRE TWO FLEET CHIEFS

Schofield and Chase to End Distinguished Careers on January 31.

The retirement of two of the Navy's most distinguished rear admirals—Jehu V. Chase and Frank H. Schofield—both former commanders in chief of the United States fleet, was announced yesterday at the Navy Department.

Both officers will be detached from active duty on January 31, as they will have reached the statutory retirement age of 64 years. At the present time both Admiral Chase and Admiral Schofield are on duty here in Washington as members of the General Board, of which the former is chairman.

Admiral Chase was born in Pattersonville, La., January 10, 1869, and was appointed to the Naval Academy September 28, 1886, from the Third District of Louisiana. He rose to the rank of rear admiral, being appointed to that grade January 1, 1922. He has served on the U. S. S. Kearsarge, Newark, San Francisco, Yantic, Newport, Foote, Lancaster, Mayflower, the Newark and other Navy ships.

In January, 1917, he was ordered to command the battleship Minnesota and was in command when the ship struck a mine off the coast of Delaware in September, 1918. "For exceptionally meritorious service in bringing the Minnesota to port," he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

Admiral Schofield was born in Jerusalem, Yates County, N. Y., and was appointed to the Naval Academy in May, 1886. Among the ships on which he has served are the U. S. S. Hawk, the Philadelphia, Supply, Concord, Hampshire, Arkansas, Delaware and Chester.

From December, 1917, to 1919, he was attached to the United States naval forces in European waters, serving in London on Admiral Sims' staff and assisting the chief of naval operations, Admiral Benson, in the Paris deliberations incident to the drawing up of the naval terms of peace with Germany. For this service Admiral Schofield was awarded the Navy Cross.

Inquest Set Wednesday In Play Shooting of Boy

An inquest will be held next Wednesday into the death of George Lusby, jr., of Maryland Park, Md., who died yesterday at Casualty Hospital after being shot in the abdomen while at play. The hearing will be held by Magistrate John A. Downing at Hyattsville.

In the meantime Briscoe Lanham, who lives nearby, is free on bond of $500 posted by his parents, to insure his appearance at the inquest. Briscoe Lanham, who is 14 years old, was said to have been playing in the Lanham home with the Lusby boy shortly before the shooting. According to other children present, the group had been playing cowboys and Indians with a .45 caliber revolver. The case is being investigated by Sergt. H. G. Machen.

10,000 JAPANESE SOLDIERS ARE MARCHING INTO JEHOL

city at the eastern end of the Great Wall occupied last week by the Japanese.

The dispatches also said a Japanese landing force has gone ashore at Chingwantao, Chinese seaport about 10 miles southwest of Shanhaikwan. Patrols have been put out by this landing force, it was reported.

The column proceeding into Jehol, the dispatches asserted, included artillery and cavalry marching from Suichung, north of Shanhaikwan, which is in Japanese hands.

Japanese military leaders have said for some time that they intended eventually to gain control of the Province of Jehol and to annex it to the State of Manchukuo, which has been established with their assistance to administer Manchuria. The City of Jehol, capital of the province, used to be used by the Manchu emperors as their summer residence.

Liu Tsung Sent to Peiping.

The national government at Nanking has reiterated that it will not accept the Japanese thesis that the capture of Shanhaikwan is a local incident. Instead, the Chinese policy will be that the occupation of that city is part of the whole Chinese-Japanese dispute which is awaiting settlement by the League of Nations.

Liu Tsung, first vice minister for foreign affairs, has been sent to Peiping to represent the government in the crisis. It is expected that he will inform Chang Hsiao-Liang, north China military leader, of the attitude of the government.

Peiping, China, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The Japanese legation announced tonight that the Japanese army is in complete control of Ciumenkow, a pass through the Great Wall of China about 14 miles north of Shanhaikan. Chinese defenders of the pass, who resisted the attack all yesterday, have been put to flight, the legation declared.

Will Keep Pass Closed.

Foreign military observers in Peiping did not attach great significance to the seizure of the pass, asserting that there were many others which will make it possible for Chang Hsiao-Liang, Chinese commander, to maintain contact with the Province of Jehol north of the wall.

The Japanese do not intend to proceed into China proper from their positions at Chiumenkow, Gen. Miyake, their commanding officer, announced through his national press. But they will keep the pass closed.

Cavalry, infantry, artillery and bombing planes were used by the Japanese in ousting the Chinese defenders from the passageway through the ancient wall.

The purpose of the Japanese advance was to hinder communications between China proper and Jehol, where, they declare, about 10,000 Chinese troops already have been stationed. Passage at the eastern end of the Great Wall was prevented last week when, after a three-day battle, the Japanese seized Shanhaikwan.

The United States Legation was informed that the seizure of that city had resulted in a protest by the Nanking government to the signatories of the Boxer protocol. China charged that the Japanese made unlawful use of the protocol provisions in making their attack.

The government asserted it would not take responsibility for anything which might result from the defense of Chinese territory.

Protest Made by China.

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—China protested to Japan today against the occupation of Shanhaikwan, and was informed that the Tokyo government "expressly reserves the right to make demands" in connection with any settlement of the conflict.

The Japanese reply asserted that the Chinese garrison at Shanhaikwan was wholly responsible for the outbreak of hostilities there on the night of January 1.

Informed that rumors were current that a formal declaration of war between the two nations was probable, Japanese officials declared it was impossible for any such action to be taken.

tional Match Company the following March.

"In the first week of March, 1932," Birning replied.

"An uneasiness came upon me which was confirmed when I arrived in Paris."

He then told how he conferred with Kreuger in New York on February 28, less than two weeks before the Swedish financier committed suicide in the French capital, and was greatly puzzled at the confused replies given to his questions as to the whereabouts of $50,000,000 of German bonds of the International Match Company.

"I asked him some questions about these securities. He became more and more confused" Birning related.

"Kreuger explained they had been transferred from the International to its wholly owned subsidiary abroad. His explanations were either those of a sick man or those of one not necessarily in his right mind."

Story Proved False.

The witness testified he communicated his "doubts" to Donald Durant, a partner in Lee, Higginson & Co., which handled the Kreuger securities in this country, the next morning.

He added he understood Durant "took it up with Kreuger," who agreed to "reverse the deal at once."

Shortly afterward, he testified, Durant and Kreuger sailed for Europe and two days later he followed.

In the meantime, a check-up by cablegram, he said, had proved Kreuger's story that the bonds were in Berlin to be false.

Durant testified earlier in the day that he had known Kreuger was sick or appeared so, but that he had no definite suspicions that all was not well with Kreuger & Toll until he learned of his death.

Birning then told of going to Berlin and Stockholm to check up on the match empire and Kreuger's stories about it, and while this was going on word came that Kreuger had killed himself, confirming Birning's suspicions of irregularities.

Testimony on Suicide.

Birning was referred to by Marriman as a man who had a leading part in the "circumstances crowding in on Kreuger when he put the gun to his head."

It was Durant who told the committee of Kreuger's death, and the suppression of the news. He discounted rumors that Kreuger is still alive.

He said the Higginson company, which marketed Kreuger & Toll securities took no advantage of its confidential information that Kreuger was dead, but testified the cable telling them the news was not immediately opened and meanwhile orders were placed to sell Kreuger & Toll stocks for clients.

As soon as the cable was read, Durant said, the orders were canceled. He was asked to investigate and inform the committee of the exact time the message was received.

Testifying later, Roland L. Redmond, counsel for the Stock Exchange, told the committee his firm received $25,000 for drafting the debenture agreement permittin the substitution of collateral on the bonds.

The vast Insull public utility interests will come under the searching inquiry of the House interstate commerce committee, so that it may recommend regulatory legislation to prevent recurrence of financial disaster to such public service units.

Chairman Rayburn launched the investigation yesterday under authority the House has granted his committee to comb the intricacies of power holding companies.

"We are going to the bottom of the Insull organization and its multitude of holding companies," the Texas Democrat said. "This holding company structure is the most complicated of all."

State Department Called Peace Body

Wynne Speaks at Rotary Luncheon Given at Willard Hotel.

The Department of State is in reality a department for the promotion of peace, Edward Cyril Wynne, acting historical adviser of the department and professor of constitutional law at Columbia University, yesterday told the Rotary Club at a luncheon in the Willard Hotel.

A resolution of sorrow and regret over the death of Rotarian Sidney W. Strauss, a member of the club, was adopted.

Maj. Wallace Kirby reported to the club members that $2,700 had been contributed to the club's community fund and urged that additional funds be raised for use in connection with student loans, the Georgetown Boys Club and other welfare activities of the club.

President Names Oman Naval Surgeon General

(Associated Pres.)

President Hoover yesterday named Capt. Charles M. Oman, present commander of the Naval Hospital at the United States Naval Academy, to be Surgeon General of the Navy.

Oman, a native of Columbia County, Penn., has served in the Naval Medical Branch since 1901. During the war he was in command of the Naval Hospital at Brest, France, and later commanded the Naval Hospital in Washington.

ONE DEAD, 11 LOST IN PACIFIC STORM

tricts, scores of oil derricks, many of them working on active wells, were bowled over. One fell on a house but the family, forewarned, escaped without injury. Another carried a high tension wire to the ground and it crossed a crude oil tank, exploding the contents and starting a fire which spread to another tank before it was extinguished.

Highways were blocked to traffic by the shattered derricks, and for several hours broken telephone lines brought all communication between here and San Diego to a standstill.

Farther south, in the Valencia orange district near Anaheim, considerable damage was reported to citrus crops, fruit being blown from the trees, which also were damaged. Citrus authorities said no estimate of the damage could be made until a survey was taken, but they were inclined to believe the loss would not be extensive.

Inland, the brunt of the gale was felt along stretches of highway traversing sandy country. In some sections the sand was drifted so heavily that traffic was forced to detour. Four motor cars were overturned near Ontario. Fouled power lines were blamed for a fire at Buena Park, which burned several buildings.

Little damage occurred in Los Angeles, which, by some freak of the storm, escaped most of the wind. A home, valued at $26,000, was destroyed by fire when a line of power poles collapsed. Throughout the day, Los Angeles was buried in a musty atmosphere which blotted out the sun much as a heavy fog.

to be paid him in full at the age of 28, provided that if he died before then the principal should go to his legatees, and that if he made no will it should go to his children.

Brock contends that the New York will is not a document such as was contemplated in the elder Reynolds' will and that it is invalid for the disposition of the trust fund.

Stage Plans Undecided.

The basis of this contention is that Reynolds would have been unable to make a will under the North Carolina law, which Brock said provides that a testator must be 21 years old.

Whether the New York will is probated here or not, the attorney holds, will have no bearing on thic claim.

Prosecution of the claims will await further conferences among the attorneys, Alfred J. Holman, of Cincinnati, the singer's father, who also is an attorney, and Mrs. Reynolds herself.

As for the young mother's return to the stage, she told friends she planned to come back eventually, but that nothing definite would be decided until after the baby was born and she had recovered fully.

Both Doing Well.

Philadelphia, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds and her son, born in the Pennsylvania Hospital last night, were reported today to be doing well.

The baby, believed to be an heir to part of the $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 estate of Smith Reynolds, found fatally shot in his North Carolina home last July, was prematurely born, the attending physician made known today.

It is lying in what is known at the hospital as a "hot bed," a variation and modification of an incubator. Because of it being under weight, the baby is being given special treatment. Dr. Norris W. Vaux, Philadelphia obstetrician, is looking after the mother, widow of Reynolds, while Dr. Charles A. Fife, pediatrician, is attending to the welfare of the child.

The "hot bed" is somewhat similar to a baby's crib, the sides being of solid metal and higher than the average crib. Under the bed and springs are carbon lights attached to a switch box which regulates the heat.

Holman to Arrive Today.

The length of time the baby will stay in its present resting place depends upon the progress it makes.

Mrs. Reynolds is in a room nearby and near her are her mother, Mrs. Alfred Holman, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Luisa Carpenter Jenney, a close friend, of Wilmington, Del. Alfred Holman, the young mother's father, is expected to arrive tomorrow from Cincinnati.

Mrs. Reynolds has been living near Wilmington, Del., since charges against her in connection with the death of her husband were dropped. She came to the hospital early yesterday and it was stated her baby was expected early in February, which was followed by the surprise announcement of its arrival last night.

5 O'CLOCK

—still shopping and her cooking is done

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred your shopping is ended abruptly, an hour before dinner time, if you are still using an old-fashioned stove. Useful time is wasted while you labor over the cooking, "to have things ready when the family comes home."

Did you ever stop to think that a modern gas range would do all this for you, that science and invention have created new hours of leisure for hundreds of modern housewives? You can enjoy this same freedom by simply replacing your old stove with a modern gas range.

You will save hours of watching with oven heat control. Your kitchen will be cooler because of complete insulation. You will save hundreds of steps by using the handy utensil drawer. You will be delighted with all of the other time-saving, step-saving improvements. Surely a few cents a day—all that is needed to own a beautiful new gas range—shouldn't stop you from having this new freedom that is rightfully yours. The beauty of it is the easy terms on which you can buy.

Come in, or call either of the 'phone numbers below today.

TIME CONTROL

With a time controlled gas range you can put your meal in the oven early in the afternoon, go out and forget it. At a pre-determined time the range will automatically turn itself on, cook your meal, and turn itself off, keeping the meal hot until you return.

RELIEF OF DEBTORS.

Much may be read between the lines of President Hoover's message to Congress recommending immediate revision of the bankruptcy laws. Taken in connection with the rapidly increasing foreclosures on mortgages and the sale of farms for taxes, and having in mind the maturing obligations of great railroad systems which are unable to obtain relief, it is evident that a desperate situation has developed as a result of the prolonged depression.

Creditors are as hard pressed as debtors in these times. Everybody is a debtor. The President points out that forced liquidation of debts under present conditions is "futile and destructive." Creditors do not obtain satisfaction when foreclosures fail to yield the amount of their mortgages. States are not benefited when farms are sold under foreclosure and then abandoned by new owners who are unable to operate them. Homeless people become public charges at once, and the wanderers among them develop dangerous tendencies.

The emergency requires legislation which will permit a compromise between a debtor and the majority of his creditors which, when approved by the court, will become binding upon minority creditors. With this change in effect, many debtors could work out of their difficulties without going into bankruptcy, and creditors would receive more than they would receive by foreclosure or forced liquidation. It is an era of hard times, slow collections, depreciation of values, and inability to realize on assets. Everybody should co-operate in the process of alleviating acute cases where bankruptcy is threatened.

In the case of railroads and other great corporations the welfare of tens of thousands of workers is involved when receiverships occur. Immediate retrenchment is the rule, with wholesale discharge of workers. Public policy demands that receiverships of immense corporations should be prevented. In most instances the judgment of a majority of creditors, after viewing all the circumstances surrounding a debtor, is better and more tolerant than the judgment of a minority which looks exclusively at its own claims. The majority should be permitted to effect a compromise, subject to approval of the court; and if the majority can afford to make concessions, the minority should be made to do so. The concessions are in reality concessions in their own interest, since they enable the debtor to carry on business and contribute his share to the general recovery, instead of becoming another load upon the public.

The urgent nature of this proposed legislation is emphasized by the President in a very solemn manner. When the Chief Magistrate, possessing confidential knowledge of predicament of millions of debtors and great institutions, tells Congress that relief of individual and corporate debtors "at this session of Congress" is a matter of "the most vital importance," it is time for instant action.

BUREAU OF EFFICIENCY.

When the Senate takes up the report of its special economy committee it will be confronted by a recommendation that the Bureau of Efficiency be abolished. This is one of the strangest suggestions that have come forth in the various schemes for reorganization of the Government. Just at the moment when extensive changes in the Government set-up are contemplated, the Senate committee proposes to abolish the only unit which is designed to coordinate Federal agencies and institute efficiency and economy in the transaction of the Government's business.

The economy committee suggests that the records of the Bureau of Efficiency be turned over to the Bureau of the Budget. It would be just as well to burn the records, because the Bureau of the Budget, whose function is entirely different, would have no use for them.

The Bureau of Efficiency is largely responsible for the reduction in the size of the currency which resulted in a saving of approximately $1,719,000 per year. On several occasions it has saved the Government from the expense of purchasing property by locating suitable sites for buildings on land already owned by the Government. Taxpayers in the District of Columbia were saved about $250,000 when the bureau pointed out that the ratio of fire losses to premiums received was lower in Washington than in the United States as a whole. Following the bureau's recommendation, the Underwriters' Association voluntarily reduced rates.

An investigation of the cost of producing helium at the Government's plant in Amarillo, Tex., resulted in a saving of more than $180,000. The bureau stimulated competition in selling the Government paper that is used for currency. As a result the Government pays $78,000 less for this paper.

Congress appropriates about $145,000 annually for the Bureau of Efficiency. In a single year that bureau has saved to taxpayers as much as $2,250,000. Most of the savings thus effected are cumulative year after year. Obviously, maintenance of the Bureau of Efficiency is in itself economy.

INDEFENSIBLE WASTE.

Veterans' organizations that are opposed to reduction of the benefits paid to ex-service men who were not injured in the war have begun to present their case before the joint congressional committee. The Economy League, the United States Chamber of Commerce and other agencies representing the interests of taxpayers have built up a powerful argument for eliminating all expenditures for veterans who suffered no disability as a result of their war service. It is now up to beneficiaries of the existing law to show why the Government should continue its favoritism to this class.

John Thomas Taylor, lobbyist for the American Legion, presented the argument that this demand for economy is sponsored by wealthy interests. Its purpose, he said, is to "transfer a large portion of veterans' costs from the wealthy income taxpayers of this country to the distressed and needy local property taxpayers." The effect of Mr. Taylor's defense is to weaken the case for continuation of these bounties to ex-service men who have no legitimate claim upon the Government. In effect Mr. Taylor says that the Government should administer charity to a special class so that the States may avoid doing so. The same argument might be used to urge Congress to take over all charity work of the States and local governments.

Two men may suffer permanent injuries in an automobile accident. If one had trained for two months during the war, suffering no ill effects whatever, he would be entitled to a disability allowance from the Government. If the other did not serve in the armed forces during the war, he will become a charge upon his relatives or upon local agencies. It is absurd to say that injuries arising from the same cause should be treated so differently. Disability resulting from war service is a proper charge against the Government. Disability arising from civil pursuits is not. If the veterans' lobby would recognize this distinction, several hundred millions of dollars could be cut from the expenditures of the Veterans' Administration without objection from any one.

It is a fallacy, also, to assume that a reasonable reduction of expenditures on veterans' relief would throw a greater burden upon the States. The present law authorizes payments to veterans suffering from 25 per cent disability acquired outside of their war service. Thousands of men who are earning salaries and are fully capable of supporting themselves are drawing benefits for injuries that are not remotely connected with the war. Discontinuation of these payments would be a net saving to taxpayers who must support both the States and the Nation.

If veterans' organizations are really interested in protecting the disabled, why do they not join in the movement to eliminate the indefensible payments to able-bodied men who are earning good salaries? Why do they not draw a sharp distinction between aid for those injured in the war and Federal gifts to ex-service men who are injured in civil life? When veterans attempt to defend these outrageous drafts upon the Treasury they do so at the expense of the truly disabled soldiers who must be cared for by the Government.

DRY STRATEGY.

Last week's meeting of prohibition forces at Atlantic City has resulted in many and varied comments upon the statement issued following the convention, the composition of the gathering, and above all the changed atmosphere of the assembly. Many of the official leaders noted for their militant campaigns for prohibition were absent, and while the resolutions declared for continued support for the eighteenth amendment, such keen observers as Stanley High admit that lines were laid and agreements reached which may lead to the first major shift in dry strategy.

Many delegates appeared to realize that, regardless of what happens to prohibition in Congress, plans must be perfected to continue the efforts of those who want "to diminish the demand for and the consumption of intoxicating liquors." The statement of the convention holds that no method of dealing with the liquor problem is worthy of support unless it is designed actually to the end of decreased consumption; and the demand is made that all liquor legislation be tested by that clear principle.

The case against liquor as presented at the convention, says Mr. High, was duly stated, but it was buttressed by facts which were related to this highly mechanized age and the brains that have to run it. "Some of those present," he says, "undoubtedly believed as strongly as ever that to drink is to sin, but nobody said so. No one argued against liquor on the grounds of personal morality. The moral arguments were those of social morality, which, of course, gets back to persons, but in terms of social responsibilities rather than spiritual risk. Stated thus the case made out at Atlantic City against liquor sounded very much like the case one hears against war, child labor, industrial injustice and other liabilities which handicap society."

INAUGURATION PLANS.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson has made admirable selections in naming the committees to have charge of various branches of the inaugural celebration. He has been in frequent conference with President-elect Roosevelt and is thoroughly conversant with the latter's wishes. Mr. Roosevelt bows to the universal desire for a celebration that will manifest a spirit of optimism and good cheer. Tens of thousands of citizens, from every State in the Union, are planning to come to Washington to view the historic process of inducting a President into office. These citizens are coming in a joyous mood, and are expecting to witness imposing ceremonies and to participate in colorful festivities.

The details involved in preparing this greatest of national ceremonies are little appreciated outside of the District of Columbia. An enormous task is imposed upon Washington residents. They assume it with hospitable alacrity, and will regard the pleasure and satisfaction of their guests as payment in full for their efforts.

The time is now short. Arrangements with visiting delegations when the latter are on a large scale consume much time. The railroads and other transportation agencies may be depended upon to co-operate, but the sooner they are made acquainted with the load that will be put upon them the more certain will be the performance of schedules.

Washington is better provided with hotels and lodging accommodations than ever before, but these facilities are apt to be taxed by the crowds that are preparing to come here on March 4. Admiral Grayson's committee can prevent overcharging of visitors, and should act promptly in that direction, so that visitors may not be discouraged from coming because of reports of intended exactions.

WOODEN MONEY

From the Boston Transcript.

It sounds like a fairy tale or one of the exploits of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford, but it is a true story. Out on the Pacific Coast, people in Tenmo, which is in the State of Washington, have bought a bank with wooden money. Tenmo leaped to fame with its wooden money a year ago. Newspaper readers the country over learned that following the closing of the local bank, resort was had to slice-wood with suitable printing thereon as a circulating medium. Now the chamber of commerce, thanks to the wooden money, has bought the bank building and the fixtures.

The proceeding suggests a new form of frenzied finance, but it appears that the wooden money was not paid directly for the property. Instead it had been disposed of to souvenir hunters and coin collectors in exchange for money in its more familiar forms. Slice-wood currency may thus be said to have served a two-fold purpose. It provided a medium of exchange for Tenmo folk in their dealings among themselves, and it furnished enough of the coin of the realm to enable them to buy a banking house, although it does not appear that it was one suggestive of palaces with marble halls, the price paid being $3,500.

In justice to Tenmo, it is further to be said, that its slice-wood money was not fiat money. It was not a case of collecting bales of wood that might otherwise have been used for berry boxes and feeding it to printing presses without regard to the principles of sound finance. Nor did anybody claim that a shingle and a printing press could produce a good $10 bill. Tenmo did not take the course which some of the congressmen have recently urged upon Uncle Sam. The wooden money was secured by assignment of deposits in the closed bank, and the issue was limited to 25 per cent of the face value of the security. Yankee ingenuity and common sense are evidently to be found in the Northwestern corner of the land as well as in the Northeastern.

Uphill Work.

POST HASTE

Senatorial dignity bars limitation of debate but permits paralyzation by buffoonery.

The House let down the allotment bars for dairy products, and peanut butter walked right in.

The length of the beer bar is still in question.

What do you suppose is M. Laval's real objective when he talks about the resumption of German reparations?

The present military maneuvers in China are utilizing only bombing planes, armored trains, cavalry, tanks, artillery and ordinary foot soldiers, so Japan announces it is "ridiculous" to think there might be a formal declaration of war.

Mr. McAdoo has never been noted piscatorially, but he carries his Creel with him in case he should make a catch.

At the present rate the allotment plan will end up by Uncle Sam guaranteeing everybody a profit, and we can all start even again.

Just consider; with Wilson's League of Nations slap still resounding would any President turn the other cheek by promising congressional action on a European question?

Pause a moment, Colombia and Peru; do you want the world to consider you as foolish as Bolivia and Paraguay?

Quite a few think the Nation would still live if all the social functions of the Government were suspended. Yes, and a majority of the world's population manages to exist without bath tubs.

The President-elect is reported to be taking a strong attitude against speculation—as to the next Cabinet.

Doesn't Senator Black know that his attempt to install a 30-hour week by interstate commerce is the surest way to court trouble?

Just how the reduced acreage provisions of the farm emergency bill are to apply to square yards of butter and milk has not yet been determined.

Uncle Zeke says: "The way the House is a-stallin' looks like it wuz tryin' to make Roosevelt a Stalin."

If arrangements could be made for a branch office in Washington for the President-elect it would save a good deal of time.

Ever alert, a Senate committee is investigating the rumor that the Kreuger Match Company failed.

The allotment bill ought to provide positions for a lot of peanut politicians as inspectors of processing at the street roasters.

BECAUSE HE LIVED.

Because he lived next door a child
To see him coming often smiled,
And thought him her devoted friend
Who gladly gave her coins to spend.

Because he lived, a neighbor knew
A clump of tall dephiniums blue
And oriental poppies red
He'd given for a garden bed.

Because he lived, a man in need
Was grateful for a kindly deed
And ever after tried to be
As thoughtful and as fine as he.

Because he lived, ne'er great or proud
Or known to all the motley crowd,
A few there were whose tents were pitched Near his who found their lives enriched.

The Farmer Will Risk Loss, But Won't Plant If He Has No Hope of a Harvest

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE one motive that prompts all human effort is desire. And the desire that prompts all industry is the desire for a profit.

You may berate and condemn that desire if you wish, but one who searches for truth must accept facts as he finds them, whether sordid or sublime.

There is no way to overcome the desire for a profit, for even the most unselfish of men hopes for reward in heaven, but the stupidity of rulers can destroy all hope of making it.

And when all hope of profit is destroyed, there remains no incentive to industry and the progress of civilization comes abruptly to an end.

This is not a supposition, invented to support an argument, but a fact revealed and established by experiment.

In 1928, when profits were large and easy to make, America was a beehive of cheerful industry. In 1932, when profits were few and hard to obtain, the people were listless and without ambition. All effort seemed useless, for hope of reward was gone.

Russia's experiment affords an example even more convincing.

When the people followed Lenin in establishing the Utopia of Communism, superior merit lost its advantage. The laziest and most stupid sweeper in a factory received a wage equal to that of the most skilled technician.

All private trade and merchandising was forbidden; the surplus crops of the farmers were seized by Lenin's troops; everything belonged to everybody and no man could gain more than another.

You know the result. Factory production dropped to one-tenth of the pre-war level and the production of farm crops was cut in half. The people starved and were fed by charity—much of it American.

Then Lenin changed his plans. Men were paid according to their ability; peasants were permitted to sell their surplus; manufacture and merchandising were restored to private enterprise. Men were permitted to make a profit.

And within two years, agriculture, industry and trade had regained their normal level.

There you have one explanation of America's inertia and indifference. Men will not try when there is no hope of profit. And there is no hope of profit where working capital itself is confiscated to support the extravagance of government.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Congress and the Allotment Plan.
Topeka Capital.

A "domestic allotment" emergency relief bill for wheat, cotton, hogs, tobacco and rice has been approved by the House committee on agriculture, and while strong opposition will be encountered and the bill may be subjected to amendments, the essentials of the domestic allotment plan are likely to be incorporated in some measure to be enacted by Congress either in the present session or early in an extra session this spring. If such a bill should pass both houses and be vetoed by President Hoover, a similar bill would be signed by his successor.

Leave the Job to Congress!
Kansas City Times.

To bring about economic restoration, says an Eastern educator, we must not wait for the Government or leaders in Congress, but must get busy and improve conditions ourselves. But what would be the use of Congress and Government then? It's a lot easier to leave the job to somebody else, and that has come to be the American system, hasn't it? Furthermore, how would Government ever fulfill its campaign promises if it were not given the task of setting the world in order?

Function of the R. F. C.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

It must be borne in mind that the R. F. C. is an institution created to meet an emergency. Its transactions are something like wartime purchases in that they can not be expected to measure up to the most rigid standards of caution in banking. The information to be made public through the House of Representatives therefore should be received with the realition that the general benefits of the R F. C. are vastly more important than minor instances of overgenerosity or apparent favoritism. The R. F. C. was created to free the forces of credit, not to set a new example of restriction.

When, Oh, When?
Buffalo Courier-Express.

However much the land may lack, it chortles: "Beer is coming back!"

Hard Tax.
Ohio State Journal.

It appears that tax will be one of the principal ingredients of the new beer.

Yes, Sir!
Philadelphia Inquirer.

Down in South Carolina a man found a snake with two heads. It's high time we were getting back to temperance.

Kick Comes Later.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

It seems there now ought to be a straw vote to determine which is the more important, the kick in the beer, or the tax on it.

The Philippines Bill.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

It is a mere formality that President Hoover has referred to Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley the Philippine independence bill passed by a log-rolling and impetuous Congress bent on tariff benefits. The administration of the Philippines is a War Department function. Mr. Hurley was President Hoover's personal representative to the islands several years ago to study the question of independence. The opinion of the department and the Secretary on the measure is a step on the road to approval or veto.

The fact, however, that Mr. Hurley on emerging from a White House conference reaffirmed his opposition to the bill is entirely informal and adds hope to the belief that the President will stop the mad and reprehensible rush to cut the islands adrift. Mr. Hurley is opposed to independence chiefly because of warlike and unstable conditions in the Orient and because he believes the people are not prepared for self-government. His adverse opinion may be counted on.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Says Beer Will Be Paid For by the Poor, Thus Relieving the Rich of Taxation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We notice that the tribe of John Barleycorn seems to have laid siege to Congress, and a lot of congressmen are busy dancing while John cracks the whip. Watching Congress perform at the bidding of the liquor interests, one can not help but feel just a little disappointed to see that in these days of hardship and suffering and unemployment, Congress seems to turn first of all to booze. Can it be possible that beer is the most important question before the people at this time? Is there nothing more important than beer for our well-paid congressmen to spend their time on in these days?

You so-called wets who are so anxious for the return of liquor in some form or another, stop and think for a minute. Who is going to pay for the liquor, and who is going to pay the tax on liquor that is to be used to balance the budget? You will pay it yourselves. The masses, the rank and file of the people, the "little fellows," the working people of all kinds everywhere will pay 75 per cent of the cost. They will drink the liquor to pay the tax, so that after all we have simply another scheme whereby the rich will load a big share of the tax burden over on the shoulders of the poor. Are the people going to stand for this? Are the American men and women so plumb crazy that they will permit any such thing from a pure business standpoint?

So long as the wets persist in bringing up this question the drys will fight back. All members of Congress and the legislatures will have to take a stand with either the wet or the dry group. Let us watch our senators and congressmen and members of the Legislature and see how they stand on this question.

H. O. BERVE.

Thief River Falls, Minn.

Farmers Must Be Subsidized in Some Form—Machine Age Victims Should Go Back to the Soil.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Western farmer has always been bitterly opposed to ship subsidies. It never seems to have occurred to him or for that matter to any of our statesmen who have for years been vainly trying to solve the farm question, that the Western farmer has been the most heavily subsidized individual in our nation. This took the form of homestead preemptions, timber culture entries, and finally, in the case of Oklahoma, free homes.

The writer spent fourteen years in Oklahoma as a country editor and was in at the great "opening" in 1893, and let me interlard right here that no such individual as Richard Dix portrays in "Cimarron" ever existed, for he would have been shot on sight. The writer saw most of the first settlers sell their claims and leave the country, and it was considerable time before real farmers appeared to bend their backs in the hard pursuit of cultivating the soil.

With the free homes law for Oklahoma land subsidies practically ceased and the troublesome farm question soon began. Now we have got to have farmers in this great country of ours and in the writer's opinion will have to go back to some form of subsidy before we succeed in having them. As this is the day of technocrats as well as Democrats he suggests that the coming Congress seriously consider a proposition to get some of the numerous victims of the machine age back to the soil. Thousands upon thousands of splendid farms will be on the market as a result of foreclosures. From the proceeds of a bond sale Uncle Sam might secure possession and reallot 40-acre tracts to heads of families out of employment.

JEREMIAH JOHNSON.

Two Billion Revenue From Beer Shrinks to Measly $125,000,000. What About Promises?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: From press reports we learn that the Democratic leaders are agreed on certain procedure in raising the national budget for next year.

We are told they expect a deficit of $492,000,000, to meet which they have agreed to effect economies of $100,000,000; a gasoline tax to be levied is estimated to produce $137,000,000; the proposed increase in income tax rates will add another $150,000,000, and, then, "to enact a beer bill estimated to produce $125,000,000." This totals $512,000,000.

What has become of the promised $2,000,000,000 from beer? If my memory serves me correctly, no less an authority than A. Mitchell Palmer promised $2,000,000,000 from beer. And, if I am not mistaken, Gov. Alfred E. Smith promised not merely $2,000,000,000, but "billions," if his party should be elected. Representative Dyer, of Missouri, used the White House steps as a place from which to proclaim that $1,000,000,000 in taxes would be raised easily on return of beer. Many another, on down to Britten and Sabath, of Chicago, have made continuous promises of billions of dollars for the Federal Treasury through the legalization of beer.

The beer politicians promised that beer would balance the budget and prevent income tax increases. It now seems clear that if beer is legalized, it may be able to pay the Treasury 6 cents for every dollar promised by the wet politicians.

How long do you suppose the American people will follow armies of politicians whose sole claim to power is their ability to make promises about beer?

(Associated Press.)

Railroad employment in October continued the upward swing started the month before and reached the highest level of any month since June, 1932. Railroad employment dropped in August to 996,317 men, the first time since 1889 that employment on the railroads had been less than 1,000,000 men. The tide turned in September, however, and 1,010,440 men employes were reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In October, reports for which were made public yesterday, 1,083,225 men were employed. In June 1,047,483 men were employed, and in July 1,021,937.

All branches of railroad employment except the executive departments showed an increase, the greatest being in maintenance of equipment and stores, for which 276,994 men were employed, an increase of 10,067 over September, but 45,990 under October, 1931. The executive staff of the railroads numbered 13,093, a decrease of 26 from September and 1,880 under October a year ago.

House Unit Fights Marine Corps Cut

Urges Increase in Strength as Opposed to Hoover's Reduction Plea.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to reduction of the Marine Corps strength by 1,743 enlisted men, recommended by the President in the budget, was registered yesterday by the House naval committee, in adopting a report by a subcommittee, headed by Representative Drewry (Democrat), Virginia, which was emphatic against the reduction. The report also urged that corps strength be raised to 17,000 enlisted men, from the present 15,363.

The subcommittee heard naval and Marine Corps officers, including Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, corps commandant, in opposition to the reduction, and reported that the budget recommendation would result in impaired efficiency and would put such marine stations as Quantico, Va., Parris Island, S. C., and San Diego, Calif., on a maintenance basis.

Chairman Vinson of the full committee directed that a copy of the report and hearings be sent to Representative Ayres (Democrat), Kansas, chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee, which is drafting the Navy appropriations measure, and has jurisdiction on the proposed cut.

AUDIENCE CHARMED BY MME. SUPERVIA

European Opera Star Here in Concert at Mayflower With Salvi.

Washington had the pleasure of greeting a new musical star whose fame in Europe is widespread when Mme. Conchita Supervia, contralto-coloratura, of Madrid, Paris and London Opera, charmed the audience at Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's sixty-fifth musical morning at the Hotel Mayflower with a program replete with operatic and ballad beauties.

Additional interest in Mme. Supervia's appearance was exhibited in the fact that in several of her groups of Spanish songs she wore Goya and Maja costumes, specially designed for her.

Her voice is a lovely contralto with mellow golden tones and she has an artistic way of presenting it to an audience. In her two operatic numbers, the lesson scene from "The Barber of Seville" and Carmen's "Seguidille," her diction and artistry were prominent indeed. The audience greatly enjoyed the Spanish groups and a familiar ballad, "The Lass with the Delicate Air," by A. Arne, won enconiums as well.

The other artist of the morning was an old favorite to Washington audiences, Alberto Salvi, harpist. He renewed the favorable impressions of past appearances here, his gorgeous tone, beauty of fingering and the sweet organ-like notes winning him ovations several times during the morning.

DeBussy, Bach and other noted composers were drawn on by Mr. Salvi in selecting the admirable numbers of his portion of the program.

the platform when the first section of the 6:10 Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac train out of Washington arrived.

The express car contained only one trunk, that tied with a small white rope. Red stains could be seen along the trunk's edges near the lock. Expressmen immediately carried the trunk to their warehouse, where detectives examined it.

They found that the slayers had not locked it. After pulling back a few small rags and then a discolored quilt, police discovered a man's head, badly gashed above the right eye. The coroner and an undertaker were notified.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The battered body of a Bronx landlord, beaten to death for the $40 in his pocket, was found tonight in Richmond, Va., where it had been shipped in a trunk.

Detectives there found the trunk as it arrived by train late today and sent the body to an undertaker's. The corpse had been sought in Richmond and Washington after two Negros here allegedly confessed the crime and renacted it for authorities.

Police said they admitted pounding Nathan Reigrod to death with a 20-pound iron furnace shaker; stealing $40 from his pockets; then jamming the body into a trunk and shipping it to Richmond.

The crime was committed in the basement of a house Reigrod owned. He had just collected some rents and was taking a look at the furnace, the men said, when they waylaid him.

The two being held are Henry Edmond, 38, janitor of the building, and John Tinsley, 25, a relative by marriage.

Thought Crime Perfect.

They thought they had committed a perfect crime, police said. They had burned all incriminating evidence; they had cleaned up all blood stains; one of them even went to the police station with Mrs. Reigrod to report her husband's disappearance—but they overlooked one thing.

As they were hauling the body from the basement to Edmond's apartment to lock it in the trunk, the dead man's glasses' case slipped from his pocket. Police found it, and a few hours later the signing of the confessions was announced.

During the long cross-examination, Edmond complained of being hungry and not having any money. After a detective had given him $1 for food, he noticed that the man was limping. His shoe was taken off and in the toe was found $18, which Edmond said was his share of the loot.

Police were hampered in locating the body because they were unable to learn on what train it left. Word was flashed to railroad stations between here and Richmond to be on the lookout for it, and Detective William Stetter left for Washington, D. C., in hope of intercepting it.

From the confession and the reenactment of the crime, police pieced together this story of what happened:

The men planned their crime Monday night and yesterday made all the preparations.

Asked to Buy Range.

Last night when Reigrod entered the basement, Tinsley asked him if he would sell a discarded gas range.

"And how about that old cabinet?" he also asked.

As Reigrod turned to look in the direction Tinsley pointed he was struck on the back of the head with the shaker. After he fell he was struck again.

The men took the $40 in rent money from his pocket and divided it. Then they burned all check books, cards and other identifying papers.

In Edmond's first-floor apartment they jammed the body into the trunk and tied it with a clothes line.

Then Edmond set about removing blood stains, while Tinsley took the trunk in a taxicab to the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, turned it over to a porter with shipping instructions, paid the $5.18 express charges out of his $20 and returned to the tenement with his receipt.

THE PARADINE CASE

By ROBERT HICHENS

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Malcolm Keane, one of England's most celebrated advocates, has been briefed by Sir Simon Flaquer, solicitor, to defend his client, Mrs. Paradine, against a charge of murdering her husband, Col. Paradine.

While Mrs. Paradine is in Holloway jail awaiting trial, Lord Horfield is appointed judge of the case.

Sir Malcolm and his pretty wife, Gay, who bears a subtle resemblance to Mrs. Paradine, have been happily married for ten years, but the husband's obsession with the Paradine case is beginning to cast a dark shadow over their happiness. Sir Malcolm finds himself fascinated by the mysterious blonde, whom he passionately desires to save. Subconsciously he is not wholly convinced of her innocence, but he declares emphatically to Sir Simon that he believes her innocent. Sir Simon is skeptical about the defense Sir Malcolm has prepared, which is to suggest that the colonel's servant, William Marsh, who had been Paradine's batman in the war, might have had a hand in the murder. Sir Malcolm is afraid of Lord Horfield, who seems to have a streak of cruelty that manifests itself toward women who come up for trial before him.

Lady Horfield, in confidence to Sir Malcolm, expresses her fears for Mrs. Paradine.

Col. Paradine had been blinded in the war and had never seen his beautiful wife, who had been a servant before her marriage. She is a Dane, who had been rescued from a life of degradation by a philanthropic American. After a short period in the United States, she had settled in London to earn her living, and had married the rich Col. Paradine after the war.

Sir Malcolm goes alone to the north of England to look over the Paradine home at Hindley. On his return he invites the Horfields to dinner and the theater, against Gay's wishes. The dinner passes off in a friendly enough spirit. Leaving for the theater Keane takes Lady Horfield in his car and Gay accompanies Lord Horfield, who makes love to her, much to her disgust.

When the Paradine trial opens, Gay goes to it with Judith Flaquer, unknown to Malcolm. Mrs. Paradine is put on the stand and testifies that William Marsh had pursued her with unwelcome attentions and that she had as a last resort complained to the colonel the afternoon before he died. Marsh is called to the stand and gives the lie to Mrs. Paradine, testifying that it was she who pursued him.

MARSH passed out through the crowd amid the murmuring of many voices. As he went he thrust out his powerful head toward Mrs. Paradine and enveloped her in a glance of intense hatred. She did not look at him but stood perfectly still in the witness box, looking absolutely blank. A buzz of talk rose all over the court.

"Silence!" said the judge, making his usually charming voice hard as steel. "I will have silence. If I hear any more noise in this court I shall have the court cleared."

"What with your assertion," said Keane, "and Marsh's denial, and your husband's anger, there was what may be called a 'scene' in the library, was there?".

"Yes," said the witness in a low voice that could scarcely be heard.

"How long did it last?"

"I don't know."

"How did it end?"

"My husband broke away and left the room in a passion."

"What happened then?"

"Did your husband leave the room first or did Marsh?"

Mrs. Paradine stood as if considering. She still preserved a sort of facade of almost blank composure, but it was becoming obvious that she had been shaken by the violent scene which had been ended by Marsh's departure. She looked curiously vague and her tall figure stooped a little in the witness box.

"Give the witness a chair!" ordered the judge.

A chair was pushed forward.

"You can give your evidence sitting," said the judge.

"Thank you, my lord," muttered Mrs. Paradine.

And she sat down with the two officers on either side of her, ready to minister to her in case of need.

"Which of the two left the room first?" asked Keane, deliberately softening his voice.

"I think it was Marsh. Yes—Marsh."

"What happened then?"

"My husband went upstairs."

"Alone?"

"I believe the butler went to him. I did not. It would have been no use."

"Please tell the jury this. Had you any reason whatever, apart from the reason you have given, for wishing to get Marsh out of the house?"

"No, none."

"He suggested that you may have had some secret reason for wishing him away. Had you?"

"No."

"You swear that?"

"I swear it."

Keane then put to the witness a few questions as to what she did previous to going to her bedroom, as spoken of by the witness. Marsh, eliciting nothing from her of any particular value for the defense. After dining alone downstairs she had gone to her bedroom on the first floor.

"Why did you go up to your bedroom?" he asked.

"I wanted to arrange my hair and put some eau de cologne on my forehead," said the witness.

"About how long were you in your bedroom?"

"Not very long. But I didn't time it."

"Now Mrs. Paradine, please tell the jury on your oath—did you visit your husband's bedroom while he was in the lavatory?"

"I did not."

"Did you—remembering he could not see—did you go into his room for any purpose when he was there, before you came downstairs to the drawing room?"

"I did not."

"You are accused of having poisoned him by introducing antimony, in the form of tartar emetic, into something he took that evening or night—perhaps into the glass of Burgundy by his bedside. Did you do this?"

"I swear I did not."

"Did you have anything at all to do with his death?"

"I did not."

"When you finally came downstairs was any one on the landing?"

"No."

"When you came downstairs what did you do?"

"I was very unhappy at what had taken place. To try and soothe my nerves I went to the piano and played."

"An arrangement of the 'Blue Danube?'"

"Yes."

"You did this to try to quiet your nerves?"

"Yes."

"What caused you to stop playing?"

"I was tired and went up to bed."

"Did you fall asleep?"

"Yes."

"Did anything wake you?"

"Yes."

"What was it?"

"I was waked by a voice, my husband's, shouting on, or near, the landing."

"Did you hear any words?"

"I heard a cry of 'Marsh! Marsh!'"

"Now, Mrs. Paradine, please tell the jury exactly what impression this cry made upon you."

"What impression?" said the witness, vaguely.

"Yes. What impression did you get from this cry?"

"That something terrible was the matter, that something had happened."

"Ah? But this cry of 'Marsh!'—did it sound like a cry for aid?"

Keane looked at her and frowned as he put this question.

The witness hesitated.

"I don't know," she said finally.

"Or did it sound like a comment?"

"A comment?" said the witness.

"For instance," said Keane, with almost sinister slowness, "did it sound like a denunciation?"

"My lord," said Sir Joseph Farrell, abruptly rising. "I must really protest. The learned counsel, contrary to your lordship's ruling, is again trying to induce the witness to say what he thinks would be useful to the defense. He is manifestly leading her."

"I am not," exclaimed Keane. "I merely ask her——"

"I will ask her," the judge interrupted. (To the witness):

"Your husband's cry of 'Marsh!' What impression did it make upon you?"

"An impression that something dreadful had happened, my lord."

"Just that?"

"Yes."

"Nothing else?"

"No, my lord."

"The question is answered, Sir Malcolm. You can pass away from it."

"If I am not to be allowed to question the witness in my own way, my lord, it is impossible for me——" began Keane, wrathfully.

Then he stopped abruptly, seemed to make a great effort, and in a cold, dry voice asked the witness some more questions about the arrival of the doctor, her husband's illness and death. He closed his examination in the following way:

"Did you tell William Marsh that in his will your husband had left Marsh money?"

"I believe I did."

"Why was that?"

"I did it to show Marsh that I had no enmity toward him, no wish to do him harm. I thought he would be pleased and that he would do nothing that could displease my husband."

"That was your object in telling him?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever wish any ill to Marsh?"

"Never."

"You only wished to have him away from the house?"

"That was all."

"Because of what you have told the jury?"

"O, yes—yes!" the witness exclaimed, as if suddenly driven out of all self-control by sheer nervous exasperation. "Yes!"

The last "yes" was almost a cry. It was followed by dead silence.

"That is all I have to ask you!" said Keane with cold abruptness.

And he sat down and bent over his papers.

* * * * * * * *

Directly Keane sat down Sir Joseph Farrell got up and began his cross-examination of Mrs. Paradine.

He asked her a few searching questions about her early life, the circumstances of her rescue by Mr. Powers, the American, from "a certain house of evil fame" in Copenhagen, her eventual departure from the Powers menage in New York, and her subsequent existence in America as a masseuse, and in France during the war. Mrs. Paradine replied to him with quiet composure. She had herself marvelously well in hand and showed no traces of the acute agitation she must have undergone during the sensational incidents which had recently disturbed and excited the great crowd in court. It was obvious that she had recovered from what had happened more rapidly and completely than her counsel, who, as was apparent to every one, was in an acutely emotional condition. His handsome face was still flushed with angry blood. His dark eyes showed a fierce light as of burning indignation. And his hands were scarcely ever still.

The curious blandness of Sir Joseph Farrell was in strong contrast with Keane's demeanor, so full of acute nervous irritation. This rather short thick-set man of the shaven lips and the whiskers was almost seductive with his dulcet tones, and his gentle gestures, and his softly inquiring voice and, at times, semi-wistful manner.

"I want to know——" he would say, and "Can you tell me——" and "It would help me if you would explain——" and "It would make things easier for the jury if you could make clear why——"

During the cross-examination about the life at Hindley Sir Joseph put a number of questions concerning Mrs. Paradine's relations with William Marsh.

"Marsh has been described as a woman hater. Did you find him so?"

"I didn't think he cared about women."

"No? But that manner you had to complain of eventually in London? What about that?"

"I attributed that to impertinence."

"Merely to impertinence?"

The witness hesitated.

"Remember your evidence in chief. To what did you attribute this manner of which you had reason to complain?"

"I suppose to the fact that Marsh had been foolish enough to take a fancy to me."

"You had reason to believe that the woman hater had taken a fancy to you? Was that it?"

"Yes."

"Was Marsh, in your view, a most devoted servant?"

"Yes."

"Passionately attached to his master?"

"He certainly seemed so."

"You thought it hypocrisy?"

Witness was silent. During her silence she looked toward her counsel.

"Kindly attend to me!" (The voice was slightly less bland.) "Do you believe that Marsh was, or had been, genuinely devoted to his master?"

"I suppose—yes."

"And yet you say that he grossly betrayed his master's confidence?"

Silence.

"If that be true mustn't such a man be an arch hypocrite?"

"I—I don't know."

"You are doubtful?"

The voice was very soft yet urgent. The witness made no reply.

"You were fond of your husband?"

"Yes, very fond."

"You loved him?"

"Yes."

"Did you admire him?"

"Yes."

"Respect him?"

"Yes."

Haphazard Taxi Traffic Blamed in Death Rise

Disorganization in the operation of Washington taxicabs, which it was charged, has resulted in the increase of injuries and deaths, was scored yesterday by the citizens joint transportation committee at a meeting in the Homer Building.

Unregulated taxicab operation in the District is unequaled throughout the country, the committee charged. It was voted to immediately urge steps for correction of the situation.

COMMITTEE PLANS BEER BILL CHANGES

Alterations Designed to Meet Constitutionality Issue to Be Undertaken.

(Associated Press.)

Radical alterations of the House's 3.2 per cent beer bill to avoid questions of its constitutionality are to be undertaken in committee before the legislation makes its bow on the Senate floor.

Several amendments have been considered and one is expected to be incorporated in the measure by the Senate judiciary subcommittee, which meets today.

It would fix penalties for manufacture of beer beyond a certain percentage without attempting to define an intoxicating beverage. The tax would be levied on all beer at and below the percentage specified.

The decision to redraft the legislation was a setback to advocates of prompt action, but through the changes they hope to win support from senators now opposed because of constitutional objections.

Meanwhile, Democratic opposition was renewed yesterday against tha part of the prohibition repeal resolution, already reported favorably by the full Judiciary Committee, proposing submission to State Legislatures.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, said this was out of line with the Democratic platform calling for submission to State conventions.

He said he would press an amendment on the floor to this end.

HOUSE GUN WIELDER RETURNED TO HOME

ure and late yesterday he was permitted to return to his home.

Expert Marksman.

Kemmerer was found to be an expert marksman when he was arrested. He bore credentials showing that he had often proven himself adept with a pistol of the type he displayed in the House. He resided here at 612 Massachusetts avenue northwest, where he had taken a room shortly after his visit here.

At his home, Kemmerer was known as a model young man. His employer said he had never noticed anything unusual about him. Indeed, he said Kemmerer had proven himself a fine clerk with a future.

At the time he sought to intrude upon the deliberations of the House, Kemmerer said he wished to talk for 20 minutes upon the evils of unemployment and kindred subjects. His display of the weapon emptied the House in short order, and when Representative Maas approached him and got the weapon, the representative was accorded the plaudits of the members of the House.

Charge Held Pending.

It was emphasized last night that the criminal charge against Kemmerer had not been disposed of. It was said that if he should show evidences of a recurrence of his desire to control the House at the point of a pistol, he would be promptly haled back here and be made to face charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

In his examination of Kemmerer in Gallinger Hospital, Dr. Hickling reported he found the prisoner entirely responsible, legally, for his acts. Beyond that he did not go, but he recommended that, if it were possible, Kemmerer be paroled so that the home influences would be surrounding him rather than the atmosphere of an institution. It was on his urgent recommendation that Mr. Rover and the two representatives decided to send him home, rather than send him to court to face a charge that, upon conviction, would have sent him to jail for years.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is the energetic and resourceful Mr. Frank Braden, one of the more listenable of the theater's mouthpieces, whose interests range from the sawdust seductions of the big tops to the purling cadences of classic drama, who takes the trouble to apprise this column that in the birthplace of the drama in America, near the site of America's first tabernacle of the Thespic art—the William Levingston "Play House," built on the east side of the Governor's Palace Green in Williamsburg, Va., in 1716—the RKO-Rockefeller Colonial Williamsburg Restoration Group will open a new theater, with an invited audience of national and Virginia notables in attendance, tonight, January 12, 1933.

Although the new theater is entirely colonial in its exterior and interior aspects, it has within its attractive walls the most modern of motion picture equipment.

However, on its opening night, the William and Mary College Players will tread its stage in the scenes of Acts I and II of George Farquhar's comedy, "The Recruiting Officer," just as other members of this same college dramatic organization did down in the first American theater 197 years ago.

So far as records in America and England go—and they are undoubtedly conclusive—the Restoration Group finds that "The Recruiting Officer" is the first play of record given in America. It was one of a group of four plays presented by "the young gentlemen of the college and the young gentlemen and ladies of the county" during the week of September 10, 1736, in the first "Play House."

"The Recruiting Officer" will be offered by the William and Mary College Players as a stage presentation on the opening night, highlighting a program that includes, on the screen, a Mickey Mouse cartoon, a Clark and McCullough comedy and Ann Harding and Richard Dix in "The Conquerors." Hence, Williamsburg residents and their guests may see emphasized the changes in theater entertainment that two centuries have wrought.

Many of them will note with satisfaction, no doubt, that the spoken drama of the legitimate stage is still running an even race—in Williamsburg and the Williamsburg Theater, at least—with the cinema. And that is not so unpleasant, in this old colonial capital, where George Washington was an inveterate first-nighter.

The RKO-Williamsburg Theater opening will be further distinguished by the sesquicentennial celebration of the founding of the first balloon club in America by the students of William and Mary. The club inaugurated its activities with a general balloon ascension early in 1783. Tonight the planes of the William and Mary Aviation School will circle in antiaircraft beams over the theater and set off fireworks. The squadron will be directed by Col. Earl C. Popp, head of the school, the first to be established by an American college.

Something of the value to the RKO theatrical interests of the close affiliation with the Rockefellers, which made possible the Radio City Music Hall and the new RKO-Roxy Theater in Rockefeller Center, New York, also is reflected in the fact that the Rockefeller restoration group, active in Williamsburg, has turned the conduct of the new Williamsburg Theater over to RKO and its operating staff.

Following the hot pace set by Mr. Edward de Selding Melcher, of the Star, "An Informal Evening With Clifford Brooke" is announced by the Arts Club for Sunday evening at 7, in its clubhouse, 2017 I street. Mr. Brooke will address the club on the stage and dramatic art, with particular reference to the widespread movement to enliven the theater.

Having thus touched off the topic of impending events, it will be of interest that on Monday afternoon at 4:30 in Constitution Hall, Rachmaninoff, celebrated pianist and composer, will be heard in recital.

Following the chronological order of similar events, we find that on Tuesday, January 17, the Philadelphia Orchestra will be heard in concert in Constitution Hall, with Issay Debrowen conducting, and on Thursday, January 19, the National Symphony, in the same auditorium at 4:45 p. m., with Vladimir Harowitz, famous pianist, as the solo artist.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:40, John Masefield, poet laureate of England, will make his only local appearance on his present tour of the United States in a recital of his own works, both prose and poetry.

Those who profess to have been reading between the lines in all of the chatter that has been spilled with regard to Irving Thalberg's probable retirement from a key post among Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production chiefs will no doubt be able to put two and two together and make six or eight out of it when they see the announcement that Walter Wanger, upon terminating his association with Columbia Pictures this month will join M-GM as associate producer.

Which, of course, has nothing to do with the fact that on next Monday night at the National, Washington will have a pre-Broadway opportunity to enjoy a new Noel Coward comedy, in which not only Mr. Coward himself but Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne also will be seen.

Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne have not appeared locally since their memorable engagement a year ago in Mr. Robert Emmett Sherwood's delightful comedy, "Reunion in Vienna," and Mr. Coward not for considerably longer than that. "Design for Living," the new piece Mr. Coward has concocted for the particular purposes of his appearance with his old friends, the Lunts, is heralded as a hit and Gotham's first-nighters already are preparing for a completely gala evening at sharply tilted tariffs when the play departs from the banks of the Potomac, across the river from Alexandria, Va., to take up its abode in Manhattan.

However, there will be motion picture entertainment, as usual, something after the manner of this, beginning tomorrow: RKO-Keith's, Nils Asther and Barbara Stanwyck in "The Bitter Tea of General Yen;" Loew's Fox, Wallace Beery and Karen Morley in "Flesh," and Frank and Milt Britton's Band headlining the vaudeville; Earle, Constance Cummings and Robert Armstrong in "The Billion Dollar Scandal," and Grace Hayes headlining the vaudeville; Palace, Clark Gable, Carole Lombard and Dorothy Mackaill in "No Man of Her Own;" Rialto, Pat O'Brien and Merna Kennedy in "Laughter in Hell;" Columbia, Theodore von Eltz and Merna Kennedy in "Red Haired Alibi;" Metropolitan, Spencer Tracy and Bette Davis in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing."

The new year's bookings for Loew's Fox, Palace and Columbia Theaters just having been received, City Manager Carter Barron, flecked with foam and beating the alkali dust out of his chaps, leaps off his pony express to deliver the news that the following pictures, from M-G-M, United Artists, Fox and Paramount, which he designates with an innate and shrinking modesty, "The Big Line-Up," will be shown in his theaters within the next six weeks, the first of them beginning Friday:

Helen Hayes and Ramon Novarro in "The Son Daughter," from the celebrated play by David Belasco.

Eddie Cantor and Lyda Roberti in "The Kid From Spain," with Sidney Franklin, America's only professional bull fighter.

Al Jolson, Harry Langdon and Madge Evans in "Hallelujah, I'm A Bum!"

Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen, Lupe Velez and El Brendel in "Hot Pepper."

Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Sally Eilers and Lew Ayres in "State Fair."

Frederic March and Claudette Colbert in "Tonight Is Ours."

Norma Shearer, in "La Tendresse."

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, in "Tug Boat Annie."

"Cavalcade," with a famous all-English cast, headed by Clive Brook.

Marion Davies, in "Peg o' My Heart."

Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston and "Schnozzle" Durante, in "Hell Below."

Joan Crawford and Gary Cooper, in "Today We Love."

James Dunn and Boots Mallory, in "Handle With Care."

"Tarzan and His Mate," with Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan.

Buster Keaton, "Schnozzle" Durante and Jackie Cooper, in "Buddies."

Colleen Moore and Jackie Cooper, in "Lost."

Wallace Beery, Karen Morley and Ricardo Cortez, in "Flesh."

Clark Gable, in "No Man of Her Own," with Carole Lombard and Dorothy Mackaill.

Ernest Truex and Una Merkel, in "Whistling in the Dark."

Irene Dunn, in "The Secret of Madame Blanche," with Phillips Holmes.

John Barrymore, in "Reunion in Vienna."

"I told you all along," says Mr. Barron, "that there was a Santa Claus!"

I see that everybody who contributed to the Democratic national campaign fund is to be given the privilege of digging down in his jeans again for tickets to watch the inaugural parade prance by!

How do you mean, "forgotten man?"

MANGRUM'S 69 TOPS AGUA CALIENTE GOLF FIELD

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

SOME day a couple of trunk murders are going to be committed inside the ropes at Portner's Arena and the sporting gentlemen who attend the matches there each week waft no booes in the direction of the principals, thereby setting a new world record for the place.

Pete Sanstol and Jimmy Mack fought eight rounds at Portner's last Tuesday night, starting off at such a furious clip that it seemed human endurance was to be flaunted unless both slowed down, but slow down they did not, swinging punches that threatened to knock both boys loose from their shoes. It was a slashing, slambang battle that apparently should have stirred the innards of even the most primitive fans.

But at the finish this department was amazed to hear a loud chorus of boos amid much mumbling of pulled punches and business of arrangements between the two lads. You'd have thought from the comments that the boys had dragged a bicycle built for two into the ring and back pedaled it for the eight rounds.

Portner's Fans Hard To Please.

Those audiences at Portner's each week are the hardest to please that this department has ever observed. Especially for the main bout fighters. The caliber of the preliminaries, perhaps, has been the chief underlying cause. By the time these curtain-raising and semifinal bouts have whetted the lust of the crowd by uniformly good fights, the main bout boys are on the spot and nothing less than a good, old-fashioned murder will maintain their main bout reputation with the fans.

The life of a matchmaker is indeed severe. The best match possible, the match that puts a premium on a matchmaker's matchmaking sagacity is a draw. Yet a draw rarely sets well with the fans at Portner's.

If there were any reason for Sanstol or Mack to pull their punches or otherwise bargain for the decision, the boos might have been more justified. But both were fighting for a straight percentage of the gate with winner and loser sharing equally.

Dempsey Reminds of Tex Rickard.

Madison Square Garden having failed to perpetuate the promotorial fame of Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey now seems the likeliest successor to the game's greatest gambler in pugilistic fortunes.

Dempsey, with the Schmeling-Baer bout in tow, is shopping around with the battle in a manner that smacks strongly of the Rickardian style. In every stop on his present vaudeville tour, Dempsey is expressing his desire to stage the bout in that particular city and is breaking into the newsprints with the match six days a week.

Thus far, Dempsey has New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Denver and Salt Lake City bidding for the match. This kind of competition is going to make a financial success out of a battle that already looks like an artistic wham.

Burgess Tops Attack at Annapolis With 8 Field Goals.

Runs Wild After Colonials Trail, 20-18, at Intermission.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 11.—George Washington University's group of towering courtiers romped over St. John's College in a slap and bang game here tonight to the tune of 52 to 32. On the short end of a 20 to 18 score at half time, the Colonials put on full steam when hostilities were resumed, soon went into the lead and increased their margin to the end, their fast and smoother attack being too much for the Johnnies to master.

Burgess, visiting forward, literally ran wild in the second half to score seven times from the court, and once from the strip, which, with one field marker in the first session, gave him a total of 17 points, high scoring honors for the battle.

Zahn Also Colonial Star.

Scarcely less impressive was the work of Zahn at guard for the Colonials, who collected five goals from court and one from the line to give him 11 points. Wickman, the giant of the G. W. outfit, playing at center put up a strong game, figuring conspicuously in the passing and general team work, though he retired in favor of Hertzler before the close of the first half. The latter had an eye for the nets, caging three goals. McCarte, Kilmore and Donahue, bore the brunt of the work for the Johnnies, but the home team was completely outmatched except in the first half.

Congressional Lists Boxing Bouts Tonight

Amateur boxing teams representing the American Legion of Washington and an all-star team from Baltimore will clash tonight at the Congressional Country Club in the annual smoker and entertainment for members and guests. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Seven bouts of three rounds each are on the program. Washington easily won the team match last month.

Here is tonight's line-up:

112 pounds, Joe Green (W.) vs. Nick Transperenti (B.); 118 pounds, Nay Palmer (W.) vs. Joe Bruno (B.); 135 pounds, Dallas Palmer (W.) vs. Charlie Barranio, (B.); 147 pounds, Benny Jenkins (W.) vs. Charlie Barranco (B.); 147 pounds, Herb Vermillin (W.) vs. Tom Kaldaros (B.); 160 pounds, Jack Baxter (W.) vs. George Zerek (B.); 175 pounds, Lee Crandall (W.) vs. John Fortuna (B.).

Play-Off Adopted By International

Three Short Series Will Follow Regular Race; Rowland at Albany.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Falling in line with the recent action of the American Association, the International Baseball League directors today adopted a complicated play-off plan calling for three short series following the regular 168-game schedule to determine the league champion and representative in the "little world series."

The plan, presented by Frank Shaughnessy, business manager of the Montreal Club, divides the league into two divisions with Rochester, Buffalo, Montreal and Toronto in the Northern section and Newark, Jersey City, Baltimore and Albany in the Southern.

The ranking teams in each division will meet in a series of three out of five games, as will the second-place teams in each group. The two winners will clash for the championship and the right to meet the winner of the American Association play in the "little world series."

The Albany club again will be under the management of Clarence Rowland until the Chicago Cubs can find a buyer.

FRANKIE GENARO, former world flyweight champion, who is expected to meet Joe Fino in the feature bout at Portner's Arena next Tuesday.

GENARO-FINO SOUGHT FOR PORTNER'S

Ex-Flyweight Champ May Meet Mexican Next Tuesday.

EFFORTS are being made by Matchmaker Frankie Mann to match Frankie Genaro, former world's flyweight champion, with Joe Fino next Tuesday at Portner's, it became known yesterday, with the announcement that Les Kennedy, Montana heavyweight scheduled to box Marty Gallagher, of Washington, would be unable to go through with his eight-round agreement next week because of an injured hand which he suffered in a recent fight at Charlotte, N. C.

Kennedy, now registered out of Chicago, has asked that the fight be postponed until the latter part of this month. A 195-pounder with a strong right punch, Kennedy, defeated Bob Godwin at Portner's a few weeks ago.

Mann was in communication with Genaro's manager yesterday, and expected to close out the match today. Genaro will be second flyweight champion of the world to perform at Portner's, Midget Wolgast, now recognized as the title holder, having fought at the Alexandria arena last winter before a capacity crowd.

Fino, bantamweight champion of Mexico, scored a decisive victory over Doug Swetnam last month. A most improved fighter, the colorful Fino, has been working out daily at Portner's under the watchful eye of his manager, Jimmy Erwin.

In the eight-round semiwindup Bob Tow, 190-pound Birmingham, Ala., fighter, conqueror of Marty Gallagher and Ray Swanson, will be pitted against Herman Weiner, left-hook artist from Baltimore.

Three four-round preliminaries will be added.

Cubs Buy Richmond, Pitcher, From Orioles

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The Baltimore Orioles of the International League, through Business Manager James Dawson, announced today the sale of Beryl Richmond, left-handed pitcher, to the Chicago Cubs. The sale price was not announced.

Richmond won 12 games and lost 14 for the second-place Orioles last season.

Rena Levy Bowls 177 For New World Mark

Rena Levy, left-handed bowling ace of the Columbia Team of the Ladies District League, established a new high game world's record for women, of 177, last night at Lucky Strike alleys, cracking the national mark formerly held by Lorraine Gulli, of King Pin, by 1 pin. Rolling with unerring accuracy, Miss Levy scored four strikes and three spares. She had strikes in her first three boxes.

The Columbia star shattered the mark made by Miss Gulli in a special match at Roanoke, Va., February 8, 1930, and was 4 pins ahead of the New England mark of 172 claimed by Lillian Frish, of the Charter Oak Team, Hartford, Conn.

So excited was Miss Levy at the conclusion of her record-breaking game that she found difficulty in rolling the next two games, taking a 104 in the second game and 95 in the third, for a 376 set.

Her record high game follows: 30 59 79 97 107 124 134 154 169 177.

Navy Defeats American U. Tossers

Eagles, Slow to Get Started, Trail at Half, 20 to 7.

Tars' Stronger Zone Defense Too Much for American.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 11. The Navy Basket Ball Team rung up its fourth straight victory of the season here today. American University, of Washington, was the victim, and the score was 39 to 24. The Eagles were one of three teams to take the measure of the Tars last year, taking a close verdict, but today they lacked the zip and cunning in swishing for the cords, though the game was fast and hard fought throughout.

Oscar Sells, veteran center of the Washingtonians, around whom much of the attack revolved, and who was the mainspring in last year's victory, was kept so well covered by the Tars today that he sunk only one field goal, and added another tally from the penalty strip.

But the main factor in the Middies' triumph was their stronger zone defense, for while the visitors gave a fast and clever exhibition of passing, they were unable to break through as often as the Tars.

Eagles Trail, 20 to 7, At Half.

The visitors were slow in finding the range in the first half and trailed at the intermission by 20 to 7, but their attack functioned in better shape in the second session, though at no time did they develop a serious threat of overhauling the home team.

The game was four minutes old before there was any scoring. Then Rankin broke the ice by a clever court goal, and Loughlin put one through a few seconds later. The Middies rolled up 8 points before G. Williams scored from the floor for the Americans after nine minutes had elapsed. Soon afterward, however, the Middies began to steadily draw away, the invaders missing many chances and showing lamentable weakness in tossing from the line.

Targee and Kessler flashed some good work to open the second half, each with field goals, but these were quickly matched by Loughlin and Borries, of Navy. From then on the teams battled practically on even terms, each getting eight goals from the floor, while the Middies tossed three from the strip to one for the Eagles.

Loughlin and Dornin Navy Stars.

Loughlin, Navy ace, and Dornin carried the bulk of the fight for the Tars, the former amassing 14 points as a result of six field goals and two from the line, while Dornin scored six times from court. With "Buzz" Borries making a fine job of it in covering Sells, it fell to the lot of Dick and G. Williams to dominate the scoring of the Washingtonians. Kessler and Targee, however, did some fine work in the guard positions.

A big Washington delegation followed the Eagle tossers to Annapolis.

Winston-Salem to Sue Giants for 8 Players

Winston Salem, N. C., Jan. 11 (A.P.). Judge O. O. Efird signed a court order today authorizing Luke L. Stuart, receiver of the Winston Salem Club of the Piedmont League, to take immediate steps to sell the franchise and players for the benefit of the club's creditors.

Following today's order, Judge Efird instructed Stuart to sue the New York National League Club for recovery of the contracts of eight Winston Salem players who yesterday were transfered to the roster of the Giants.

The players are Al Smith, southpaw pitcher; John Salverson and Reggie Mapp, right-handers; Harry Danning, catcher; Joseph Malay, first sacker; John Laborne, second baseman and Henry Leiber and Joe Martin, outfielders. The Giants operated the Winston Salem Club last year.

Old Line Five Faces Duke Tonight

Unbeaten Blue Devils Led by Thompsons, Ex-Western Aces.

Gallaudet Tossers Guests of Virginia U. Tonight.

WITH the scalps of two Washington college basket ball teams already dangling from their belts, the Blue Devils of Duke University advance on Ritchie Coliseum tonight at 8 o'clock to meet Maryland. Duke, undefeated in six starts this year, number both George Washington and Georgetown among their victims.

The durable Dukes, who are dominated by a local boy, Jimmy Thompson, former Western High ace, loom as a distinct favorite tonight, but Maryland's rapidly improving young team will do its utmost to avert defeat. In the past five years Maryland has won three times, twice when it was as much of an underdog as tonight.

Herbie Thompson, brother of Jimmy, also is a valuable player on the team. Another pair of brothers—the Lewis boys—are regulars. In Horne, forward, Duke has a player whose shooting eye downed G. W. Jimmy Thompson scored 17 points in the Georgetown game, which Duke won by 35 to 30. Duke beat G. W., 35 to 34.

D. C. and Nearby Schools Furnish Talent.

Maryland, of course, goes in heavily for local or nearby talent. Roy Yowell, forward, and Buckey Buscher, guards—like the Thompson brothers—went to Western. The rest of the team is made up of the spectacular Spider Chase, forward; Rufus Vincent, center, and Bob Snyder, guard, this trio hailing from Hyattsville. Peewee Walker, diminutive forward, may see a lot of action before the night is over.

Gallaudet steps into the first of a series of serious games in the South tonight when it meets Virginia at Charlottesville, followed by Washington and Lee and V. M. I. on succeeding nights.

Tonight's Maryland-Duke game completes the strictly local basket ball program for the week, the remainder of the college games being played away. The only other sports event of the week here is a swimming meet Saturday at the Ambassador pool between G. W. and Rider.

Los Angeles Signs Up Mohler, Trojan Star

Los Angeles, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Orville Mohler, erstwhile quarter back of the University of Southern California football team, signed a baseball contract today with the Los Angeles Club, of the Pacific Coast League.

Mohler will go out for this season's Trojan nine and be graduated from the university in June. He then will join the Angels.

Schmeling Battle Sought by Philly

Dempsey Discusses Bout With Pa. Commission; Wants 15 Rounds.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 11 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey and the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission today discussed the possibility of holding the Schmeling-Baer bout in Philadelphia this summer, but nothing definite developed from the conference.

Dempsey, who is here on a vaudeville tour, said he would give Philadelphia favorable consideration for the battle site because of the "fine treatment previously given" him by the Pennsylvania Commission.

A State law limits boxing bouts to ten rounds, but a bill to extend the limit has been introduced in the State Legislature by Representative Jaffe, of Philadelphia. Dempsey said he would not permit Schmeling and Baer to fight less than fifteen rounds.

Dempsey will continue his negotiations with the commissioners at a later date.

SANTA VS. MALONEY.

Boston, Jan. 11 (U.P.).—Jose Santa, Portuguese giant, will oppose Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, in a feature bout at Boston Garden January 20, Matchmaker Billy Ames announced tonight.

The bout will be the third set-to of one of Maloney's periodic comeback campaigns.

Baer Sued for $250,000 Balm by California Girl

Heavyweight Broke 2-Year Engagement, Suit Charges.

MAX BAER.

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Max Baer, heavyweight California boxer, was charged with breach of promise to marry in a suit filed here today by Miss Olive Beck, of Livermore, Calif., who asked $250,000 damages.

Miss Beck asserted the curly-haired fighter broke off a two-year engagement with her at the time he married Dorothy Dunbar Wells De Garson, former actress, in Reno, Nev., in 1931. She said Baer, a former Livermore butcher boy, had expressed love for her in correspondence and on autographed photographs of himself.

Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, said the fighter was at Fair Oaks, near Sacramento. Hoffman, who is in San Francisco, said he had never heard of the alleged engagement.

Mrs. Baer at her Oakland home smiled as she was informed of the suit.

"A suit against Max," she declared, "is like trying to get blood out of a turnip. Max has no money."

Several months ago Baer and his wife announced they had separated and Mrs. Baer filed a divorce suit in Los Angeles. A reconciliation followed, however, the suit was withdrawn, and Mrs. Baer returned to Oakland.

St. Louis, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—James E. Parker, former flyweight boxer, today filed a $10,000 breach of promise suit against Mrs. Melva Miller Anthonopoulus, alleging she refused to wed him. He said he proposed to her in 1925, but has refused to go through with the marriage. Parker gave his age as 29 and hers as 26.

JUDSON NEW FOE FOR LONDOS

Meets Champion for First Time Tonight at Auditorium.

WITH the promise of one of the largest indoor wrestling crowds in more than a year's time, Jim Londos, looked upon here and there as world's wrestling champion, defends his title tonight at the Washington Auditorium against Frank Judson, former Harvard wrestling coach.

Londos, unbeaten in so many consecutive bouts that even he has long since lost track of the count, finds himself in the rather strange predicament of meeting Judson for the first time tonight, Judson being comparatively new to the game. Londos' foes generally have met him between 25 and 50 times, Ray Steele being a case in point.

Judson Replaces Wilson.

Judson is a handsome young man with a beautiful profile and trustworthy wrist lock, which he uses from the time he steps into the ring until they drag his opponent away. He is very popular, wrestles very cleanly and seems to be drawing more women spectators to rassling matches than have been in evidence since the marcelled days of Doc Wilson.

The rest of the bouts seem to be much better than is customary among the preliminaries. Paul Jones, the old Texas scissors expert—not seen here in more than a year—returns to do battle with one Pat McKay. The winner will be presented with a cup, donated by Wallace Beery's press agent, Beery's new wrestling film being just about due in Washington.

Rudy Dusek is always at his best against a reliable punching bag such as Jim Clinstock, durable Indian, who is about as big as Tiny Roebuck.

Another 30-minute bout of more than usual interest matches up little Abe Coleman and Joe Cox, who have committed a couple of 30-minute draws in their day, and in the same sort of time limit bout the professional villain, Tiger Nelson, wreaks his brand of studied villainy on sensitive Babe Caddock.

Women fans tonight, in honor of Mr. Londos, will be dunned half the price of the regular male admission instead of being let in free.

Golf Open Qualifying Rounds Listed May 15

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A. M. Reid, secretary of the United States Golf Association, announced today the sectional qualifying rounds for the national open championship will be held on Monday May 15, and the sectional eliminations rounds for the amateur championship will be held on Tuesday, August 8, on courses to be selected.

The open championship finals will be played over the course of the North Shore Golf Club, Chicago, on June 8, 9 and 10. Dates are not yet fixed for the amateur championship to be played at the Kenwood Country Club, Cincinnati, Ohio, in September.

HOPES FADE FOR CREW CLASSIC

Cornell Drops Rowing; Columbia Alone Strong for Event.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Despite gloomier prospects developed this week for the Poughkeepsie Regatta, Maxwell Stevenson, of Columbia, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, tonight repeated his conviction the rowing championship events will be held this June, as usual, with the varsity race at the traditional distance of 4 miles.

Definite decision, however, as to the fate of the 1933 regatta is expected tomorrow at the annual meeting of the stewards, representing Columbia, Navy, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

Cornell's Abandonment of Rowing Is Jolt.

The biggest jolt today was Cornell's announcement of the abandonment of all rowing, as well as other sports except basket ball, for the balance of the school year. This action came from one of the colleges steeped most in the tradition as well as the triumphs connected with the Poughkeepsie Regatta. It was followed immediately by a reaction indicating Cornell alumni would rally to the support of sending at least the varsity crew to the Hudson River for the championships.

The University of California, varsity winners last year, also has indicated inability to finance another trip to Poughkeepsie this year.

Chairman Stevenson, however, is convinced both California and Cornell, as well as other Eastern schools long interested in rowing, will combine forces and finances to hold the regatta, even if it has to be done on a more economical and restricted basis than usual, as well as at an earlier date in June. Stevenson opposes reducing the distance of the varsity race from 4 to 3 miles, holding that this is unnecessary.

Columbia, through Stevenson, will be the only college going into tomorrow's meeting definitely committed to holding the regatta, with races for all three classes of competition. Navy is sympathetic but Syracuse and Pennsylvania have not definitely gone on record in advance, although authorities at both universities are known to share Cornell's attitude about the financial difficulties.

Cornell graduates not only indicated today they would rally to prevent a default at Poughkeepsie, but also seek support for spending at least the outstanding track and field athetes from Ithaca to the indoor I. C. A. A. A. championships in March and the outdoor title games in May.

Tommy Goodwin Bows In Miami Golf Upset

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan 11 (A.P.). Young Garfield Miller, jr., of Miami, today eliminated Tommy Goodwin, of Monroe, N. Y., defending champion, from the anual Miami-Biltmore invitation amateur golf tournament by a score of 1 up in 18 holes. Art Lynch, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., defeated Don Soccoli, of New Britain, Conn., 1 up in 18 holes, in the other semifinal match.

Favorites Disappoint as High Winds Play Havoc With Ball.

By WILLIAM WARNE (Associated Press Staff Writer).

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—It was an ill wind—for the favorites—that swept the long course here today, but it blew Ray Mangrum, 22-year-old Texan, into a first day lead in the $7,500 Agua Caliente open golf tournament.

Mangrum shot a remarkable 35—34—69, with the wind aiding his naturally long driving game, to take a one-stroke lead over the field, three on par and six on Fred Morrison, of Pasadena, defending champion, and the blond Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., who won the three big money tournaments of the Western winter golfing circuit.

The obstinate wind almost reached gale proportions in the middle of the morning, blowing from the east while the big shots were firing in that direction on the out nine, and reversing itself when they started on the westerly in nine.

Youngsters and Unknowns Thrive.

But it was a great day for the youngsters and comparatively unknown players, who started late enough to take advantage of the change in the wind.

Archie Hambrick, young pro from Zanesville, Ohio, was in second place with 35-35—70. Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill., and John Rogers, pro from Denver, tied for third with cards of 71.

The best score made by one of the veteran guard was an even par 72, turned in by Al Espinosa, of Akron, Ohio, which put him in fifth place. Al had a chance to go into second place, but blew it on the eighteenth green, which he 3-putted, once missing at 6 inches.

Mangrum's score established a record on the course. This year, for the first time, the 133 contestants were not allowed to improve their lies on the fairway. Under previous conditions, Gene Sarazen, British and American open champion, once shot 18 holes in 68.

Mangrum and Espinosa Get Eagles.

Mangrum and Espinosa each made eagle 3's on par-5 holes, between them accomplishing the feat of the longest holes on the course. Mangrum did it on the 550-yard eighth hole, driving 300 yards, making 250 with a spoon, with the wind, and holing a 30-foot putt. Espinosa picked out the 554-yard seventeenth to conquer. His drive was more than 300 yards, and he put his second shot 12 feet from the cup.

Mangrum's putter was working to advantage, except on the first hole, where he took three and went one over par. He played directly into the wind only on the tenth, and there again he dropped a stroke to par, taking three to reach the green. He sank a 10-foot putt for a birdie on the par five twelfth, an 8-footer for another on the fourteenth and a 6-footer for his third on the long seventeenth.

BLACK FLASH SHOWS LIKING FOR JEFFERSON PARK MUD

Allen's Entry Scores by A Length

Bourbon Prince Second in Feature; Grimace Third.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Good old Jefferson rain, nearly always reliable, returned for another sojourn here this afternoon and by the time the featured fifth event was run the racing strip was muddy. This brand of going was exactly to the liking of Black Flash, which carried the silks of M. Allen to a driving one-length victory to return $5.20 for a $2 ticket. Bourbon Prince, probably best, took the place from Grimace by a head. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:49 1-5. The winner and Grimace went to the post equal choices.

Bright Chestnut had the early foot of the outfit, but found the distance too far. Grimace, reaching contention early, wore down the pacemaker after rounding out of the back stretch and forged to the front, with daylight to spare, entering the home lane.

Black Flash Stages Late Rush.

Bourbon Prince, close up at this point, was taken back temporarily, but came again in the closing furlong. Black Flash, however, came from behind with a great rush on the outside and won going away, while Bourbon Prince was outgaming Grimace for the place.

Young Monte Parke, who held the jockey lead here before Champion Johnny Gilbert came along, stole the honors and breezed, retained the leadership by piloting the heavily backed Watchgirl to victory in the first event for his thirty-second winner of the meeting. Watchgirl paying $4.60 won by a half length from Luckpiece, another which received substantial backing, while Oderic, a field horse, was a good third. The winner and second horse both came from well back with Luckpiece losing some ground at the turns.

Eastern High Wins From Gonzaga Five

Eastern High hit on all cylinders yesterday when it swamped Gonzaga High, 56-26, at Eastern High gymnasium, using two full teams to turn the trick. Lefty Bassin, Tommy Nolan and Jack Bayliss stood out for the Easterners. Al Waters, star of the team, was excused from service for the day.

Gonzaga, with Folliard leading the way, put up a good battle in the first half, at the conclusion of which Eastern, however, held a 22-11 lead.

One interesting sidelight of the game was the fact that three former Gonzagans—Nolan, Vic Perruso and Dickey Fitzgerald—helped enact the Eastern victory.

RUNS-HITS and ERRORS

by BOB CONSIDINE

AS many fans have long since suspected, Al Schacht, behind a mask of foolishness, is the hub of Washington's elaborate system of signals. About one quarter of his clownish stunts really mean something, and the rest is put on partially to confuse the ever-present spying system of the rival teams and, of course, partially to amuse the paying spectators.

Washington, since the days when Clark Griffith became manager, has had three complete sets of signals, changed regularly. Every time a player is traded, for instance, the boys are called together and handed three new sets. Signals range from stepping into the hitter's box with the left foot to spitting tobacco, from lifting an eyebrow to Schacht's raucous whistling.

The Nat catchers have three full sets of pitching signals, which vary as opposing batsmen reach base. For instance, if an enemy runner is on second the catcher will give three signals for each pitch he wants. If the count is 1 and 1, the second signal given is the real one. If the count is something else, the third signal counts, and then the first is used from time to time, depending on the count of the batter.

The spying system of opposing clubs is almost as acute as the scientific signal output of the locals. Eddie Collins and Chief Bender had remarkable facilities for unraveling signals. Clark Griffith was one of the instigators of more elaborate systems. Years ago, when there were only three catching signals, 1, a fast one; 2, a curve; 3, a drop, a couple of the American League teams placed an employe in center field with a spyglass and an electric buzzer to the manager's bench.

Joe Doakes sits up in the stands and looks with reverence on the familiar scene of a catcher waddling out to converse with a rookie pitcher who has worked himself in a hole. "Gosh," Mister Doakes muses, "there is some real inside baseball being discussed there."

As a matter of fact, there is a notorious lack of baseball discussed in meetings between the catcher and the pitcher in a hole. Here's a good example. Harry Childs, athletic director down at the Boys Club, did a bit of hurling for Washington two years ago. He got himself in a heluva hole in one of his games, and finally Spencer stalked out toward the box. Childs awaited an instructive tirade.

Spencer advanced to within inches of his ear, and amid a number of strenuous gestures said, "Say, Jack's opening a new beer joint tonight—waddy'a say, we set these palukas down one-two-three and get goirg."

Big league baseball players are notorious liars about their age. And they are not so much to blame, generally, as are the managers of minor league clubs who first pick them up. It is an old and established custom in the racket to make "16-year-old sensations" out of 21-year-old minor league rookies. It enhances their value, when it comes times for the minor league moguls to sell them to a big league club. It gives the minor league managers a synthetic reputation for uncovering precocious "finds" and—from the player's standpoint—comes in handy 10 and 15 years later when, nearing the end of his big league baseball days—a confession of his true age probably would cause him to be booted unceremoniously into an old men's home.

Washington has several vets who coyly admit to 37, 38 and even 39 years old, and one will be 45 his next birthday.

Just when it seemed that the time was ripe to suggest to Joe Engel that he lay off such limelight-seeking gags as trading rookies for turkeys and acting like a hybrid between Nick Altrock and Al Shacht, and to recommend that he do something about his duties as scout for the Nationals—the bottom falls out of the scouting business. So Joe can have his Chattanooga and Lookout for the deficit.

It's the truth, the days of the baseball scout are numbered. The weary search for baseball ivory is nearing an end—not that all the ivory has been gathered by the second division of the American League—but the truth of the matter is that an enormous amount of statistics constantly flood big-league offices, giving in black, white and uncompromising figures what is going on in baseball from Ellipse diamond No. 3 to the Catalina Island Lightweights.

If statistics and advance notices fail to unearth what latent genius there is in America, there are always friends of big-league owners and managers scattered all over Hooverdom and itching to send in word of some local boy who threatens to make good.

There's little of this hacking away the underbrush of the bush circuits in search of talent any more. Nowadays it is as difficult for a Class Z busher to escape detection—if he is good—as it is for an elephant to walk down F street on its hind legs unnoticed.

Kendall Five Beats Takoma-Silver Spring

One minute to go. The score is tied at 22-all. Moore, Kendall School's left forward, sinks a long shot. Half a minute later he drops another from midcourt.

Kendall School won the game from Takoma-Silver Spring yesterday on the latter's court, 26 to 22. Kendall led 13-9 at the half. Moore, with 11 points, featured.

Court Loop Meeting At Boys Club Tonight

Basket ball leagues ranging in weight from 100 pounds to unlimited classification will be formed tonight at the Boys Club at a meeting of unaffiliated court teams at 8 o'clock. The league will be under the direction of Harry Child, former Nat pitcher, now athletic director of the club.

The idea behind the league, as formulated by Charles M. Fyfe, director of the club, is to give local amateur teams not now in any league a chance to play under regulated circuit standards. Any team interested in joining up is invited to send a representative.

Harry Child, "Ham" Adams, Ray Catlin, Ted Capelli, George Lassise and Buck Gaskins, all experienced players and coaches, have offered their services as coaches gratis.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: JEFFERSON PARK, JANUARY 11.

The Bennings stamp of approval played a prominent roll in the running of today's card despite the fact that I could only squeeze out two winners from a couple of gallons of technicalities. Watch Girl gave me a winner to start the program, but I was scratched out of the second. Gold Mint tried to do it for me in the third, but took the place. Hal Riley, in the show hole, was my money representative in the fourth. In the fifth, Black Flash upheld the Bennings prestige, if any, bringing a second winner. In the sixth, Figuriste, my second choice, won. In the seventh, that rascal, Singing Kid, which I have picked until I was blue in the face, had to pull the wake up at the wrong time to beat my Blue Damsel. Tomorrow, I'm going to parley a couple of cigar coupons on these.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—MIX UP seems to have the edge on the group named for the opener and should bring home a set of brackets. Last was impressive. PAUL L. gets in lightly again and may be second ahead of CHICON.

SECOND RACE—PULIS has been working brilliantly and should show to advantage in this. Seems capable of spotting this field the weight. OCTAVIA'S recent trials have been excellent but I can't put this one any higher. THISTLE TOM is third best.

THIRD RACE—ANNE ARUNDEL gets another chance here. Have heard the word on this filly but can not guarantee that today is the day. NYACK is best on the cold but not always truthful dope. DONNY JOHNNY for the show if he gets in.

FOURTH RACE—MAKING BUBBLES drops some weight and may give this field a beating. I have picked this one to beat better. ANNE L. and ABE FURST appear to be best of the others.

FIFTH RACE—OZITI has shown a neat turn of speed on a number of occasions and the son of Mirafel and Bright Morning would not be out of place on top of this group. There is plenty of speed in the race, however, and MODESTO and CRESTA RUN hold much of it.

SIXTH RACE—TADCASTER is a fairly reliable sort and appears capable of giving MORHEART a keen battle for this purse. MOST WISE for the show end.

SEVENTH RACE—BURNSIDE in pretty good condition now and hard to beat over the route. Will have chief trouble with McGONIGLE. DEEMSTER is too tough for the rest.

GREEN TRACK TEAM FOR HILLTOP

Kelly Lone Veteran; Prepare for Milrose Game.

WITH its first meet only three weeks off—the celebrated Milrose games at Madison Square Garden—Georgetown University's track team finds itself with only one letter man and a squad of newcomers too green to expect great things of. Al Kelly, holder of the national 70-yard indoor championship two seasons ago, is the sole veteran on the team.

Gone by way of graduation are a group which has been holding up G. U.'s prestige on the track reasonably well in the last half decade. Last year's leading unit—the 440-yard relay team of Kovalonsek, Connolly, Riggs and Kelly—has passed on, leaving only Kelly. All the quarter-milers, half-milers and milers are graduated. The loss of last year's 1-mile and 2-mile team of Carlin, Jim Kelly, Burke and Briggs will be felt.

Dampness Hinders Practice.

The team has been hampered in its early training under Coach Mulligan by damp weather. Workmen have completed a short, circular wooden track and a 70-yard wooden straightaway on the Hilltop atheletic field, but the squad has been able to use it only twice to date. Yesterday's intended long session was rained out.

Mulligan will pick the team in two weeks. Al Kelly is certain to compete in the Milrose games, and Mulligan holds that the new 70-meter distance will work in favor of the big Georgetown ace, whose nearly 200-pound frame takes some time to get up momentum.

Sophomores predominate on the team, whose roster is as follows:

HALF MILERS—McMann, Roverat, O'Brien, Dunn, Penfield, Quigley, Prichard, Schlafly.

QUARTER MILERS—Doherty, DiPasquale, Quirk, Mitchell, Powers, Scalessa, Lilla.

SPRINTERS—Kelly, McGovern, Clark, Smith, Bradley, Natirbov, McNeill.

Terrys Five Wins D. C. League Opener

Paced by Taylor, who rang up 10 points, Terry's opened the newly organized District of Columbia Amateur Basket Ball League with a 34-to-26 victory over Takoma Business Men on the Y. M. C. A. courts. Terry's led, 23 to 13, at the half.

Tonight four games are on tap Griffith Blue Coals and the Boys Club will clash at 7:30 o'clock at the National Guard Armory in Hyattsville, while an hour later on the same court Company F will clash with the Saranacs. The Y. M. C. A. will open against the Red Sox in the former's gym at 7 o'clock, while at Bolling Field the Shade Shop will meet Delaware & Hudson at 9 o'clock.

Devitt Opens Tomorrow With G. U. Prep Five

After ten days of vigorous practicing Devitt Prep is ready to launch its basket ball campaign. The opening test will be against Georgetown Prep tomorrow afternoon at Garrett Park, at 3:15 o'clock.

Three veterans of last year's team will form the nucleus for the 1933 Devitt edition. They are Paul Clements, forward; Bill O'Hara, guard, and Loving, forward. Outstanding in the ranks of the Devitt outfit is Anthony Latona, who manipulates a basket ball with the same ease and grace with which he swings a tennis racquet and handles a football. Star of the 1932 Western quint, he joined Devitt in September and is expected to furnish most of the fireworks for Coach Dick Turner's quintet at the forward post.

HITCHCOCK'S RATING TOPS POLOISTS

Named 10-Goal Star for 12th Season; Smith 9-Goal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The United States Polo Association announced its annual rankings today, rewarding the greatest of the American stars, Tommy Hitchcock, with ten-goal top rating for the twelfth straight year.

With Hitchcock alone at the head of the list, the only ten goal player in the world, the minor awards went to two members of the American team, captained by E. J. Boeseke, jr., of California, that went to South America in the fall and brought back both the cup of the Americas and the Argentine open championship.

Of the four riders on that team, Winston F. O. Guest, former Yale star and internationalist for several years, was raised one goal to eight, and Billy Post, former Princeton ace who played splendid polo with Seymour Knox's Aurora four in the United States open and on the Latin invasion had his handicap lifted from six to seven.

At nine goals, second only to Hitchcock, was placed Cecil Smith, hard riding Texan who starred all last summer in high goal play and featured the attack of John Whitney's Greentree four.

ALLEN HERO IN G. U. PREP VICTORY

Breaks Tie Near End to Beat Emerson Five, 29 to 26.

CAGING two spectacular shots from midcourt with the score deadlocked at 25-all and 4 minutes left to play, George Allan, Georgetown Prep forward, fitted himself in the role of hero yesterday afternoon at Garrett Park as he led his team to a thrilling 29-to-26 victory over Emerson Institute's basketers.

Hitting the Headpin

A husband and wife bowling tournament will be held at the Arcadia alleys, it was announced yesterday, with the first block of three games to be rolled on Saturday, February 18. The second block is scheduled on February 25. A silver trophy will be presented the winners.

Bazzuro Engineering Co. won high team set and game honors with 1,672 and 575, respectively, in the North Washington League last night at Silver Spring. John Wingate, of Bazzuro, shot a 370 high-game set, while Clarence Fling, of Dudley & Keefer, carried off high-game honors with 130.

McShea, of National Bank, was in rare form last night in the Bankers League at the Arcadia, rolling a high game of 150 and set of 380. National Savings & Trust Co., with 613, captured high team game, while American Security & Trust, No. 1, annexed high set honors with 1,637.

Rose, of Newcomers, led the way in the Civics Club League, bowling a high game of 143 and set of 368. Newcomers set the pace in the team game battle with 546, and won high set with 1,588.

Stocks Defeated in Struggle To Maintain Upward Trend

Two-Tenths Loss Recorded in Heavier Sales of 1,611,554 Shares.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Stocks struggled hard today for a footing above the November highs, but resistance to further advance was too pronounced and the list fell back, showing a small average not loss for principal issues.

Fluctuations in stocks were narrow, considering the general briskness of trading. Rallies running from fractions to nearly 2 points in the morning and early afternoon attracted plentiful offerings; and with the market thus conservatively minded bullish traders lost some of their enthusiasm. Realizing in shares coincided, roughly, with the later reaction by wheat.

Motor stocks and some of their related groups shone for a time in the reflected radiance of the new models now being displayed at the annual show, but professionals failed to lure much of a following. General Motors, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber preferred, Nash, Chrysler, Firestone preferred and a few others went up moderately though gains were either reduced or cancelled later.

On the whole, the market tended to be selective, with dealings heaviest in a comparatively brief list. American & Foreign Power was busy. So also, at intervals, were United Aircraft, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Case, Du Pont and Harvester; but by closing time fair-sized gains by this list and others had either been pared, lost entirely or converted into declines. American Telephone, New York Central Case, Sears-Roebuck and American Tobacco "B" were off about a point net. U. S. Steel closed unchanged. Rails, as a group, held up fairly well. Sales totaled 1,611,554 shares.

Westinghouse was a slow mover, off ¾ net, while Radio, which likewise came into the news by virtue of the former company's plan for distributing its R. C. A. holdings, dipped a shade. Du Pont and Eastman Kodak were firm; reports that Du Pont was trying to get control of the Camera-Film concern met with denials.

Stocks.

A struggle to maintain an upward trend was defeated and the general list sagged two-tenths of a point. The sales volume increased to 1,611,554 shares.

Bonds.

Profit taking failed to halt the advance of bonds. An average gain of seven-tenths of a point was added to the previous rise. Sales totaled $17,017,000.

Curb.

The upturn was continued, led by preferred issues of the investment class. Industrials dropped back in the battle. Sales mounted to 200,000 shares.

Wheat.

Selling drives for profits sent wheat prices down in spite of strength shown in early trading. May wheat sold at 49⅞ to 50 cents.

Cotton.

Tuesday's gains were lost as heavier selling developed. March closed at 6.20, and the general market dropped 13 to 15 points. Liverpool was a buyer of near months and a seller of later deliveries.

Rossetter Heads Chamber.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—George W. Rossetter today was reelected president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He will be installed with other ocers at the association's annual meeting, January 25.

BONDS SENT HIGHER IN SPITE OF SELLING

Seven-Tenths' Gain Is Added to Previous Rise; Sales, $17,017,000.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The bond market generally resisted profit-taking waves today and prices continued to sweep forward over a broad front.

The rails, as a whole, gave the best account of themselves, although utility and industrial specialties exhibited considerable strength as the demand in the higher-grade groups, apparently undiminished, lapped over into secondary issues. The Germans were again the feature of the foreign section, reaching new heights for the past two years.

Trading volume leaped forward with the price upswing. Sales totaled $17,017,000, par value, the largest aggregate since August 23 last. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds gained seven-tenths of a point.

The most active of the carriers retaining gains of 1 to 4 or more points included some of Alleghany Corporation, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Central Pacific, St. Paul, Chicago & North Western, Rock Island, Delaware, & Hudson, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading, St. Louis Iron Mountain, Southern Pacific, Southern, Virginian Railway and Wisconsin Central.

Many of the "gilt edge" obligations eased a trifle, but gains of 1 to 2 or more points were held by loans of American & Foreign Power, American I. G. Chemical, American Type Founders, Central Steel, Columbia Gas, Federal Light & Traction, Goodrich, Laclede Gas, North American, North American Edison, Postal Telegraph, Shell Union Oil and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Westinghouse to Distribute Holdings of Radio Stock

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. today announced that it would distribute a major portion of its holdings of Radio Corporation of America common stock through payment of a special dividend consisting of one-half share of Radio stock for each share of its own Westinghouse common and preferred stock.

The distribution will be made on February 20 to stock of record January 23. The company had until February 21, under the recent consent decree issued by the United States District Court at Wilmington, to divest itself of at least half of its ownership of Radio stock. The General Electric Co., which was similarly instructed, has previously announced its plan of distribution.

Westinghouse Electric has outstanding approximately 80,000 shares of preferred and 2,600,000 shares of common. On this basis, the payment would involve the distribution of about 1,340,000 shares of its Radio stock, or approximately one-half of its total holding of 2,800,000 shares of Radio stock.

The General Electric Co., which has ordered a distribution on the basis of one share of radio stock for each six shares of General Electric stock, provided for the distribution at one time of all but a minor part of its radio holdings.

Receivers Appointed For Inland States Utility

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott in Court of Chancery today appointed Mrs. Margerite Dugan Bodziak, Wilmington attorney; Luther Lewis, of Chicago, and Edwin H. Brownly, of Baltimore, receivers for Inland States Service Company, which has headquarters in Chicago.

The petition for receivership was filed by Samuel R. Morgan, of Chicago. It charges insolvency. The company controls the Omaha Ice & Coal Storage Co. and a number of utility companies in Illinois.

GOODS MARKETS.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Cotton goods markets were firmer and more active today in finished and gray lines. Rayon orders for March delivery continued to flow in steadily. Burlaps were steady. Wool goods showed some gain. New dressmaking styles display many rayon, silk and cotton lines for spring.

FLOUR MARKET.

CURB REPEATS RISE IN HEAVIER TRADING

Preferred Stocks Advance; Turnover Increases to 200,000 Shares.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Curb stocks continued their January advance today in the largest volume of business so far this month. Transfers totaled about 200,000 shares, compared with 140,000 yesterday.

Preferred stocks of the investment category again pushed forward on buying evidently inspired by the recent favorable turn in the bond market. New high levels for the movement were scored by the preferred issues of Alabama Power, Eastern Gas, American Gas & Electric, Georgia Power, Columbia Gas & Electric and National Power & Light. Senior industrial issues also gained some ground.

In the active trading division the advance was somewhat irregular, due to late profit-taking. Cities Service issues moved ahead consistently, recovering a part of their recent loss. Electric Bond & Share climbed close to 22, its best level for some time, but slipped back at the close. Other utility favorites like American Gas & Electric, Commonwealth Edison and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore improved from 1 to 2 points.

Industrials moved along with the tide but they, too, dropped back from the high levels under the late realizing. The best gains were recorded by National Sugar, Singer Manufacturing and A. O. Smith, which rose from 1 to 3 points. Aluminum Co. of America, a leader in the upward movement yesterday receded a couple of points.

Investment trust issues were more active than usual with several showing good sized gains, presumably in response to improvement in portfolio positions.

WHEAT VALUES SINK IN PROFITS SELLING

Early Strength Is Shown in Tradnig; Corn Loses as Oats Advance.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Big selling to realize profits took place in the last moments of wheat trading today, and the market collapsed nearly 2 cents a bushel.

Until the final transactions, wheat showed a decided upward trend most of the time and had risen in some cases 1½ cents above yesterday's top, surpassing any prices since last August and about equaling the sharp run-up of 8½ cents a bushel, scored during that month. Highest prices today were reached after word came that a move to kill the enacting clause of the farm allotment measure at Washington had been defeated. There were also rumors of disturbed political relations between Russia and Japan.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛ to ⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ off to ⅜ up; oats, ⅛ to ¼ down, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 10 cents advance.

Early Strength Shown.

The wheat market moved upward today with an appearance of strength, which ordinarily would be taken as a sign that powerful interests were active.

Reports were current, too, that drought was extending from the hard winter wheat States north into domestic spring wheat territory. Some specialists said that with this country's exceedingly backward winter wheat outlook, a subnormal spring wheat crop could easily electrify the market and might mean that the United States would seriously need its surplus supply. Meanwhile, temperatures today in domestic winter wheat areas Southwest and West, with absence of any snow blanket, were in general more than an offset for a laggard response which the Liverpool market made to price advances here.

Corn and oats were swayed mainly by wheat action. Strength shown by corn quotations at Rotterdam received considerable attention.

COTTON LOSES GAIN OF TUESDAY SALES

March Closes at 6.20 as General Market Drops 13 to 15 Points.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Cotton declined about 75 cents a bale today, thus canceling yesterday's gains.

Slight early declines were followed by rallies on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement, which sent prices into new high ground for the movement, with March selling up to 6.43, or 8 points net higher and 90 points above the low level of last month.

More selling developed on the upturn, however, and the market broke sharply in the late trading under liquidation prompted by the late reactions in the wheat and stock markets. March closed at 6.20, or 23 points off from the best, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 13 to 15 points.

Market Opens Lower.

The opening was 1 to 4 points lower under some Southern and local selling, promoted by the failure of Liverpool to fully meet yesterday's local advance. Houses with continental and Liverpool connections were sellers after the call.

Liverpool was a buyer of near and seller of late months, but was credited with selling on balance. Liverpool cables reported a quiet market there with some trade calling and speculative covering and a continued spot demand for Russian cotton. A fair inquiry was reported for cotton goods at Manchester. Exports today 31,582, making 4,478,658 so far this season. Port receipts, 25,360. U. S. port stocks, 4,778,389.

EGGS—5,509. Increased selling pressure, lack of buying and sharply lower outside advices resulted in 2 to 3½ declines today. Receipts were moderate, but trading slow and clearances unsatisfactory. Market closed weak and unsettled with prices largely nominal. Pacific Coast white fancy, 34; Pacific Coast white standard, 33; Pacific Coast white medium, 31; special packs nearby white hennery, 34@35; special packs nearby white extras, 32@33; special packs, brown extras, 32@33; nearby mixed colors, average extras, 32@33; nearby mixed colors, graded firsts, 31@31½; nearby mixed colors, current receipts, mixed, 30@30½; Midwest mixed colors, average extras, 32@33; Midwest mixed colors, graded firsts, 31@31½; Midwest mixed colors, current receipts, 30@30½.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw was unchanged early today. Better inquiry was reported but offerings were comparatively light. Sales reported were 10,000 bags of Puerto Ricos for January shipment at 2.78, with further interest at this level, but nothing firmly offered below 2.80. Circulation of 23 January notices during the forenoon caused scattered liquidation and commission house selling in that future, which dipped 4 points. Otherwise the market was steadier on increased covering and buying by trade and Cuban interests. At noon later deliveries were up 1 to 2. The steadiness was prompted by the better tone in the spot market. Refined was unchanged at 3.95. A moderate inquiry was reported.

COFFEE—Spot steady; Rio No. 7, 8; Santos No. 4, 9½@9¾. Rio futures closed quiet. Sales, 2,000 bags. *March, 5.81; *May, 5.54; *July, 5.33; *September, 5.14; *December, 5.06. Santos futures steady. Sales, 7,000 bags. March, 8.35; May, 7.86; *July, 7.67; *September, 7.46; *December, 7.35.

*Nominal.

DICK TRACY—Quicker Than the Eye

WELL, "STOOGE", HERE'S SOME PHONEY MONEY—SOME MIGHTY SLICK IMITATION DOUGH I GOT HOLD OF LIKE YOU REQUESTED—BUT—I DON'T SEE HOW YOU'RE GOING TO USE THESE IN FRAMING THAT DICK.
I'LL SHOW YOU! NOW COME—YOU TWO STAND UP HERE CLOSE TOGETHER—I WANT TO PRACTICE SOMETHING.
WHAT'S THE GAG—WHAT ARE YOU DOIN'?
OH NOTHING—JUST IMAGINE YOU'RE ON A CROWDED STREET CAR OR A JAMMED ELEVATOR—THAT'S ALL.
NOW IF YOU'LL EXAMINE YOUR POCKETS—YOU'LL BOTH FIND THEY ARE FILLED WITH MONEY—PHONEY BILLS! AND I'LL WAGER A DUCAT YOU DIDN'T FEEL MY PLACING THEM THERE.
WELL, I'LL BE—— PRETTY SLICK! UNCANNY!
MARVELOUS!
DOES "STOOGE" VILLER BELIEVE HE CAN PLANT PHONEY MONEY ON DICK TRACY AND GET BY WITH IT? WE SHALL SEE.

AND I REPEAT IT— BACK TO MY MOTHER ON THE VERY NEXT TRAIN IF YOU EVER GIVE SUCH A DISGRACEFUL PERFORMANCE AS YOU DID LAST NIGHT ON THE DANCE FLOOR — NINE DANCES STRAIGHT WITH THAT PAINTED DOLL—MILLIE—MONOPOLIZED UNCLE BIM'S WHOLE EVENING—I BLUSHED FOR POOR BIM—AND WHAT A FOOL YOU MADE OF HIM—AND OF YOURSELF—AND IF I HAD BEEN THAT GIRL'S MOTHER I WOULD HAVE TAKEN HER ACROSS MY KNEE AND GIVEN HER A GOOD SPANKING—
FOLKS—I WANT TO ASK YOUR OPINION ON A LITTLE QUESTION THAT BOTHERS ME—I HAVE INVITED MRS. DESTROSS AND HER DAUGHTER TO VISIT ME—AND THEY ARE STOPPING AT THE LEADING HOTEL—WOULD IT BE PROPER IF I SHOULD PAY THEIR BILL—
WHY-UNCLE BIM—YOU STARTLE ME—
WELL—DO YOU THINK IT WOULD BE ALL RIGHT? DO YOU THINK THEY'D BE INSULTED?
BENJAMIN GUMP! ARE YOU IN YOUR RIGHT MIND? YOU MUST BE MAD TO EVER ENTERTAIN SUCH A THOUGHT—IT WOULD BE THE WORST INSULT THAT I EVER HEARD OF—— AND IF MRS. DESTROSS IS THE LADY THAT YOU SAY SHE IS—SHE WOULD DEEPLY RESENT IT—I KNOW WHAT I SHOULD DO IF A MAN OFFERED TO PAY MY HOTEL BILL—IT WOULD BE LIKE GETTING A SLAP IN THE FACE—
AND SO IT IS DEFINITELY DECIDED THAT BIM WILL NOT PAY THE HOTEL BILL THAT IS PILING UP FOR POOR MILLIE AND HER MA—$40.00 A DAY—WHAT WILL SHE DO WHEN THEY PRESENT HER WITH THE BILL?

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WHEN the National Broadcasting Co. takes over station WMAL they will have under their control the two original Presidential announcers and a pair of the smartest microphone men in the business—Herluf Provensen, of WRC, and Stanley Bell, of WMAL.

The most coveted assignment on the networks is the handling of the Presidential broadcasts. When Provensen and Bell used to work together on this, the N. B. C. gave the cue to the President that the networks were ready for him to begin speaking, Provensen being the man to give the signal.

Bell, with Columbia, received the air a half minute before the N. B. C.—so his introduction always had to be very flexible. He had to keep an eye on his script and an eye and ear on Provensen to catch his last words before he said the final words of introduction—"Ladies and Gentlemen, the President of the United States."

On many occasions N. B. C. would get the air late, which meant a prolonged introduction on Bell's part, but it is related that not once did he fail to say in unison with Provensen the important nine words of introduction.

Stanley Bell will go to his new assignment with a fine record. He has a reputation for getting programs started on time and signing them off on the second—a very important item in network announcing.

Mr. Bell has made many friends among Cabinet officers, senators, representatives and other notable speakers by his capable handling of their broadcasts. He has been commended, for instance, by the leaders of the Army, Navy and Marine Bands for his handling of their programs, particularly for having very little to say in his announcements and giving the bands the advantage of all the time possible for playing.

Stanley knows radio very well—having been in it since its infancy, when announcers had to go out by themselves, set up the apparatus, test it, put on the broadcast, then take down the installation. If anything goes wrong, Stanley is quick to remedy the trouble. On a few occasions, with important speakers on the air, the mike on the speaker's desk has gone dead.

In such emergencies the engineer, watching through the window, would signal to Stanley about the trouble. Bell would very quickly dismantle his stand announcer's mike and lay it on the speaker's table, sometimes losing only a word or two. For this he has been commended several times.

"ELDER MICHAUX adding himself to the saints was about the limit," R. N. J. writes. "Concluding his tirade, he shouted, 'Glory be to St. Paul, to St. Peter, to St. Luke and to St. Michaux!'

"The networks allow churches of all denominations only an hour a week for each denomination; that is to say, an hour for those of Jewish faith, an hour for the Protestants, and so on. Can you tell me then why the radio audience in Washington should be afflicted with this burlesque of a service for an hour every morning and twice on Sundays, morning and afternoon?

"With churches of every denomination to draw upon in the Capital, how can Station WJSV justify such discrimination? It is difficult to comprehend the station's reasons for putting on such a sacrilegious performance under any condition. Elder Michaux's so-called radio revival service is an affront to Jews, Catholics and Protestants alike.

"I am surprised they stand for it! Listen in and you will understand what I mean."

Walter Hampden, veteran classical actor, and Fannie Brice, comedienne, will be featured guests on Rudy Vallee's Hour (WRC, 8 o'clock) tonight. Hampden will offer a scene from "Cyrano de Bergerac."

An authentic Jewish wedding ceremony will be included in "The Goldbergs" sketch at 7:45 o'clock tonight, when Florence Romaine and Eugene Kronin, characters, are "married."

Will Rogers will describe the scene at the Hollywood premiere of "Cavalcade" in Sid Grauman's Chinese Theater over a Columbia network, including WJSV, at midnight tonight.

HENRY A. BELLOWS, of Minneapolis, has assumed his new duties as resident vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting System here. Mr. Bellows, a former Federal radio commissioner, a Democrat, and a college mate of President-elect Roosevelt in Harvard, has an office at the Columbia headquarters in the Shoreham Building.

Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, U. S. A., retired, will speak over WRC on the subject of the "U. S. Marine Corps," at 7:30 o'clock tonight. He commanded a Marine brigade at Chateau Thierry.

Carl R. Englund, of the research department of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., will give an illustrated talk entitled, "Some Results of a Study of Ultra Shortwave Transmission Phenomena," at a meeting of the Washington section of the Institute of Radio Engineers at 8 o'clock tonight at the Kennedy-Warren Apartments.

Stunt men, the real daredevils of the screen, will play a leading part in the WRC Hollywood-on-the-Air program from California at 12:30 a. m.

Mozart's "Jupiter" symphony, Beethoven's "Egmont" overture and "The Walk to the Paradise Garden," from Delius' opera, "A Village Romeo and Juliet," will be played by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra (WRC, 3:15 o'clock this afternoon). Eugene Goosens will conduct.

TED HUSING will dig deep below routine sources of information to dispense revealing sidelights on news and sports events of interest to the South when he is heard over WJSV with Sally Sothern in the program of "Inside News, by Ted Husing," at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

An arrangement of the French folk tune, "Au Clair de la Lune," by Walter H. Nash, local organist, will be included in the program of Frances Gutelius, pianist (WMAL, 8:30 tonight).

PHILLIPS LORD'S (Seth Parker) 5-year-old daughter came home from Sunday school all excited. "Say, daddy, we've learned all the books of the Bible," she exclaimed, "and what do you think? There's an Amos, but no Andy."

R. F. C. RELIEF LOAN FOR FAIRFAX IS AIM

Chamber Requests Moore to Confer With Pollard on Needs of County.

Former Representative R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, Va., has been asked by the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce to interview Gov. Pollard regarding the possibility of obtaining a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for relief work in Fairfax County.

The major portion of the monthly meeting Tuesday night in the courthouse at Fairfax was devoted to a discussion of the unemployment situation in the county, with 1,800 men without regular work, according to the last survey.

Many of these persons and their families are dependent on charity for existence, it was declared, and the list of county poor being aided, mounting rapidly each month, threatening to exhaust the county fund before the end of the winter.

An indirect form of taxation instead of real estate taxes was advocated by Mr. Moore, together with greater economy in county and State government costs, as a relief to the farmers.

F. Shield McCandlish, Fairfax attorney, was appointed chairman of the trade body's committee on the county budget, in place of Capt. Thurlow White, resigned. Other members of the committe who will work with the county board of supervisors in preparing the county budget for next year are Earl Saum, Wells Sherman and Martin T. Webb.

Several speakers criticized the control of the former county roads by the State highway department, emphasizing the present condition of the roads and the apparent lack of effort on the part of the State department to repair them.

Julian D. Simpson was reelected president of the Cherrydale Citizens Association last night at the school. Other officers are R. N. Davidson, vice president; Frederick E. Mann, secretary, and Miss Minnie Parker, treasurer.

Man Arrested After Asking $3,500 at Alexandria Bank

Taken When Draft Presented Is Found to Be Worthless; New Officers Are Elected by Fraternal and Patriotic Groups.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A man giving the name of Daniel Brown, and his age as 48 years, is being held by Alexandria police as a result of depositing in a local bank a draft on a Harrisburg, Pa., bank, for $3,500. The Alexandria bank officials telegraphed the Pennsylvania bank and received a reply to the effect that there was no deposit there to cover the draft.

Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims placed Brown under arrest, took his fingerprints and made inquiry at the Department of Justice in Washington. That department reported that the man had a long police record, having been released last July from the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta in connection with the alleged theft of an automobile; served a term of from one to ten years in the Joliet, Ill., Penitentiary; is wanted in Plant City, Fla., for an unpaid board bill; there are two felony counts against him in Beaumont, Tex.; a charge against him in Sulphur Springs, Fla., and he is wanted at Tampa, Fla., under the name of Howard S. Cook.

Brown did not receive any money from the Alexandria bank and he is being held for Pennsylvania authorities. According to Sergt. Sims, the man admitted the truth of the report made by the Department of Justice. He says he came to Alexandria two weeks ago, rented a room, negotiated with Alfred Thomson, local realtor, for the rent of a store building on King street, and placed an order for lumber for alterations to the building. He did not state his business.

In referring to the automobile theft charge, he stated he had simply taken a car which he had purchased but had not completed payments. This charge was made by the authorities of Macon, Ga.

The January meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president, will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gadsby's Tavern. Arrangements will be made for an entertainment on February 14 for the benefit of the auxiliary and committees announced to handle the plans.

At the annual meeting of the Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, officers were reelected. They are: Mrs. Charles W. Howell, president; Miss Edna H. Alexander, first vice president; Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, second vice president; Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, third vice president; Miss Anna Carrington Stump, recording secretary; Miss Mary Gorman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Daniel R. Stansbury, treasurer; Mrs. J. Lovell Willcoxen, registrar; Mrs. George T. Klipstein, historian; Mrs. J. R. Eddington, chaplain, and Mrs. Howell, recorder of crosses.

New officers of Liberty Rebekah Lodge, No. 16, Odd Fellows, of Alexandria, were installed Tuesday night by Mrs. Arlene Wakeman and her staff. Visitors were present from Rebekah lodges of Roanoke, Leesburg, Clarendon, Accotink and Dumfries. A past noble grand's jewel was presented to Miss Rietta Butler.

The officers installed were: Nellie E. Carr, noble grand; Mary J. Priest, vice grand; Mae E. Starnell, recording secretary; Josephine Gaines, financial secretary; Bessie Kringler, treasurer; Lucy Harrell, chaplain; Vaughn Hutchinson, warden; Ethel Patterson, conductor; Hattie E. Ludwig, musician; W. C. Cunningham, right supporter to noble grand; Vinnie M. Williams, left supporter to noble grand; Lena Scott, right supporter to vice grand; Annie Henry, left supporter to vice grand; Ione Duncan, inside guardian; Lulu Rowley, outside guardian, and Col. W. L. Martin, degree director.

Miss Edith J. Zimmerman, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Zimmerman, died Tuesday at her home, 123 North Peyton street, after a short illness. Besides her parents, she is survived by three brothers and one sister, Warren W., jr., Eugene J. and John W. Zimmerman and Miss Julia E. Zimmerman.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9:30 o'clock this morning from Saint Mary's Catholic Church, by the Rev. Hugh J. McFadden, assistant pastor.

Funeral services for Frank Beach, 44, of Alexandria, who died Tuesday at Catawba Sanitarium, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at Wheatley's funeral home, conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Mr. Beach is survived by his wife, four children, a sister and two brothers.

R. C. Bowton, superintendent of the Alexandria public schools, has been notified by J. Blair Buck, superintendent of secondary education, that the Alexandria High School and the George Mason High School have been placed on the accredited list for the session 1932-33.

WANTED—MEN FOR LOCAL EMPLOYMENT.
The management of a large corporation, located at 500 Fifth avenue, New York City, will employ several men for special work in Washington, D. C. Date of employment begins January 15. The company operates a large factory in Cleveland, Ohio, and has recently acquired a factory at Old Greenwich, Conn. They operate a permanent factory branch in this city. The men selected must have a practical knowledge of tools, must be active and wide-awake. It will be necessary to furnish reliable references. Applications will be accepted from 9 to 10 a. m. and 1 to 2 p. m., Thursday, 201 Penrike Building, 1010 Vermont avenue northwest.

CAN YOU QUALIFY?
Are you capable of earning $3,000 to $5,000 annually?

Do you want permanent and pleasant work that will develop you mentally, socially and financially? A career instead of a job?

Are you a married man, 28 to 40 years old, out of debt, high school education, neat appearance, and an established resident?

Are you willing to receive special training and study hard?

Can you prove that you are thrifty and live within your means by showing that you have a bank account?

If you can qualify, a 500 million dollar National corporation, 88 years old, will consider you for special work out of its Washington office.

The right man will make money and have excellent opportunities for advancement.

Apply by letter only to sales manager,

Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. of New Jersey, 925 Fifteenth street.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

CAPT. WILLIAM KIDD, notorious as a pirate who raided ships in the late seventeenth century, may or may not have been a pirate—historians and biographers disagree greatly on this point. He was, however, accused of piracy, and a price was put upon his head on the basis of these charges.

He was arrested and returned to England for trial, where he was subsequently convicted and hanged. The charge against Kidd, however, was murder. He was accused of having killed one of his crew and, despite his defense that the man was mutinous, Kidd was found guilty and was hanged.

Much controversy raged over the true nature of Kidd's offenses, if any he committed, and although the subject has been thoroughly studied, the students are at variance. Some hold that Kidd, commissioned to war against pirates, turned pirate himself and was justly done away with. Others hold that Kidd was reluctant to give up his own shipping business to fight piracy, and that he did not engage in piracy himself, but was "framed" by officials in the English government who sought to have his mission stopped.

A person lying down measures slightly more from head to foot than when standing upright, because the joints carrying the body's weight, particularly those of the backbone, are held more closely together when the body is erect.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHEN the country does away with all money and substitutes "ergs," as proposed by the technocrats, how can a man endow a library?

And can you fancy the gloom technocracy would cause at Yale, Harvard or other big universities? With people paying for football seats with certificates of energy, and with no contractor willing to start the Lester Titwillow Quadrangle on a gift of 3,000,000 "ergs," life in the major universities is certain to be pretty tough.

Advice.

A meek word of advice, the bye,
To thee, my clever daughter:
That deeper than long rivers lie
Those pools of silent water.

Sages so said, quite long ago,
But science, modern to your wish,
Would add what fishermen all know—
That greater depths yield larger fish.

HENRY MOSER.

The chairman of the House Committee on Useless Papers says he thinks the committee should be scrapped. This must be the committee that handles party planks and presidential promises.

Yale has named as its new football coach a man who showed Mexico City how to play American football. Now, if he can show New Haven, all will be well.

Football coaches at their midwinter meeting admitted that the game had become so intricate today that even the players have to get the Sunday papers to find out what had happened. College football, in fact, has reached a point where it could be placed under the dead languages department, for the simple reason that it has become Greek to everybody concerned.

The trouble with cheaper cigarettes is that the fellow to whom you offer your pack now takes two or three and also forgets to return the matches.

MARRIAGE IS CALLED VENTURE WITH SKILL NEEDED TO SUCCEED

Home Conservation Session Hears Psychologist on Matrimonial Perils.

Characterizing marriage as a "mad venture," Prof. Ernest R. Groves, University of North Carolina psychologist, yesterday declared that marriage still represented a business, professional and scientific profit in modern civilization.

Speaking before the conference on the conservation of the home of the the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, Prof. Groves went on to say that marriage still is as successful as government, industry, religion or education.

"To youth, even the youth of today, marriage is the essence of idealism, and disappointment in marriage brings cynicism," said Prof. Groves.

Four great hazards are faced by matrimonials, Prof. Groves told the conference, which was addressed also by noted ecclesiastical and scholastic authorities.

Ignorance Big Handicap.

The first marital danger, said Prof. Groves, arises from ignorance of what matrimonial relationships stand for.

Mismating is the second obstacle faced by the newly married, he said, while accidents, unpreventable, are the third.

Difficulty of adjustment, with ensuing unreasonableness, he declared, was the fourth handicap in the matter of happy marriages.

Dr. L. Foster Wood, representing the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, contended that "matrimonial success is something to be achieved. Something like a great cathedral, that takes time and care to build."

"The term incompatibility," said Dr. Foster, "has been used as a reason for divorce until it really means little. But in the main it stands for ignorance and selfishness on the part of one or maybe both of the persons involved."

Feminine Subordination.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, urged that "women put aside petty differences of opinion and extreme individualism" and "work for the same solution of serious problems."

Mrs. Poole's appeal was made before the midwinter meeting of her organization.

Others who spoke and their topics were:

Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, "Personality Adjustments in Marriage;" Miss Katherine Lenroot, of the Federal Children's Bureau, "Changing Problems of the Home and the Child;" Joy Elmer Morgan, of National Education Association, "Radio and the Home;" Dr. Ze Barney T. Phillips, pastor of Episcopal Epiphany Church, "Pre-Marital Interviews," and Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church, who spoke on "Follow Up of Marriage."

Brightwood Principal New Head of Grade Instruction

Miss Ida Mae Lind Takes Directorship of Late Miss Hardy.

Miss Ida Mae Lind, administrative principal at the Brightwood Demonstration School, was appointed director of elementary school instruction by the Board of Education yesterday afternoon. She succeeds Miss Rose Lees Hardy, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of primary instruction, who died last year.

The position given Miss Lind is a new one, created by the board in place of that held by Miss Hardy, as an economy measure.

Prior to becoming administrative principal of the Brightwood School, Miss Lind was a member of the office of the director of primary instruction, headed by Miss Hardy, and later became special assistant in charge of third and fourth grade supervision.

She is a graduate of Eastern High School, George Washington University, where she received her A. B. degree and bachelor degree in education; Columbia University, where she took a master's degree, which included courses in the psychology of elementary school subjects, evolution of progressive education, methods in reading and supervision of instruction in elementary schools.

This latter degree carried considerable weight in Miss Lind's receiving the appointment. She will assume her new position on January 20.

PICKING OF LEADERS FOR INAUGURAL WILL BE STARTED TODAY

Several Hundred Prominent in City to Be Chosen for Reception Work.

The drafting of several hundred residents of the Capital who are prominent in social and civic life will be started today by Ray Baker, chairman of the inaugural committee on the reception of governors and distinguished guests.

This committee, under the direction of Mr. Baker, with Walter Ballard as secretary, will have charge of the entertainment of governors, national committeemen, State party leaders and any visiting diplomats who come here for the inauguration.

Though only general plans have been made, they already include receptions for State delegations and receptions for all governors and distinguished guests in attendance on Inaugural Eve. There also will be private entertainment for ranking guests.

Manship to Design Medal.

Mr. Baker's committee also will make preliminary housing arrangements for any of the visitors who desire them.

The selection of Paul Manship, of New York, internationally famous sculptor, to design the Inaugural Medal was announced yesterday by Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, general chairman. President-elect Roosevelt already has given two sittings and the design is expected to be completed by February 12.

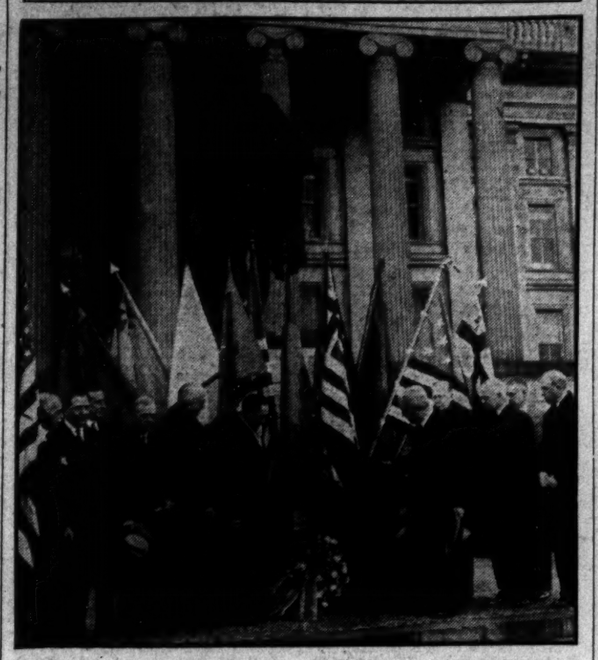
Two of the medals will be of gold, one for the President and the other for the Vice President. About 2,500 bronze medals will be cast for sale to those who wish to have one as a historical souvenir.

Committee Selections.

The following members of the Roosevelt inaugural committee publicity division have been appointed by Charles Michelson, chairman: Vice chairman—Theodore W. Noyes, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, Ira E. Bennett, Lowell Mellett, David Lawrence, E. P. Jewell. Committee members—Oliver Owen Kuhn, G. Adams Howard, Beale R. Howard, Fleming Newbold, Gideon A. Lyon, A. D. Marks, Don B. Reed, Ernest L. White House photographers—Andrew May, Clarence Jackson, H. M. Van Tine, Arthur De Titta. Advertising Club of Washington—H. M. Berry, Charles J. Columbus.

Chairman Robert W. Woolley also announced the following members of the committee on medals, badges and souvenirs: C. Powell Minnlegrode, director of the Corcoran Gallery of Art; Waddy B. Wood, architect; Stephen Bonsal, author and former diplomat; Charles W. Elliott, architect and member of the National Park and Planning Commission; Raymond T. Baker, former Director of the Mint; Robert J. Grant, director of the Mint; Oliver P. Newman, author and former District Commissioner; Lucy de Graffenreid Woolley, artist, and Thomas W. Woodward, lawyer.

HONOR ALEXANDER HAMILTON



Harris & Ewing.

Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury, was honored yesterday, the 176th anniversary of his birth. Arthur A. Ballantine, Undersecretary of the Treasury, placed a wreath at the foot of his statue. The ceremony was under the auspices of the Sons of the American Revolution.

3 IN STORE LINED UP AND ROBBED OF CASH BY TRIO OF BANDITS

Clothing Stolen From Auto of Senator's Friends in Another Theft.

Shouting "Stick 'em up!" as they entered with guns in their hands, three well-dressed young colored men yesterday forced Ben Gershany, 19, proprietor of a grocery store at 1429 Fifth street northwest, his colored helper and a customer to line up with hands in air. They took $25 from Gershany's pockets and a dime from the pockets of his helper. Then they emptied the cash register, taking about $40.

After taking the money, the trio told their victims to "stand with your hands up for 10 minutes." They were believed to have fled in an automobile.

Two robbers, described as young and well-dressed, held up and robbed William Crist, an attendant at a filling station at Fourteenth street and Florida avenue northwest, of about $13 late last night.

Drive Off in Auto.

Crist told police the robbers rushed into the station and shouted for him to "stick 'em up." They rifled his pockets and emptied his change carrier. Telling his companion to start the car, one of them then shoved him in the washroom and locked the door. Both men were armed.

Slugged by a robber who had hidden in the basement, Orville Gibson, 37, manager of the Sherwood Service Station, at 1800 Bladensburg road northeast, was robbed of $40 when he opened for business yesterday. Gibson was treated at Casualty Hospital, but later allowed to go home.

The grocery store of Nathan Rossin, at 245 Benning road northeast, was looted Tuesday night by burglars who broke open a rear door, it was reported to police yesterday. Merchandise valued at $14 and a pay-telephone were stolen.

Automobile Is Robbed.

Two suitcases containing clothing valued at $235 were stolen from an automobile belonging to Richard O. Kuhne, superintendent of the Oakhill Country Club, at Fitchburg, Mass., and Emil Maschiocchi, professional golfer of the club, while it was parked on Delaware avenue between D and E streets northeast, last night. Senator Marcus A. Coolidge, of Massachusetts, made the report to police for the men who are friends of his.

A quantity of clothing valued at $235 was reported stolen from a tailor shop at 1603 U street northwest, early yesterday.

END INST B

A robber who entered a street car at Seventh and Water streets southwest early yesterday held up and robbed Anthony Sezezany, of 316 Fourteenth street, the motorman, of $40 in cash. The robbery occurred on Eleventh street between E and F streets northwest. There were no passengers in the car.

Is Robbed of $115.

Two colored men who forced him to drive from Logan Circle to the Chevy Chase Lake robbed Louis M. Lewis, of 829 Quincy street northwest, of $115. Lewis told police the men leaped onto the running board of his car when he stopped for a traffic light. Both men were armed and at gun-point forced him to drive out Thirteenth street to the East-West highway, thence west to Connecticut avenue and to the lake.

Jewelry and clothing valued at $75 was stolen from the home of Walter J. Pumphrey at 5411 Fifth street northwest by burglars who forced open a door.

Silverware worth $100 was reported stolen yesterday from the home of Elizabeth Ayres at 62 Longfellow street northwest by burglars who broke open the door.

Clothing valued at $75 was stolen yesterday from the car of Emil Machodia, of Fitchfield, Mass., while it was parked on Delaware avenue, between C and D streets northwest.

Kiwanis Club Will Be Host.

The Kiwanis Club will be the host at a meeting of the Weightman School Parent-Teacher Association at 7:30 tonight at the school building.

INQUEST ON TUESDAY IN TWO AUTO DEATHS

Arrangements for Burial of Callan and Mrs. Mower Are Completed.

While arrangements were being completed for burial of the two victims, announcement came yesterday from Baltimore that an inquest is scheduled for next Tuesday into the deaths of James E Callan, Washington automobile dealer, and Mrs. Margaret Helen Mower, wife of a District policeman, killed early Tuesday in a head-on collision near Aberdeen, Md.

Meanwhile, members of the Callan family plan to bury the automotive official tomorrow morning in Arlington National Cemetery. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock from the funeral home of Thomas S. Sergeon, at 1011 Seventh street northwest.

Mrs. Mower's body was brought here yesterday by her husband, Eugene Mower, of the Sixth Police Precinct. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the home of her brother, Oscar I. Liming, 715 Kentucky avenue southeast. Interment will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Callan and Mrs. Mower, en route to the New York Automobile Show, were almost instantly killed when their machine crashed into an intercity bus on the highway outside of Baltimore. Callan was president of the Callan Motor Co., Inc.

William A. Fulmer, driver of the bus, was released by Maryland authorities pending the inquest. Passengers on the bus said Fulmer did all in his power to avoid the accident. Callan's machine, they said, was traveling at a high rate of speed in the center of the highway.

Mrs. Mower is survived by her husband and a 10-year-old son, Eugene Mower, jr. Callan leaves his wife, a brother and two children, Evelyn, 11, and James E. Callan, jr., 9.

H. B. THOMAS DEATH IS ADJUDGED SUICIDE

Furniture Firm President Is Found Fatally Shot in Store Washroom.

Dr. C. J. Murphy, deputy coroner, yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the death of Hugh B. Thomas, 43, president and general manager of the Walker Thomas Furniture Co., at 1015 Seventh street northwest, who was found fatally shot in the washroom of the store yesterday morning.

Employes of the establishment who heard the shot had to break open the lavatory door with an ax. Thomas was taken to Emergency Hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival. He used a .38-caliber revolver, which was found lying near his prostrate form.

Neither members of his family, with whom he lived at 1400 Floral street northwest, nor his employes could shed any light on why he ended his life.

C. D. Holland, an employe, said that Thomas had been in good spirits.

Thomas is survived by his wife and a son, Robert, who is attending the Maryland Agricultural College.

Garage Firm Rents Lot From Ford Co.

Property at Thirteenth and E Streets Will Be Used for Parking.

The Ford Motors Co. yesterday leased 20,000 square feet of unoccupied space at the intersection of Thirteenth and E streets and Pennsylvania avenue northwest to the Washington Garage Co., Inc., for use as parking space. The lease is for an indefinite period, and the garage company announced it expects to have the parking privilege operative tomorrow morning.

The Ford Motor Co. purchased the property when its former local headquarters at John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue northwest was acquired by the District government. The buildings were razed and the ground cleared for parking space pending plans for future development of the site.

Several companies submitted bids for the parking space. More than 200 cars can be taken care of on the space, which is convenient for shoppers.

Thrill Robbers Facing Larceny Arraignments

Thomas J. Haynes, 19, 2420 Observatory road northwest, and Ralph B. Prestn, 17 2726 Connecticut avenue, two of the eight youths who were arrested yesterday after they admitted staging a number of "thrill" roberies, will be arraigned in Police Court today on charges of grand larceny.

The other six boys have been released in the custody of their parents. They remain under technical arrest.

Boy Playing in Street Badly Hurt by Truck

While playing in the street near his home with an express wagon late yesterday, 10-year-old John Selby, of 1018 Potomac avenue southeast, was seriously injured when he was struck by a truck, operated by Raymond E. Tannehill, 22, of 1361 Half street southeast.

Tannehill took the child to Casualty Hospital, where he was said to be suffering from a possible fractured skull. The truck driver was not held.

Girl, 19, Takes Poison While Out With Soldier

Miss Evelyn A. Reamey, 19, of Takoma Park, Md., was in an undetermined condition last night at Emergency Hospital after she is alleged to have swallowed a quantity of poison while riding with Charles H. Taylor, a soldier at Walter Reed Hospital, in Rock Creek Park. Police said that Taylor had purchased the poison for the girl, not knowing what she planned to do with it.

She was treated at Walter Reed Hospital and later removed to Emergency Hospital.

Concert Will Be Given By Associated Studios

A concert of pupils of the Associated Studios will be presented tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Sears-Roebuck Art Galleries at 1108 Connecticut avenue.

Those who will take part are Nathaniel Breeskin, Jack Levinson, Helen Grimes, Louise Bernheimer, Rose Bright, Marie Edna Jones, and Lillian Adelaide Watson.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

For reasons unknown, the street car motorman comes in for very little criticism, yet there are many cases on record at the Traffic Bureau where motormen have not only been involved in fatal accidents but in some cases have been responsible for serious injuries, and and even death.

A rather distracting habit of these motormen is their rapid and continual ringing of their bells. The average motorist is not driving along the streets with the sole object of blocking street cars, yet the car operators seem to get a keen delight out of stamping on their bells, which only ends in disconcerting the auto driver.

The accident figures to date are:

	1932	1933
Deaths	3	2
Injuries	128	163
Accidents	220	120

"Be Careful!"

LONG AND M'KELLAR BLOCK DISTRICT AID

McNary to Make New Effort Today to Reach Ballot on Capital Relief.

Senator Huey Long's continued filibuster against the Glass banking bill, combined with Senator Kenneth McKellar's insistence on an amendment to the deficiency bill restricting tax refunds, yesterday again prevented Senate approval of the $625,000 local emergency relief item.

The banking bill today will continue the Senate's unfinished business. Senator Charles L. McNary, assistant Republican leader, again will attempt to displace it temporarily with the deficiency bill, containing the local relief item.

The principal barrier now to early passage of the relief measure is the McKellar tax refund amendment. A motion will be put today to waive the rule against legislation on an appropriation bill, so the McKellar proposal can be disposed of. A two-thirds vote is required.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, yesterday suggested that the District apply to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for relief funds. He asked if this had been considered by the Appropriations Committee.

Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, replied that the District has no security of its own to pledge as other municipalities have, and Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, said Congress would have to take any action in that direction.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, asked whether any portion of the $625,000 proposed to be appropriated for local relief would come out of the Federal Treasury. Senator Bingham replied that it would be met out of the city's cash working fund. Blaine said he had no objection to the relief item, but wanted to show that the Federal Government is appropriating either directly or indirectly for local relief, while it makes no provision for the rest of the country.

Eastern High to Bar Nonresident Pupils

Because of the heavy enrollment expected at Eastern High School on February 1, nonresident pupils, other than those now enrolled, will be refused admittance, it was decided by the Board of Education yesterday on recommendation of Superintendent Frank W. Ballou.

Eastern now has an enrollment of 2,581 pupils. It will be increased to 2,795 on February 1, Dr. Ballou said. Increased enrollment at the new Roosevelt High School may necessitate transfer of some pupils from this school to Central and McKinley, it was announced.

Man Freed in Shooting On Victim's Statement

Assistant United States Attorney Roger Robb yesterday dropped a warrant charging John Costello, 30, with assault with a dangerous weapon on William Kappel, 31, of Second and P streets northwest, when Kappel informed him that he did not know who had shot him.

Kappel was shot last December in a party on Seventh street. Two women, arrested when it was learned that he was seriously hurt, said they did not know who had shot him, and when Kappel came forward with the same information, the warrant accusing Costello was dismissed.

DISTRICT BEER PLAN BACK IN COMMITTEE

Palmisano's Wet Judiciary Body May Consider It on Tuesday.

The District beer-for-revenue bill yesterday was back in the hands of Representative Vincent L. Palmisano's wet judiciary subcommittee, after members of the House District Committee supported Chairman Mary Norton in her reference of the measure to that group

Hearings on the local measure have been tentatively set for next Tuesday morning, before the subcommittee. They were to have been held today.

Representative Wright Patman, dry Texas Democrat, whose protest brought the measure before the full committee yesterday, made a futile effort to have final action delayed until passage of the Collier national beer bill. He lost his motion on a point of order made by Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, who introduced the bill. Patman failed in an effort to have the measure referred to the fiscal affairs subcommittee.

Three bills were favorably reported by the committee yesterday. They included measures to give Wilson and Miner Teachers' Colleges accredited standing, and to raise manual training and vocational schools to the status of junior high schools, to exempt from "diploma mill" regulations institutions which carry on their work in foreign countries, and to remove a limitation of $25,000 on contributions to orphan asylums.

Representative Black's demand for a House District Committee investigation of the bonus army evacuation of Washington will be made the special order of business at the next session of the committee. Black said he will call the District Commissioners and other officials before the body to explain from whom they received "instructions" during the disorders.

Man Guilty in Woman's Slaying.

After five hours of deliberation, a jury in the court of Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in District Supreme Court, late yesterday found Butler Settles, colored, guilty of second degree murder in connection with the slaying of Eva Martin, colored, in Southwest Washington, last September. Settles will be sentenced next week.

Quarterly Tax Act Sought in District

Copeland Introduces Bill in Senate; Extension of 90 Days Provided.

Payment of taxes on family dwellings, occupied by their owners, would be made here in quarterly installments, under a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat) New York.

His bill provides also for a 90-day extension of time on tax payments, where owners can show the District tax assessor that unemployment or other emergencies make it impossible to meet payments when due.

Under the measure, tax payments would be made in the District in September, December, March and June, after 30 days' notice in each case from the tax assessor's office.

Where property is sold for delinquent taxes the measure would require 30 days' notice to the defaulting party. Any error in the tax assessed would invalidate the sale.

For the remainder of the 1933 fiscal year the assessor would have to bill owners of family dwellings by March 15 on taxes to be collected in April.

American U. Citizens Headed by Arthur Carr

Arthur Carr, former president of the Washington Real Estate Board, was elected president of the American University Citizens Association to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Gilbert L. Rodier.

Meeting at Hurst Hall, the association discussed the need of an elementary school in the neighborhood, and appointed a committee to draw up a petition for the purchase of a site for the school. They also discussed the improvement of streets in the vicinity.

Traction Merger Faces New Delay

Washington Railway Firm Directors Fail to Name Group for Study.

No action toward affecting a merger of the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway Co. is expected before the latter part of this month, it was indicated yesterday, after directors of the Washington Railway failed to name a committee to confer with a similar group representing the Capital Traction Co.

Stockholders of Capital Traction will elect a new board of directors today, after which a merger committee will be named, but the Washington Railway stockholders do not meet until January 21.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, yesterday stated that the commission would be glad to cooperate with the street railways after the two committees had drafted a plan of consolidation. Until that time, however, the utilities body is powerless to act.

Girl Shot

As She Saves Father From Hoodlum's Fire; Motive Is Being Sought.

The motive for the shooting of Miss Ethel Dicken, 20, who was wounded when she pulled her father from an open window as a hoodlum opened fire on him early yesterday, was being sought last night by headquarters detectives.

Her father, Phillip Dicken, proprietor of a stall in Union Market, was arousned by noise in the rear of their home at 801 Longfellow street.

"Who's there?" he shouted after he had raised a window.

"Come on, Nick," one of a group of men in an automobile shouted to a man loitering near the Dicken garage.

The man opened fire at Dicken. The girl pulled her father out of range, and in doing so a bullet struck her hand.

District Property Demand Falls Off

Delinquent Tax Sale Here Shows Municipality as Chief Bidder.

Two days of the annual District realty property sale for delinquent taxes indicate that the Municipal Government will have to bid in the greater portion of the tax titles. On the first day 2,000 were bid in by the District and 773 were sold, and yesterday the great majority also were bid in, though no figures were available at closing time.

There are about 22,000 lots to be sold, as compared with 20,000 last year, when $375,000 was netted. This year's sales will continue through next Tuesday.

Two of the foremost bidders of past years are absent this year. They are Manuel Faust, of Cleveland, and C. H. Wiltsie, of Rochester, N. Y.

Priest Will Lecture Tonight.

An illustrated lecture, "The Price of Faith," will be presented by the Rev. James J. McVann, a Paulist missionary priest, tonight at 8:15 o'clock at 601 E street northwest. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Converts League of the Catholic Daughters of America. There will be a musical program.
